"Now you, Mr. Chairman, are perfectly familiar with the construction of the act or rule which prohibits a member from having a special interest in any bill pending in that body from voting on the bill. I recollect a few days before the adjournment of Congress, recently, that this precise question came up in that body, and it was decided that a certain member had not the right to vote on a question involving the rights of the Union Pacific railroad because he was a stockholder, and because in that particular bill he had a special interest. Now, that would be the case here. On the other hand, it has been decided, and I recollect, as an illustration of the proper construction of the rule, given to the case to which I refer, that where the act under consideration was a general law, affecting all similar institutions in the United States, the member had a right to vote; and the case of a member who was a stockholder in a National Bank was given by the speaker as a case in point, and the rule would not, in case of such member, being such stockholder, have a special or private interest that would prevent him from voting. I think that is the proper interpretation of this section, and I am surprised to find that any gentleman should give it any different interpretation. I suppose this clause is a matter of very considerable importance, and my impression is that a very large amount of the actual bribery of members of Congress and members of the State Legislature occurs in precisely the way that is prohibited in this section—that is that members upon the floors of these bodies are the paid and retained agents of parties having a special interest in the legislation that is to be enacted."

By Mr. McVeagh:

"I think the point of difference in the minds of many members is this: That if the people choose to elect a person who has antecedently sustained the relation of counsel to corporations, to represent them in the Legislature, they have a perfect right so to elect them, and he would have a perfect right so to serve, if that fact were known, that it was a relation existing antecedent to his election as a member of the Legislature, because otherwise it would narrow the right of the people to elect members of the Legislature."

By Mr. C. A. Black:

"To me it is repulsive; it is shocking to the common sense to say that a man who is elected to the Legislature to legislate for the whole people, independently, and not for any interest or corporation, shall become the paid agent of a person or corporation who has an interest in Legislation. The very thought of bribery or secret and improper influence, operating upon the mind of a public officer, whether Legislative, Judicial or otherwise, is repulsive to every one who desires honest legislation or faithful administration of justice. From the time of Bacon down to the present time, bribery and corrupt influences in high places, in theory at least, have been repulsive to every right minded man. No man who is supposed to represent the people or administer Justice should be the paid agent of any private party having an interest in the administration of Justice or in legislation. . . . After a man is elected, after he is sworn in, after he has promised, on oath, to support the Constitution and represent the people alone, he shall not then become an agent of anybody else but the people, especially any person or persons who have an interest in legislation. . . . I was going to speak as to the policy of electing an agent of a corporation to the Legislature, that the people have the right to do so, if they so desire. They know what they are doing, and act accordingly. But a person who is elected without such previous knowledge, a man who has not been the agent or attorney of any person or corporation, ought under no circumstances to become agent or attorney of any company or individual seeking, or having an interest in legislation."

Mr. Buckalew, one of the ablest and most learned men of the Convention, brought this crucial debate to a head in these significant words:

"I think, Sir, It would look very badly on the face of the Constitution to make the mere fact of attorneyship, continued of the election of a member of the Legislature, under the incorporated law of the State, bribery. Think of it. A mere appearance before a Justice of the Peace in some case where a corporation might be interested, an argument in the Supreme Court upon some question having no relation at all to anything pending before the Legislature, or likely to come before it, that that should be the deep and infamous offense of bribery. I think, Sir, it is one of the most astonishing provisions I have ever heard of. I would be willing to vote for a clause of this sort if the Committee on Legislation will bring it in, that is: that no attorney of any incorporated company shall be permitted to speak or to vote on any question in which his corporation was concerned while a member of either House. That would apply a familiar principle. If we put in the paramount law the doctrine that no member shall act upon any measure in which he is personally interested, that is a very proper regulation. I consider that it would be a good extension of that rule or principle to apply it to agents of incorporated companies, and say that they shall not represent their corporation by their own vote or their own speech. But I would not disqualify them from acting as agents of the people in the general business of the government of the State. Certainly the section I have indicated would be ample, and it is the only reasonable one which we can impose, if we are to impose any, in the fundamental law."

Mr. Buckalew then offered the section which became part of our Constitution by the narrow vote of 39 Yeas and 37 Noes.

Many cases have occurred in the British Parliament at different periods, which sustain the law stated by Mr. Buckalew and others of the Convention. The first of these cases occurred on the 12th day of June, 1604, in the House of Commons and is recorded on page 237, volume 1 of the Journal of that body as follows:

"Moved, that Mr. Seymour, a member of the House, and a party, might go forth, during the debate: which was conceived to be agreeable with former order and precedent in like cases, and was so ordered. And Mr. Seymour went presently forth at the door."

The second case occurred the 4th day of February, 1664, in the House of Commons and is recorded on page 594, Volume 8 of the Journal of that body. On the passage of a bill the vote stood 81 Yeas and 80 Noes when the following took place:

"But Sir Robert Paston, a member of the House appearing to be somewhat concerned in point of interest . . . ; and being numbered with the Yeas, and the question thereon arising, whether, by the orders of the house he should not have withdrawn; and Sir Robert to avoid engaging the house in debate, freely offered to withdraw; and that no advantage be had by his being told with the Yeas; and that the voices being then equal, Mr. Speaker declared himself to be with the Yeas: and so it was resolved in the affirmative, that the said bill be engrossed."

The third case occurred in December of 1796. This is known as the subscribers to the loyalty loan case, and is recorded on page 632 of Volume 52 of the Journal of the House of Commons and also on pages 684 and 687 of volume 47, Parl. Reg. In this case two members of the House subscribed to certain loans floated for the support of the government. Shortly after the loans, it was discovered that the subscribers were liable to incur a considerable loss from the subsequent depression of the fund out of which the loans were to be redeemed and paid off. The Minister in Parliament moved that a bonus should be paid the subscribers to save them any loss. The Resolution was carried by a vote of 36 Yeas and 35 Noes. Thereupon a motion was made that the votes of two of the members whose names appeared on the list of subscribers, and who had voted for the Resolution should be disallowed. The members in question were then heard in their defense, and having declared their intention not to profit by the bonus proposed to be given them, the motions to disallow their votes were decided in the negative.

The fourth case occurred the 4th day of July, 1800, and is recorded on Page 732, Volume 55 of the Journal of the House of Commons. The case arose out of a bill to incorporate "The London Company for the Manufacture of Flour, Meal, and Bread." A member who voted with the Yeas was named in the bill as a subscriber to the undertaking. A motion was then made that the vote of such a member be disallowed. He was heard in his place, and stated that he had paid no money towards this plan, but that he intended to subscribe to it, conceiving it to be for the public benefit, and then withdrawing, it was resolved that his vote be disallowed.

The fifth case occurred in the year 1881, and is recorded on Page 463, Volume 76 of the Journal of the House of Commons. This is known as the gold coin bill case. The bill had the tendency to increase the dividend on the Capital Stock of the Bank of England from seven to ten per cent. Various members of the House were members likewise of the corporation of the Bank of England, and owners of Capital Stock. A motion was made that such members had a direct interest in the passing this bill into law, and that their votes in favor of the same ought to be disallowed. The Speaker, in giving his opinion on this point, said:

"The rule was very plain. If they opened their Journals, they would find it established two hundred years ago, and then spoken of as an ancient practice, that a personal interest in a question disqualified a member from voting. But this interest, it should be further understood, must be a direct pecuniary interest, separately belonging to the persons whose votes were questioned, not in common with the rest of his majesty's subjects or on a matter of State policy. So it was, that on the canal bill, a person whose name is down as a subscriber could not vote."

Jefferson's manual says:

"Where the private interest of a member are concerned in a bill or question he is to withdraw. And where such an interest has appeared, his voice has been disallowed, even after a division. In a case so contrary, not only to the laws of decency, but to the fundamental principle of the social compact, which denies to any man to be a judge in his own cause, it is for the honor of the House that this rule of the immemorial observance should be strictly adhered to. (2 Hats., 119, 121; 6 Grey, 368).

For further authorities on this subject see Law and Practice of Legislative Assemblies by Cushing, Part 6, Section 2.

Hence, Mr. President, we submit that the gentleman from Tioga was unwarranted in his accusation wherein he has impudently political "hate and malice" to the gentleman from Armstrong and myself. The resolution requiring the members of this General Assembly to disclose their interests, if any, in the protection, distribution and control of milk in this Commonwealth is firmly entrenched upon the facts and the law now before us. A member of the General Assembly whose interests are without the inhibitions of the Constitution and the Law will not fear to make that fact known to his colleagues. Come, Mr. President, let us not be like so many hearts of geese that, like so many scurvy slaves, flee from the stern call of duty. Let us not, like so many human owlets, be vigilant at night and blind to day. Let us be honest, let us turn the light of day upon our own conduct and let us not confuse political "hate and malice" with the efforts of dutiful members to expose to the public scrutiny to repulsive corruptions that infest the Legislative machinery of our government.

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 134, entitled:

An Act requiring aliens to register with the Department of Labor and Industry and to carry, and upon proper demand to exhibit, identification cards; prohibiting the issuing of certain registrations and licenses to, or the employment of, aliens under certain circumstances; and prescribing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, with reference to this bill, Senate Bill No. 134, this bill provides that every alien over eighteen years of age shall be registered with the Department of Labor and pay an annual tax of five dollars. This is a subject upon which I would not want to be called on to make up my mind at this time. There are a great many things to be said on both sides of this question, but I think the bill passed had rather a hurried course through this Senate. For the information of my colleagues, so that they may know how this subject has been considered before, I should like to read some of the law, on the subject, dealing with cases of this kind.

I think personally that this is a Federal proposition, and not a State proposition.

I am not going to read the whole document which I have prepared. I will offer it in the record, but I merely want to call attention to the particular cases I think are in point tonight, to my colleagues.

In Limestone Co. vs. Fagley, 187 Pa. 193 It was held that the Act of 1897 P. L. 166 entitled "An act to regulate the employment of foreign born, unnaturalized male persons over 21 years of age, and imposing a tax on the employer of such person, etc." is unconstitutional because it offends against the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

In this case Chief Justice Sterrett said:

"The act in question clearly belongs to a vicious species of class legislation which too often finds its way into our statute books . . ."

He further said, "Evidently the act is intended to hinder the employment of foreign born, unnaturalized persons over 21 years of age. The act is hostile and discriminates against such persons. It interposes to the pursuit by them of their lawful avocations, obstacles to which others in like circumstances are not subjected. It imposes upon these persons burdens which are not laid upon others in the same calling and condition . . . The equal protection of the laws declared by the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution secures to each person within the jurisdiction of a state exemption from any burdens or charges other than such as are equally laid upon all others under like circumstances."

Railroad Tax Cases, 13 Fed. Rep. 722, 733.

In Truax vs. Raich, 239 U. S. 33 the constitutionality of a statute of the State of Arizona was questioned. This state law required every employer of more than five workers to employ not less than 80% qualified electors or native born citizens of the United States. The Act imposed a penalty upon employers violating this requirement, to wit: a fine of $100 or imprisonment for not less than 30 days, and also imposed the same penalty upon any employee who misrepresented or made a false statement as to nativity or citizenship.

Justice Hughes in his opinion said: Being lawfully an inhabitant of Arizona, the complainant is entitled under the Fourteenth Amendment to the equal protection of its laws.

"The description—'any person within its jurisdiction'—as has frequently been held, includes aliens. These provisions, said the Court in Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U. S. 356, 369 (referring to the due process and equal protection clause of the amendment), are universal in their application, to all persons within the territorial jurisdiction, without regard to any difference of race, of color or of nationality; and the equal protection of the laws is a pledge of the protection of equal laws."

The Court distinguished this case from McCready vs. Virginia, 94 U. S. 391 where the State of Virginia restricted the right to plant oysters to citizens, and from Patsone vs. Pennsylvania, 232 U. S. 138 where the state prohibited aliens from hunting wild game and said:

"The discrimination here involved is imposed upon the conduct of ordinary private enterprise."

Justice Hughes further said in his opinion:

"The authority to control immigration—to admit or exclude aliens—is vested solely in the Federal Government. Fong Yue Ting vs. U. S., 149 U. S. 698, 713. The assertion of an authority to deny to aliens the opportunity of earning a livelihood when lawfully admitted to the state would be tantamount to the assertion of the right to deny them entrance and abode, for in ordinary cases they cannot live where they cannot work. And, if such policy were permissible, the practical result would be that those lawfully admitted to the country under the authority of the Acts of Congress instead of enjoying in a substantial sense and in their full scope the privileges conferred by the admission, would be segregated in such of the states as chose to offer hospitality."

Answering the argument that the Arizona law was not a total deprivation of the right of the alien to labor, Justice Hughes said, in effect, if a 20% employment of aliens were sustained, the restriction might be extended to 10%, and further said:

"The restriction now sought to be sustained is such as to subject no limit to the state's power of excluding aliens from employment if the principle underlying the prohibition of the act is conceded. The discrimination is against aliens as such in competition with citizens in the described range of enterprises and in our opinion it clearly falls under the condemnation of the fundamental law."

I want to repeat that I am not so sure this is a wise or a good bill, nor am I certain it is a necessary one. On the other hand, I do not think that it is wise to adopt it with such speed—the question of what we do with aliens, I think will probably affect our right to discuss what is being done with aliens elsewhere. Therefore I am going to move, if the sponsor of this bill does not object, that this bill be referred back again to the committee for further consideration.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. SHAPIRO. I move that this bill be referred back to the Committee on the Labor and Industry, from which it came, for further consideration.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, moves that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Labor and Industry. Does the sponsor agree?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, as the sponsor of this bill I want to ask my colleagues in the Senate to vote against this motion, so that this bill can come up tonight for final passage.

I am somewhat amazed at our colleague from Philadelphia. Up until this time, I will admit, I had quite some respect for his logic and his reasoning, as well as his sincerity, but after he apparently attempted to deceive the members of this Senate who are not attorneys—and who for that reason may not understand legal opinions as the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, understands them—then I am afraid I must begin to lose some of this respect.

I would have much more respect for Mr. Shapiro, if he stood up here and told us, all of his colleagues, the truth as to why he objects to this bill. He knows as well as anybody the cases from which he cited, and the opinions from which he read are not in point—because he is astute enough a lawyer to know that the cases cited are absolutely not in point.

In the first place, he knows they are not in point because the first purpose of those statutes was to prevent and to limit employment of the foreign-born, and he knows that the purpose of this bill is not that. He knows that well, because he makes, so I understand, a complete study of all laws of all acts, of all these bills before they come up to a vote, and I take it, that he has also made a study of this bill.

I want to say in connection with my remarks at this time that I was very much impressed by the paper read by our colleague from Washington County, Senator Reed—I think it is very much to the point. I think it is something to which all of us should pay heed. This subject of relief is becoming unquestionably a monster in this Commonwealth and in this Nation. It is becoming what might be considered a Frankenstein, and I am afraid if we do not soon arrive at a solution, that the monster will eat us up.

The thing I cannot understand, however—and about this I spoke once before—is why men of the ability and calibre of the men who sit in this body cannot forget this strict partisanship; why there immediately arises on the other side of this body a determined effort to interfere with and to impede everything, apparently, that is proposed on this side. It seems to me that common decency itself would command and demand that we take into consideration the fact that there is something much greater to be considered than whether one is a Democrat or whether one is a Republican. Something above that, certainly, is Americanism; something above that is a Greater Power, that is, the Divine Power above. When this Senate convenes the Chaplain has given us, on each occasion, such a prayer that we should remember and should consider in our attempts to arrive at things which will accomplish good in this Commonwealth; but I am afraid that is becoming something of a matter of course to us; it is just something which, according to custom, is done, and, when it is said, "let it flee our minds" and forget it until the next time it is said.

I say that it is becoming increasingly important that the decent citizens of this country realize this: That there is now not only insidious propaganda permeating this nation, but there is determined action upon the part of many individuals to undermine Democracy in the government of this country. Coupled with that we have what we can see across the seas, where Democracy has gone out, where Nazi-ism, Fascism or Communism or any other isms has come up and where religion has gone down. How can any of the members of this Senate say that they would want to live in this nation or in this country if we had no religion in the country excepting the idolitry of some leader who has been strong enough to step out?

Isn't it something to ponder about? Isn't it something to pay heed to? Isn't it something that goes into your very homes, into your churches and into your schools? Isn't it something that becomes for you and yours the most important thing in your life? Yet we all know this. We have all thought about this, but what have we done? We do nothing!

This, I say—this bill for the purposes of compelling the registration of aliens is our first step for the purpose of getting some check on those individuals who are in this country not for the purpose of becoming Americanized, not for the purpose of becoming American citizens, not for the purpose of building up our American ideals and our American principles, but solely for the purpose of destruction, solely for the purpose of tearing down and undermining the government, nationally and in this Commonwealth.

For that reason I believe this bill is of great importance; it is the first step we can take on the right road to guard this nation and this State against those things which are boring from within.

Oh, some of you say, "How does this have anything to do with the relief situation; how does it have anything to do with the great picture?" Well, of course we have no statistics, and that is another purpose of this registration—so that we can get statistics. There is no way for anyone in this nation to determine how many aliens there are in this country or in this State at this time. We have our estimates, of those who are dealing with those figures, and I am informed that there are approximately one million such aliens in this nation at this time.

I am told that in Farview, an institution for the criminally insane, 16% of those who are committed there are aliens or unnaturalized citizens.

I am told that according to a survey made in New York State between 20% and 25% are such. Now, just think, as you are considering this matter tonight, that if this relief, as Senator Reed said, is becoming such a huge monster the thing to do is to start to cut down, to tear down, to start cutting out, at least, to cut out the rotten stuff in connection with that great load which this nation and this state are carrying?

This bill does not discriminate against naturalized citizens. I regard the naturalized citizen who believes in the American ideals and principles of Government as just as good a citizen as the American-born citizen; but I hold no brief for the alien who comes to this country and comes here solely for the purpose of securing the benefits and the blessings of this great nation of ours, and then has not enough common decency within himself that he is also willing to assume some at least some of the burdens of citizenship.

Is it right that you or I who are natural-born naturalized citizens should be penalized? Is it right that aliens should receive the same benefits as we receive and assume and carry none of the burdens of citizenship. You would not say that is right, and no fair-minded person would say it is right.

The purpose of this bill is to get some check on the aliens who are in this State. Those who intend to become citizens are exempt from this bill; it is only those aliens who do not declare their intention to become American and to become American citizens, and for that reason ask my colleagues to vote against this motion, and, when the bill comes up for final passage, vote in favor of the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, there is not very much that anybody gets out of six or eight years in the Senate except the friendships that he makes and the respect that he can gather from his colleagues, and I am sorry to learn that my friend from Allegheny has begun to lose respect for me. I want to assure him that I will not lose any respect for him at all for so unwarrantedly attacking my motives and integrity. I would rather attribute it to his newness in the Senate, where he has not learned to even though the Senator from Tioga and myself may bitterly fight on a bill, we never attack each other's integrity. We may question the arguments, but I am quite sure, as he gets older in the Senate and he finds what people who have been in the Senate have been doing—he has not had the good fortune to have had a bill introduced on the 28th of January, and have it reported out the 1st of March, have it given first reading the fourteenth of March, and according to the Calendar, second reading the 14th of March—that only innures to a Senator who has been here some years and not to the younger members of the Senate; but I attribute that to the enthusiasm and also the youth of the Senator from Allegheny in his term in the Senate. I am quite sure that his future experience will enable him to find out that when I deal with a matter of this kind I usually try to state my opinion, and I promise not to lose any of my respect for him. In fact I am quite sure my respect and admiration for him will grow, because as he grows older he will find he has done me a grave injustice and it may be that he may apologize.

I am not going to discuss the terms of the bill except to say for that many years this country has permitted aliens to come in, they have been in this country for a great many years, and I don't see any such importance in the matter of their being permitted to stay here a few days longer without registering and paying a five dollar tax. As a matter of fact, the bill does not go into effect until December 31, 1939.

Now, isn't it a terrible request to make, that a bill which cannot become effective until December 31, 1939, should be reported back to the committee which I think the Republicans control, and of which I think the Senator from Allegheny is a member? I am sure he can get it out within a few days without any difficulty. No chicanery on my part and no ulterior motives can keep that bill in committee. I may have a hard time getting it out if the other side do not want it out, but I am sure I have control over keeping the bill in committee.

I assure the members of the Senate that this is a very important subject. I am sure when they vote for this bill and pass it, they will get a lot of complaints from a number of people when they find that the Department of Labor and Industry has a right to make those people furnish such information about themselves as the Department sees fit—any information at all. They may require these people to give their color, their religion, or anything else that suits them, according to the way this bill is drawn.

If they don't give it they do not get this yellow ticket which they carry around in their pocket and must have ready to exhibit at all times upon the demand of any particular person when called upon to.

If it is necessary to register aliens for any specific purpose, that is one thing; but is it necessary to license them? Is it necessary to go to the extent that his bill seems to go.

On the other hand, does this bill give aliens a license which gives them some of the rights other people have, greater rights than others have—those who are not aliens.

These are the things I want to consider. Certainly I read the bill, certainly I know what the bill provides, and certainly I know and realize the seriousness of the picture which we are trying to correct; but I do not believe that there is such great importance about this matter that a request, which is ordinarily granted and has been for many years on both sides of this Senate, made by a Senator who has some obligation and some knowledge of his responsibility, who wants to look into the subject matter a little longer—in view of the fact that passage of this bill or its operation cannot be hurt because it does not begin to operate until December of this year; and I think the rest of the members of this Senate, who have been here a little longer, will not hesitate to join in the motion to allow this bill to come to receive a little further consideration and study from members of this Senate.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, at this time, since some reference has been made by my colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro as to my immaturity as a State Senator, and the fact that I am somewhat of a novice—which I admit, of course—I do want to say that I am doing my very best to learn; and, of course, we can only learn properly in proper surroundings, and at this time I would like my colleague from Philadelphia, as well as some of our other colleagues, to take heed of the fact that they are setting a rather bad example as teachers and instructors of the new members of this Senate.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ, to reconsider his argument and allow this bill to go over; and I will give my reasons, which may be different from those already expressed.

I come from immigrant stock, who unfortunately did not catch the Mayflower. It seems that my people did not have drag enough to get on the first boat but came along a century or so later.

Nevertheless, I am still an American and I intend to be one as long as the Lord provides me with life and breath. However, I think of the many so-called aliens whom I have personal knowledge of, who came to this country, were taken in flat cars out to the coal-mining communities, sent into the bowels of the earth, dug the coal, never had opportunity to attend any kind of school; never at any time did they get any training from anybody to enable them to pass examinations to become citizens, and after thirty-five or forty and even fifty years in this country—never having done anything contrary to law in this country, find themselves now ostracized because of the fact that through misfortune of their birth they are not permitted to be respectable inhabitants of the land to which they have given so much.

I do not hold any brief for any person able to read and write, who has had the facilities to enable himself to learn to read and write, who has not become a citizen.

I believe in the licensing, or, rather, a registration proposition, but I believe some consideration should be given to those men who came to this country in the early days and who at no time out and no opportunity to go in and get citizenship papers. I know, from stories told to me by my father, who happens to be a citizen—he came here when he was sixteen years of age—who was a citizen when he was in this land seven years, as required by law. I want to say that I ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ, to allow a few days so that we can discuss the question a little further and make provisions for those people who are not citizens but who are not aliens in the sense he would have us believe them.

I know we have a dangerous group in this nation, who would destroy the very foundations of Democracy, and I am against them; but I am not against these innocent old coal-miners who have but a few years to live, who have never done any wrong, and do not intend to do any wrong; and I think some consideration should be given to those people. They do not go out and try to destroy this country; they helped to build it up.

Why, in the early days there were agents who went around and tried to get these men to take out citizenship papers and those who could afford to pay those agents received their citizenship papers, and those who could not did not receive them, and I know that to be the truth.

I ask the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ, as a fellow Senator, to allow this bill go back into Committee, so that if it is necessary, the full committee can give consideration to the problem. I do not want to vote against this proposition, but I will vote to send it back to committee.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. GELTZ, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KUNKLE. Mr. President, I would like to know whether or not the Senator from Allegheny, or the committee that considered this bill has given any consideration as to whether or not the provisions of this bill conflict with any federal law.

Mr. PRESIDENT. I know of no federal law with which this bill conflicts. I do not believe that the subject matter of this bill has anything to do with the federal rights or federal law; it is a matter of regulation of responsibility within the confines of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, The Senator from Allegheny has not answered my question; he has given his personal opinion and he has not answered as to whether he or the committee heretofore have discussed or considered the question.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I tried to answer for myself. I can only answer for myself, and not for the committee. It might be well if the Senator from Dauphin, Mr. Kunkel, would interrogate the members of the committee.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire further to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire to know from the Senator from Allegheny whether he or any member of the committee have given consideration to the question as to whether or not the provisions of this bill conflict with the provisions of any treaty between the United States and a foreign power?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not know about the committee, but I have given no consideration to that fact, because this bill has nothing to do with immigration into this country, it has only to do with regulation of aliens within the confines of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire further to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire to know whether the Senator from Allegheny, or any of the members of the Committee, have heretofore given any consideration whatsoever as to the constitutionality or unconstitutionality of this bill?

Mr. GELTZ. Again, Mr. President, I cannot answer for the committee, but I can answer for myself—that I believe that this bill will be declared constitutional, if tested.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I desire further to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, if the Senator from Allegheny is vitally interested in this bill, I desire to know whether or not the Senator from Allegheny would object to consideration as to the constitutionality of this bill.

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I have no objections; and I might say at this time that I have no objections to this bill's going over on the postponed calendar; but I do have objection to it being recommitted, and I would ask my colleagues to vote against this motion to recommit.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the motion to recommit has not been seconded.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion. On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, agree that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will agree.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not want to embarrass any of the members of this Senate, and I am perfectly willing to withdraw my motion, and I will ask the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, who seconded the motion, to withdraw his second.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I withdraw my second of the motion.

The PRESIDENT. The motion is withdrawn.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 215, (House Bill No. 338), entitled

An Act to amend clause ten of section two and section three hundred one of an act approved the twenty-seventh day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1053), known as the "Public Utility Law" by excluding from the definition of "Facilities" as used therein property owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when the said act became effective and providing that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission shall have power to regulate and fix the rates for service furnished by public utilities owned by municipal corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania only when the public service being furnished or rendered by any municipal corporations shall be beyond its corporate limits and extending such freedom from regulation and control by the Commission to public utility service furnished or rendered by an operating agency of any such municipal corporation.

And said bill having been read at length the third time and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. Speaker, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill, be postponed for the present—for the purpose of a public hearing tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, by the Committee on Public Utilities.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I understand that a committee cannot consider a bill which is not in its possession. Since the bill is on the calendar and not in the possession of the committee they cannot hold a public hearing.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia is correct.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I therefore rises to a point of order and suggest that the Senator from Tioga is out of order, in view of my parliamentary inquiry, and the ruling of the Chair thereon.

The CHAIRMAN. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, before the Chair rules on that motion, I desire to state that my motion has the affect of keeping this bill on the calendar. I might state at this time, Mr. President, that we understand there is a concerted effort to delay consideration of this bill.

If at the time of the hearing by the Committee on Public Utilities it is found necessary to again take charge of the bill, for the purpose of amendment, it will only be necessary that the bill be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities. We do not propose however, by tactics to produce delay, to have the final action of this bill delayed, and if the Senate decides it is a good bill and the committee considers it should remain on the calendar and should be enacted.

I want to call attention of this Senate to the fact that if this bill is referred back to committee, recommitted to the committee after a hearing, and re-referred to the Senate, it cannot be acted upon until Wednesday, and if there is not a quorum here Wednesday it will mean the bill cannot be passed until next Monday night. This bill vitally affects the City of Philadelphia, and we want to keep this bill on the calendar so that if the Senate desires to act upon it it will be before them for action.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I do not want to set any more mad examples to my colleague from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz. He knows or has learned in this short time, that no bill can be handled by a committee, or a public hearing held on it, if that bill is on the calendar.

Can you imagine the consternation of the Senator from Allegheny if he should find that I had joined with the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Owlett, in moving that the committee consider a bill that it does not have?

The applause the Senator from Allegheny received convinces me that we want to be careful how we teach these younger students, and I suggest the Chair should not fall into error, because the Chair may be criticized even from the other side.

If you break all the rules we have set up on this side for twenty-five years—I do not know of any other instances during the past twenty-five years in which a bill on the calendar was given to a committee, for a public hearing—unless it was referred back to that committee.

Now, the Chair has already ruled that the motion is out of order, and I hope the Senator from Allegheny will not get any more bad lessons.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, my motion was to place this bill on the postponed calendar, which motion is always in order. For the information of the Senate, I stated to the Senator that the Committee on Public Utilities intends to have a hearing on this bill tomorrow. If those opposing the bill do not care to appear before the Committee, they need not appear. If the Senate wishes, it can refer it to committee tomorrow.

I submit, Mr. President, that the point of order of the Senator from Philadelphia is not well taken, because my motion is merely to place this bill on the postponed calendar. I stated the purpose of it merely for the information of this Senate.

Mr. JASPAN. I desire to interrogate the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will be glad to be interrogated.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, is this bill an emergency bill?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, apparently it is. It has passed the house and it is now in the Senate. It was considered by the Committee on Public Utilities and reported out last Tuesday. It has had two readings and is now on final passage. Last Wednesday when this bill passed second reading the statement was made by some of our Democratic colleagues that they wanted a hearing on this bill, that it vitally affected Philadelphia, and they wished to be heard on it. We wanted to give them the hearing requested, but we do not propose that, through a motion to recommit, the opportunity of the Senate to finally pass this bill, if it is determined it should be passed, should be prevented by this motion to recommit.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, for the purpose I have just stated I now move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar, where it can be called up at any time.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Tioga.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga state wherein that bill affects Philadelphia and to what extent?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I take it a motion to place a bill on the postponed calendar is not debatable. If the Senator desires discussion on this bill it can be done when it is up for final passage. The motion now before the Senate is that it be placed on the postponed calendar.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is well taken.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Supreme Court has before it a question which, unless it is passed on by the Supreme Court, makes this bill, so far as Philadelphia is concerned, innocuous. We asked for a public hearing because we believed—at least I believed—it not only affected Philadelphia but also the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

I am sure the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, knows that I am over twenty-one years of age. It is now half-past eleven, if that clock has not been stopped. If anybody is to come here from Philadelphia to attend this hearing—which the Senator from Philadelphia graciously offers us for ten o'clock tomorrow morning, I suggest—

I hope it is not necessary—but I suggest that he realize that I am not fooled by that. My purpose in objecting to the motion is because he said, in connection with the motion, that it was for the purpose of holding a public hearing. That is no public hearing. Let the Senator from Tioga either say he wants to give us a public hearing or he does not, and then I will discuss the merits of this bill or agree that the bill be recommitted.

The Senator from Tioga knows we can not have a hearing on this bill tomorrow, not if we are going to follow parliamentary law, and I think we should follow these parliamentary laws in connection with these bills, and I ask the Senator from Tioga to answer the question I now want to put to him. Will the Senator from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. OWLETT. I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. My understanding, Mr. President, from the Senator from Tioga is that the purpose of placing this bill on the postponed calendar is to have a public hearing at ten o'clock tomorrow morning.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, for the information of the Senator from Philadelphia, and for the information of other members of the Senate, I desire to state that I advised the Senator from Philadelphia at nine o'clock, when he returned from the Republican caucus, that we proposed to have a public hearing on this bill. I did that so that he would have opportunity to notify his people in Philadelphia to be here, so, first I want to get clearly on the record that he is not getting his first notice of the public hearing at eleven-thirty; he got it at nine o'clock tonight, which was the first opportunity we had to advise him.

Secondly, my understanding is that the Committee on Public Utilities proposes to invite before it tomorrow at ten o'clock, those that have professed an interest in this bill, and who wish to oppose it, and the committee will hear anything that they have to say. If the Committee at that time concludes that the bill should be recommitted, a proper amendment can be made. If it decides that the bill should pass it is on the Calendar, and these tactics will not have delayed final passage of the bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, do I understand the Senator from Tioga, to say that a hearing will be held at ten o'clock tomorrow morning?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I repeat what I told the Senator at nine o'clock this evening, that the Committee on Public Utilities proposes to have a hearing tomorrow morning at ten o'clock.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is quite true, the Senator from Tioga told me that at nine o'clock this evening. He said a hearing was going to be arranged for ten o'clock tomorrow, and I think the Senator from Tioga will remember I said to him that is ridiculous, because it is impossible to get anybody here now or get any notice to anybody in the event that they should be here at ten o'clock in the morning.

I think that we are entitled to a little more consideration on this bill. This is another one of the bills that came over here last week, was in committee five minutes and then was reported out. I am not going to get angry about it, because hasty legislation of this kind bears its own toll. But I suggest to the Senator from Tioga that he read this bill very carefully before it is passed, because if I know anything about it, this bill takes away from the Public Utility Commission any power over any utilities. I suggest that before this bill is passed—I want to be on record—as having called attention of the committee to the fact that that bill should be given a little more study.

This is the kind of legislation to which the other side referred when the Democrats were passing legislation in a hurry, as the kind that would come home to roost. I am interested in the legislation, not in the position of having to say I told you so, but I am suggesting that for the record, and, secondly, I am suggesting to the Senator from Tioga, he can have a hearing on this matter on Wednesday and give some reasonable opportunity to those who are interested in the bill to be notified to appear, and therefore, I am going to ask my colleagues to vote "no" on the postponement of this bill, because we cannot—and the Senator from Tioga knows we are not going to put him in the embarrassing position of asking him whether he doesn't know that no committee can consider a bill without it being in their possession.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, in order that this record may be kept straight I do not want it to appear that the Senate is preventing a proper hearing on this bill, I would like to call the attention of the Senate to the debate that took place in this Senate on March 15th, when this bill came up for second reading.

It was at that time that the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro stated that a public hearing should be held on this bill, and it was then suggested by my colleague from Philadelphia, Senator Woodward, that a hearing be held last Wednesday. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, at that time protested that that was too soon, and it was pointed out that this bill would be in control of the Senate on Monday night, and a hearing could be held, but it was clearly indicated to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that it was supposed to have a prompt hearing, as in the words of Dr. Woodward, "time was of the very essence of this bill."

It is totally unfair, Mr. President, as I see it, for the Senator from Philadelphia to infer that proper notice has not been given. If they wanted a hearing on this bill they should have been here tonight, and I submit that anybody that heard that debate in the Senate last Wednesday, and was really interested in bringing before this Senate whatever objections they might have to this bill would be prepared for a hearing today or tomorrow, because the whole tenor of that debate indicated that was when a hearing would be held. I do not propose, Mr. President, to have the Senator from Philadelphia, put the majority in the position of having stifled any hearing on this bill.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am very sorry, but I will have to put the majority in exactly that sort of position. I asked, Mr. President, last week, that we be given a hearing, and the Senator from Tioga said—and the record will show—that we could take up the question of a hearing next week, and Dr. Woodward suggested a hearing the next morning, which is just as good as we are getting now, and no more. I asked that a hearing be held a day or two after I made my motion, which was refused. I interrogated the Chairman of the Public Utility Commission as to whether he would grant a public hearing. The Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Pierson, stated he could only answer for himself; that he would be in favor of a public hearing, if the Committee was in favor of it. How could I possibly get a public hearing without action of the Committee?

Neither the Senator nor myself is in position to give a public hearing in this matter unless the committee wants it. The Committee is the only one that can fix a time for a public hearing, and here the Senator from Tioga is breaking all the rules and precedents. He stands up on the floor of the Senate and says he will see to it that I get a hearing tomorrow morning at ten o'clock. I will place the majority in the position they have placed themselves by telling me and my colleagues we could have a hearing tomorrow morning. They have no authority to fix a hearing. Only the Committee can fix the time and place of a public hearing, and here is an important matter, taking away from the Public Utility Commission the right to fix rates for every city in the State. I am particularly interested in Philadelphia. The passage of this bill will make it possible for a rate—in a particular industry—to be fixed for seventeen years.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, is not talking on the motion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think I am. It is very important in discussing the effect of placing a bill on the postponed calendar—but when you are talking about giving us a hearing tomorrow at ten o'clock I would call that ridiculous. I say to my friends on the other side I am sorry that I must place the majority in the position in which they are placing themselves. You talk about the delay, I asked for a hearing last week and I was told to renew my motion tonight. I kept faith last week with the other side by saying we had agreed that there should be no controversial questions raised. If we had raised the question last week we had enough votes to carry the motion but I would not take advantage of the situation, any more than my friend from Tioga would take advantage of it and he certainly should not stand up here tonight and say I am placing him in the position in which he finds himself by his own conduct.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion,

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. OWLETT and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—25

Bartlett,	Eroe,	Mallery,	Stevenson,
Chapman,	Farrell,	Miller,	Tallman,
Crowe,	Gelder,	Owlett,	Thomas,
Dando,	Heyburn,	Pierson,	Walker,
Detrick,	Homsher,	Scarlett,	Wolfenden,
Ealy,	Letzler,	Snowden,	Woodward,
Edmonds,

NAYS—21

Calvacante,	Haluska,	Lanus,	Rice,

Dent,	Jaspan,	McGinnis,	Shapiro,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 12, entitled:

An Act for the prevention of congenital syphilis providing for and regulating the taking of serological tests of women pregnant with child and requiring notation thereof on the birth and stillbirth certificates of their children imposing duties upon the Department of Health and upon physicians and other persons attending women pregnant with child.

The first section of the bill was read as follows and agreed to.

Section 1 Every physician who attends any women pregnant with child for conditions relating to pregnancy during the period of gestation or at delivery shall take or cause to be taken a sample of blood of such woman at the time of first examination or within fifteen (15) days thereof and shall submit such sample to an approved laboratory as hereinafter defined for a standard serological test for syphilis. All other persons permitted by law to attend women pregnant with child but not permitted by law to take blood samples shall cause a sample of the blood of every such pregnant woman attended by them to be taken by a duly licensed physician of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and submit it to an approved laboratory for a standard serological test for syphilis.

The second section of the bill was read as follows:

Section 2 For the purpose of this act a standard serological test for syphilis shall be a test approved by the State Department of Health and shall be made at a serological approved to make such tests by the State Department of Health. Such laboratory tests as are required by this act shall on request of the physician submitting the sample and on his certificate that the patient is unable to pay be made without charge by the State Department of Health.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I move to amend sec. 2, page 2, line 14, by striking out the word S "serological" and insert in lieu thereof "laboratory." Amend sec. 2, page 2, line 15, by striking out the word S "laboratory" and insert in lieu thereof "serological"

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The third and fourth sections of the bill were read as follows and agreed to:

Section 3 In reporting every birth and stillbirth physicians and others required to make such reports shall state on the certificate whether a serological test for syphilis has been made upon a specimen of blood taken from the woman who bore the child for which a birth or stillbirth certificate is filed and the approximate date when the specimen was taken and if the test was not made the reason why it was not made.

Section 4 This act shall become effective one (1) year after final enactment.

The title of the bill was read as follows and agreed to:

An Act for the prevention of congenital syphilis; providing for and regulating the taking of serological tests of women pregnant with child; and requiring notation thereof on the birth and stillbirth certificates of their children; imposing duties upon the Department of Health and upon physicians and other persons attending women pregnant with child.

And said bill as amended having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Section 1 That to meet the emergency occasioned by the extraordinary decrease in tax collections due to business depression and widespread unemployment it shall be lawful for any county city borough township of the first and second class and school districts to issue and sell at not less than par bonds bearing interest at a rate not exceeding six per cent (6%) per annum payable in not more than ten (10) years from the date of said bonds in an amount not exceeding the amount of uncollected taxes due on real estate at the date of the enactment of the ordinance or the adoption of the resolution authorizing such action less a sum sufficient to pay the interest and taxes covenanted to be paid thereon. Any subsequent borrowing under the provisions of this act shall be limited to an amount which when added to the amount or amounts previously borrowed shall not exceed the amount of the uncollected taxes less a sum sufficient to pay the interest and taxes covenanted to be paid on the amounts previously borrowed and proposed to be borrowed and the proceeds of any bonds created under the provisions of this act by any such municipality or quasi municipality shall be used only for the payment of the operating expenses of such municipality or quasi municipality.

Section 2 For the purpose of creating a sinking fund for the payment of the principal and interest of the bonds created under the provisions of this act and any taxes covenanted to be paid thereon the governing bodies of the municipalities or quasi municipalities issuing same shall annually (until payment of the said bonds and the interest thereon and any taxes covenanted to be paid thereon be fully provided for) levy and collect in addition to the other taxes a tax sufficient to pay the interest and principal of said indebtedness and any taxes covenanted to be paid thereon within ten (10) years from the date of said bonds. Such taxes shall be called the "Emergency Sinking Fund Tax" and shall be paid into the treasury of such municipality or quasi municipality and shall be kept separate and distinct from all other funds in a fund to be called "Emergency Sinking Fund" and shall be applied to the redemption of said bonds and the payment of the interest and taxes if any thereon and to no other purpose whatsoever and said bonds when so redeemed shall be cancelled.

Section 3 Each ordinance or resolution authorizing the issuing of said bonds shall recite an amount of the uncollected taxes then due at least equal to the amount of the proposed issue of bonds which amount of uncollected taxes so recited shall become a trust fund for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of the interest and taxes if any thereon and it shall be the duty of the secretary or clerk of the governing body to credit the emergency sinking fund with such taxes and of the treasurer of such municipality or quasi municipality to deposit in the emergency sinking fund immediately upon receipt thereof any and all said uncollected taxes provided that the amount of said uncollected taxes received and deposited in the emergency sinking fund in any year may be deducted from the amount of the annual tax levied for the year following to be levied and collected for the redemption of said bonds and the payment of the interest and taxes if any thereon.

Section 4 Any person who shall directly or indirectly apply or use any of said uncollected taxes to or for any purposes other than to deposit the same in the emergency sinking fund shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be fined in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars ($1,000) or imprisoned for a term not exceeding one (1) year or either or both in the discretion of the court.

Section 5 The trust fund and the emergency sinking fund covering each issue of bonds under the provisions of this act shall be alike numbered and in consecutive order and the amount thereof as well as the uncollected taxes due and collectible shall be deducted from the gross indebtedness in ascertaining the net indebtedness of such municipality or quasi municipality.

Section 6 The temporary emergency power hereby granted shall be in addition to the powers granted to such municipalities or quasi municipalities to issue and create indebtedness under existing law.

Section 7 Any bonds issued under the provisions of this act shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution of this Commonwealth and the act approved the twentieth day of April one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four (Pamphlet Laws sixty-five) entitled "An act to regulate the manner of increasing the indebtedness of municipalities to provide for the redemption of the same and to impose penalties for the illegal increase thereof" as supplemented and amended and shall require the approval of the Department of Internal Affairs.

Section 8 This act shall become effective immediately upon its approval by the Governor and remain in force and effect only for six (6) years thereafter.

And said bill having been read at length the second time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOMSHER. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to ask the Senator from Lancaster, Mr. Homsher, as the sponsor of this bill, whether or not he believes this bill is a tax increasing bill.

Mr. HOMSHER. No, Mr. President, it is in connection with the enactment of the Mansfield Act.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator from Lancaster know that this bill authorizes cities to increase taxation because of the bill?

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, it is against uncollected taxes.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is right. I do not know whether the members of the Senate know it or not but I should like to call attention of the sponsor of the bill to the fact that this bill not only permits cities of the first and second class to borrow money on delinquent taxes but it also authorizes them to increase taxes to an amount sufficient to pay off that borrowed money.

In other words, in your city, or my city, Philadelphia, after we borrow $12,000,000 or $15,000,000 on the delinquent taxes we can impose additional taxes on the tax payers to pay that money off, notwithstanding the fact that these taxes would never be collectible, and I therefore—if the Senator from Lancaster has no objections—I would suggest that he refer this bill back to committee for further study because I understood it was not his intention to introduce a bill which would increase taxes, and I am quite sure he would want to study this a little further.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on second reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 138, the bill just read, be recommitted to the Committee on Education, for the purpose of further consideration.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 188, (House Bill No. 80), entitled:

BILL ON SECOND READING

An Act to amend sections one and two of the act, approved the twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 1982), entitled "An act authorizing the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to prescribe rules of practice and procedure in civil actions at law and in equity in certain courts of this Commonwealth, to prescribe rules and regulations for the conduct of any general business, either civil or criminal, by judges of any court of record; authorizing the courts of common pleas to prescribe and adopt local rules, not inconsistent with such general rules of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania; authorizing the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to appoint a Procedural Rules Committee, and to fix and define its powers and duties; imposing duties on judges and other officers of every court of record," by including the municipal court of Philadelphia.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeable to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 206, as follows:

An Act requiring applications for licenses or permits to be accompanied by a per capita school tax receipt for the last calendar year preceding the year in which the application is made and making exceptions as to applicants residing without the Commonwealth or in school districts where no such tax is imposed or those exempt by law or action of the tax levying authorities. The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 No license or permit shall be issued or granted by any department agency board of commission of the Commonwealth to any person over twenty-two years of age unless the application for such license or permit shall be accompanied by a per capita school tax receipt for the last calendar year preceding the year in which the application is made issued in the name of the applicant.

Section 2 The provisions of this act shall not apply where the applicant is not a resident of this Commonwealth or is a resident of a school district which does not impose a per capita school tax or is exempted by law or by action of the tax levying authorities.

Section 3 All acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 4 This act shall become effective the first day of September one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of Senate Bill No. 215, (House Bill No. 338), postponed.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

It was agreed to

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 215, (House Bill No. 338), on final passage be recommitted to the Committee on Public Utilities for the purpose of a public hearing.

Mr. FREY. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, this is the bill we have just been discussing, Senate bill No. 215, that was just put on the postponed calendar a short while ago. I ask the Senate to vote "no" on the motion to recommit.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Tioga.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Tioga permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett, state whether or not it is not fact a few moments ago he said that he intended there should be a public hearing on this bill?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I understood from the members of the Senate they proposed to have a public hearing on this bill tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, and I so notified the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, at nine o'clock this evening.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, will the Senator from Tioga tell the members of the Senate if it is possible to have a public hearing on a bill which is not in possession of a committee.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, it is entirely possible and it has been done in this Senate. In the last session of this Senate a hearing was held on a bill which remained on the calendar. The committee can ask the Senate to recommit the bill after the hearing, if they desire to have it in the committee for further action. I thought I made that clear.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I still do not understand that the Senator from Tioga, Mr. Owlett has answered my question. My question, Mr. President, is whether it is in accordance with parliamentary law that a hearing should be held by a committee when a bill is not in their possession?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I know of no law of parliamentary procedure which prohibits such action.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I suggest again to that the Senator from Allegheny that he should not pay any attention to this lesson we are having in school tonight, because it is a bad lesson.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I would like to call the attention of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, to the fact that tomorrow morning the bill can be sent to the committee, so that it will have possession of the bill when the hearing is held.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Susquehanna.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Susquehanna, Mr. Gelder, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, what is the objection to sending this bill back to the committee tonight?

Mr. GELDER. Frankly, Mr. President, the objection is that we want the bill to be on the calendar so that it will be noted on the calendar tomorrow, and then it can go back. We do not want our friends on the other side to retard the passage of the bill. While we do want to extend to them the courtesy of a hearing that was suggested last week, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, was on notice last week that there would be action at this time.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to serve notice on my colleagues that I do not propose to attend any public hearing on any bill that has not been handled in a proper parliamentary manner. I am not going to subject myself to criticism from the new members of this Senate, from the younger members of this Senate, nor am I going to set any bad example.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I should like to inquire from the chair as to what motion we are voting on?

The PRESIDENT. The question is on the motion to recommit Senate Bill 215, (House Bill 338), to the Committee on Public Utilities for a public hearing.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Shapiro and Mr. Frey, and the clerk proceeded with the call.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I should like to state the reasons for my vote on this bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I suggest there is nothing before the Senate but the roll call.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is well taken.

APPEAL FROM DECISION OF CHAIR

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I appeal from the decision of the Chair.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Tioga will state his point of order.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, an appeal from the decision of the Chair must be in writing.

The PRESIDENT. The point of order is well taken, the appeal must be in writing.

The yeas and nays were as follows, viz:

YEAS—20

Cavalcante,	Gilson,	Lanlus,	Rice,
Coleman,	Haluska,	McCreesh,	Ruth,

So the question was determined in the negative.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. President: The bill before us, Bill No. 338, is designed to amend the Pennsylvania Public Utility Law of 1937. If this bill was just one of the many offered to this Session, it would perhaps pass unnoticed, and be unworthy of special mention.

But the bill is distinctive in that it was introduced at the instance of the Phila. City Council as part of a scheme that has little counterpart in Penna. Legislative history. To picture the background of the bill, I shall recite a few earlier facts that occurred in connection with it.

The City of Phila. now receives $4,215,000 annually, as rental for the lease of the City owned Gas Works to the Phila. Gas Works Co., a subsidiary of the United Gas Improvement Co. In one of its many make-shift efforts to avoid bankruptcy and in its desperate effort to balance its budget for the present year, the City has offered to sell its gas rentals for a number of years in order to obtain $50,000,000. The only bid received was that by the Phila. Corporation headed by one A. Webster Dougherty. Dougherty's proposal in brief is:

That his Company would pay the City of Phila. $50,000,000 for all rentals due and to become due the City for the next 17 years 4½ months, and interest on all unpaid balances, but in any event if the $73,500,000 in accumulated rentals demanded by Mr. Dougherty for the payment of the $50,000,000 to the City was not paid by August 1, 1955, the City will forthwith (1) levy a special tax to provide for the payment to the Corporation of such deficiency out of current revenues of the City, and (2) irrevocably appropriate to such payment all revenues received by the City from such tax. In short, Mr. Dougherty demands $73,500,000 in accumulated rentals for the payment of $50,000,000 to the City, assuming that there is no default in payments. Mr. Dougherty further insists it shall be determined by a final decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania or counsel for the Corporation shall be otherwise satisfied:

(a) That the City has power to enter into the transaction herein contemplated and that the same will not result in an unauthorized increase of the indebtedness of the City.

(b) That during the period of the assignment neither the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, nor the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, nor the City of Philadelphia, nor any other governmental agency (other than the Gas Commission) shall have power, without changes in the present Constitution to modify, reduce, or regulate the rates for gas.

(c) Unless the approval of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to the Agreement, to the Amendment, to the Assignment, and to all other instruments, if any, involved in the transaction be obtained, that such approval is unnecessary.

7. The Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, unless it shall be determined as provided in paragraph 6 hereof that its approval is unnecessary, shall approve of the Agreement, of the Amendment, of the Assignment, and of all other instruments, if any, involved in the transaction.

Now to effectuate this fantastic scheme, House Bill No. 338 was introduced by Representative Tahl ostensibly to deprive the P. U.C. of jurisdiction over the Phila. Gas Works, but actually stripping the Commission of all authority over all municipally owned but privately operated plants throughout the city and state. According to this legislation the Gas Company will be allowed to fix any rates it chooses without supervision or regulation by any agency in the state except the Gas Commission of Phila., a body made up of five members, two of whom shall be elected by City Council from amongst its members, one shall be appointed by the Mayor of the city, one by the Gas Company and one shall be the City Controller. In other words, the City of Phila. in its desperate exigency is called upon not only to sell the future of its most valuable piece of property, but is asked to join in a scheme to remove from the citizens of Philadelphia their last safe-guard against increased gas rates already burdensome, in order to guarantee Dougherty's company the unrestricted right to collect heavy fees from the users of gas while at the same time giving the U. G. I. and its subsidiaries access to a gold mine of its own.

A representative of the City, appearing before the Public Utility Committee of the Senate last Tuesday when this bill came up for discussion, attempted to convey the impression that the lease as entered into by the U. G. I. and the City was not a lease agreement and further, did not call for the payment of any rentals to the city and tried to emphasize very strongly the fact that the P. U. C. had refused to take any action on the 1937 lease for the past 15 months and therefore it was necessary to present this bill. He also tried to convey the impression that the Phila. Gas Works as a party to the agreement where hirelings of the City and should not be considered as a public utility, private utility or operating company.

I am sorry to say that the City's representative was not very truthful with our committee. The fact is that the agreement entered into between the City and the Gas Works was a lease agreement, and further, it called for the payment of rentals by the operating company, the Phila. Gas Works, a subsidiary of the U. G. I. The fact of the matter is that the P. U. C. did not hold up the approval of the lease for 15 months, but it was passed by Council in December, 1937, and was not approved by the Mayor of the City of Phila. until October, 1938, when it was sent to the P. U. C. for approval. This very representative who appeared before our Committee represented the Mayor in proceedings before the Court to have the Gas Works, returned to the city, alleging waste and mismanagement by the Phila. Gas Works, and further, demanded the return of moneys he claimed that the Phila. Gas Works owed the City. Another reason for the Mayor's refusal to sign until October, 1938, was that the Mayor felt that the reduction of 5c was too small (.90 to .85) and that the rate payers of Phila. were entitled to a better break. These are facts and I have before me an extended agreement indicating the dates when the Mayor signed the 1937 lease and sent it to the P. U. C.

If anything, the Gas Works Company has prevented the signing of the new lease by having questioned the right of the P. U. C. to assume jurisdiction and fix rates under the temporary rate clause. The fact is that the P. U. C. assumed jurisdiction and reduced the rates to $.85, the amount set forth as the rate in the lease of 1937. The Phila. Gas Works Co. stayed these proceedings by an appealing to the Dauphin County Court where the matter is now pending. If this matter is decided in favor of the Phila. Gas Works, there is no need for this bill, insofar as Phila. is concerned. The City of Phila., however, is not willing to bide its time, but in desperation will attempt to deceive and cajole the Legislature into the belief that there is immediate need for passage of this bill. Their complaint against the P. U. C. is ill-founded. If anything, through the efforts of the P. U. C. the City of Phila. has obtained reductions in electric rates to the extent of $5,000,000, and that certainly is helping our rate payers. The Phila. Elec. Co. did not object to these reductions. However, the City Council and U. G. I., believing that a careful examination of the books, records and equipment of the Phila. Gas Works will cause the P. U. C. to order a substantial reduction, are moving heaven and earth to prevent this by stripping of authority over the Gas Works Co. so that the U. G. I., City Council in connivance with the Gas Commission will keep the rates up so as to assure Mr. Webster Dougherty's company his money.

AND WHO IS This company sponsored by A. Webster Dougherty that by a flourish of his finger asks that the Supreme Court of Penna. and the Legislature and Council to do his bidding? AND who is A Webster Dougherty? Who are the men behind him? No one knows and there exist the startling possibility that the men for whom he is fronting might well provide by the right to fix future gas rates in the City without restraint. May I ask, "Are A. Webster Dougherty and the U. G. I. two arms of the same body?"

It is the significant that A. Webster Dougherty and his company will not trust the P. U. C. to fix rates but will trust the Phila. Gas Commission. It is equally significant that City Council want the Public Utility Law also amended that the portion which provides for inspection of, and access to facilities of the utilities shall be thereafter nullified and that thereafter these functions be performed by the Phila. Gas Commission which lacks the funds and experts with which to do these things without aggravating an already overburdened City treasury, aside from the loss of that great administrative experience which the Public Utility Commission has been able to provide. Instead of the impartial, thorough and able supervision by the P. U. C. we are to have by this proposal an unholy alliance between a Gas Commission controlled by the agencies presenting this proposal and the men who are to most profit by it.

A. Webster Dougherty and his company has given no assurance against an increase in the gas rates. We can hardly expect that. If anything, the rates will remain the same for the next 17½ years and probably go higher in order to guarantee his money. Further, without any supervision by the P. U. C., what would happen to the affairs of the Company? What would happen to the City-owned property if in desperation to collect back its rentals, A. Webster Dougherty's company connived at running down the plant and destroying its efficiency?

Nor is Bill No. 338 introduced by Mr. TAHL FREE from other vices. While presumably aimed at freeing the Phila. Gas Works from Public Utility Commission control by its very words it also releases from that same control a score of other companies operating municipally owned property including our own P. R. T. which operates the city-owned Frankford L. and Broad St. Subway. In their mad haste to enact this legislation, the architects of the plan overlooked the fact that the P. R. T. also could fix higher fares with approval of Council and without any regulation by the P. U. C. There is no commission—Mr.

Dougherty has struck a hard bargain, not conceding a single point to the City or its gas-users for he even dictated in his proposal that he reserved the right to change its terms until all his demands were first satisfied and even after the city accepted his offer and the Supreme Court declared that plan legal he could still refuse to fulfill his end of the bargain without any penalty. Are we to stand by and permit our chosen representatives both in Council and in the Legislature to lend themselves to a scheme engineered by A. Webster Dougherty, the U. G. I. and the City to further exploit the rate-payers of our city. City Council has just applied its stamp of approval to this nefarious scheme.

Bill No. 338 makes no express reference to the municipally owned gas plant in Phila. nor to the proposed sale of the rentals for $50,000,000. And further, the so-called proposal dated March 13, 1939, submitted to the Phila. City Council by the Phila. Corporation of which A. Webster Dougherty is the head does not require the enactment of House Bill No. 338 as a condition precedent to the $50,000,000 deal. So why the haste and rush. This bill affects every family in the City of Phila. and certainly their interests should be considered. The rate-payers of Phila. have already lost 600,000 by reason of the fact that they paid $.90 for the gas for the past when in fact they should have only paid $.85 and this will continue for at least 17½ years with a possibility of an increase over the $.90. If Council is sincere, why not sell the Gas Works for approximately $70,000,000, and free it from control of the U. G. I., a company that is also the holding company for the Phila. Elec. Co. The U. G. I. would object to it fearing open and free competition in both commodities (Gas and Electricity). As it is the U. G. I. has been scuttling the Gas Works for the benefit of the Phila. Elec. Co. from whom they obtained annually $20,000,000 as against $800,000 they have been receiving from the Phila. Gas Works Co. The gas sales in the city of Phila. during the year 1937, the city deviated a total of 18% below the national curve, but the electric sales of the Phila. Elec. Co. was in harmony with the national rate of growth. This, I attribute to the deliberate policy of gas sales strangulation pursued by the Phila. Gas Works Co. for the sole enrichment of its affiliate, the Phila. Elec. Co. With unrestricted competition between gas and electricity, statistics definitely show that it results in lower rates for both commodities. Cleveland is an outstanding example. Again I repeat, let Council sell the Gas Works, and if $70,000,000 can be obtained for it, at least we will have $20,000,000 additional to the $50,000,000 and interest of $23,500,000 will be saved and interest on unpaid balances, and further, will do away with necessity of raising taxes in the year 1955 to meet any deficiency in rental payments to Mr. Dougherty, and above all, the rate-payers of Phila. will obtain a substantial reduction in the rate of gas.

The Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, which was enacted as a result of, and shortly after, the FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION inquiry, clearly disavows the common control and operation of gas and electric facilities in the same community. And, according to sections 8 and 11 (b) of this Act, the operation of the City-owned gas works by the United Gas Improvement Company, a registered holding company, is repugnant to the letter, spirit and intent of the Federal law.

While this bill is designed ostensibly to deprive the Penna. Public Utility Commission of jurisdiction over the municipally owned but privately-operated gas works in Philadelphia, it actually removes all municipally-owned utilities in the State from the protection and benefits of the Public Utility Law of 1937. Several hundred municipal corporations—operating water works, lighting plants, etc., affecting hundreds of thousands of consumers—are thereby adversely affected.

Let's examine the amendment and ask why it was so amended so as to include the word expressly. True enough, the Act of 1913 exempted property owned by a municipal corporation except as elsewhere provided herein, but did not include the word "expressly". Do the Senators of this body appreciate the significance of the word "expressly" which excludes any implications whatsoever as to the meaning of any section of the act where a municipal corporation is referred to? This bill vitiates the following important sections of the present Public Utility Law insofar as municipally-owned utilities are concerned:

(a) Section 501, which prescribes a system of accounts for municipal corporations for the efficient management of their utility property and the proper protection of the consumers.

(b) Section 503, which embraces depreciation and the depreciation reserve to be maintained by municipal corporations in order to adequately safeguard the utility property and assure a high standard of service in accordance with modern engineering practice and experience.

(c) Section 507, which gives the P. U. C. the right to inspect the books and records or all municipally-owned utilities, thereby insuring the high quality of service essential for the safety, health and welfare of all consumers.

(d) Section 903, which enables the Commission to enforce satisfactory standards of service by municipally-owned utilities.

(e) Section 910,

Few, if any, municipal corporations can afford to maintain engineers, accountants and other experts which the Public Utility Commission now provides for the supervision of utility services. And without such expert supervision, the health and safety of hundreds of thousands of our citizens are seriously jeopardized.

Under the Public Service Company Law of July 26, 1913, effective, January 1, 1914 (predecessor of the present Public Utility Law), in Article 2, Section 1 (i), and Article 5, Section 15, municipally-owned utilities under the protection and supervision of our State regulatory body. So you can see that under the laws of 1913 and 1937, municipalities owning utilities and municipality-owned utilities operated by private utilities and utilities generally had the protection and supervision of the State Regulatory body, and House Bill No 338 removes that protection of the P. U. C. over municipally-owned plants and municipally-owned but privately operated plants setting the clock back more than 25 years and forcing hundreds of communities in our State to be governed by primitive utility standards.

This bill is of a general nature and vitally affects every municipally-owned utility in Pennsylvania. It might be argued that it offends, Art. 3, Section 20:

"Section 20. The General Assembly shall not delegate to any special commission, private corporations or association, any power to make supervise, or interfere with any municipal improvement, money, property or effects, whether held in trust or otherwise, or to levy taxes or perform any municipal function whatever," but the Supreme Court of the United States in testing the constitutionality of such sections, held time and again that the General Assembly may delegate to a power to a special commission within defined limits and the setting up of P. U. laws and Public Utilities Commission to supervise municipalities offering public utility service is proper and does not offend the Constitution of the State. This bill, if enacted, will perpetrate a gross fraud on an unsuspecting public and municipalities as well. As to Phila., it is a deliberate steal. Unquestionably, the City council is selling its rate-payers down the river. City council, needless to say, through this nefarious scheme that will bind the people to a contract over which subsequent legislatures and councils will have no power to modify unless the courts come to their aid. I am not the Supreme Court, nor is anybody else in this chamber a member of that Court, and there is no telling as to what they might do next? Penna. Supreme Court has fixed today as the date for argument on the legality of the plan of the City of Phila. to sell the gas rentals to the Phila. Corporation, and assuming for argument sake that this bill is intended to apply to Phila. only and the Court should declare that the plan as to the sale of the gas rentals legally defective, what would then be done about House Bill No 338 if it becomes law.

If the Legislature is desirous of assisting the city of Phila. in the solution of its chaotic financial situation, the bill should be amended so as to apply only to the Phila. Gas Works. Personally, I doubt its constitutionality. However, if the financial plight of Phila. is merely a convenient excuse for the enactment of House Bill No 338 which affects the entire state, it is only fair, decent and honorable to allow every municipality embraced by the bill an opportunity to be heard at a public hearing, as well as the P. U. C., the utilities themselves and last but not least, the rate-payer, who in the final analysis "foots the bill". Decency and common sense dictates that so important a bill be given special study and consideration, especially in view of the fact that it affects millions of rate-payers in the state of Pennsylvania, notwithstanding the fact that some members of City Council, frantic with rage, is leaving no stone unturned in a desperate attempt to rush it through both Houses without giving the public chance or the municipalities to be heard on the bill. This is no emergency bill. I, personally have contacted certain members of the Council who have advised me that they see no reason why a public hearing should not be had. Gentlemen of the Senate, this is not a politically inspired bill and let us forget politics with respect to this bill and vote our consciences. I plead with you to allow a public hearing in the matter so that the cause of the rate-payer and municipalities can be heard.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution and were as follows, viz:

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

At the beginning of another critical week in the history of civilization, when statesmen of democratic nations stand agape at the march of a dictator. Grant we beseech Thee, O God, to guide the saner nations of the world in the mobilization of opinions rather than armies. Our minds should be free to solve our own problems of human welfare. Grant, O God, to endure these Thy servants, elected by the citizens of this Commonwealth with a sense of divine wisdom that they may chart the course of our Ship of State so that the ports of real accomplishment may be reached in safety.

Protect our native land, O God, and spare us, if possible, from the carnage of warfare. We reaffirm our faith in the democratic ideals which have blest our country through its history. We love and appreciate our freedom. Help us, O God, to maintain this freedom. In the language of Irving Berlin, we pray—

"While the storm clouds gather Far across the sea,
Let us swear allegiance
To a land that's free;
Let us all be grateful
For a land so fair,
And we raise our voices
In a solemn prayer.

"God bless America,
Land that I love,
Stand beside her and guide her
Thru the night, with a light from above;
From the mountains, to the prairies,
To the oceans white with foam,
God bless America
My home sweet home."

Amen.

debt service in school districts of the first [and second] class shall not exceed four-tenths of one (1) per centum and in school districts of the second class shall not exceed three-fourths of one (1) per centum and in school districts of the third and fourth class shall not exceed one (1) per centum of the total amount of taxable property in such district and the total indebtedness for such purposes together with all other indebtedness incurred without authorization by vote of the electors of the district shall at no time exceed two (2) per centum of the last total assessed valuation of the taxable property therein. All temporary indebtedness remaining unpaid at the end of the fiscal year shall be paid in the same manner as hereinbefore provided.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

ADDRESS BY MR. BAKER

Mr. BAKER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House:

Mr. Speaker, when I addressed this House last week I hoped I would find it within my power to hold my peace thereafter.

I admit my mistake, Mr. Speaker, with shame.

Shame not for myself, but for the Republican party in Pennsylvania, for its alleged former breaker-boy who heads the present Administration, and for his boon companion and adviser, the mystery man from Texas.

Mr. Speaker, I would have been better advised if I had added six words to last week's address. Those six words would have shown me a keener student of public affairs, understanding better the Republican Party and the present State Administration.

I should have placed three of those six words at the beginning of my address. Those three words are:

"The James Catastrophe."

And at the end of my remarks, I should have placed these three words:

Tonight, I find myself forced to present Chapter 2 of "The James Catastrophe—a story of Bad Faith, Broken Promises, and the Texas Bull."

Bad faith was with the Republican party in the fall campaign when it made promises it well knew were impossible to keep.

Broken promises, product of Republican bad faith, are everywhere in Harrisburg today.

The Texas Bull was in Pennsylvania last fall under one name as a friend of Judge James and is with us today under his real name as minister without portfolio to Governor James.

Bad faith, broken promises, and the Texas Bull are "fellow travellers" of the Republican Party in Pennsylvania.

Mr. Speaker, it was bad faith which lead Judge James and his satellites to promise lower taxes last fall.

Many were deceived, as the election returns will show you, into thinking that by some sleight-of-hand the Republican Party could go right on supplying necessary public services demanded on all sides today without making anyone pay for it.

You can't blame the people.

They saw a judge of our Superior Court, and a former lieutenant governor at that, promising he would cut taxes.

The people thought his word was good. They thought he knew how.

But today the people of Pennsylvania face a tax increase.

The same daily press which once so enthusiastically reported the Judge's promises to cut taxes now calmly quotes the Governor's remark that it may be necessary to impose an amusement tax.

Why doesn't he tax the utilities?

Why doesn't he tax Pew's oil riches?

Why doesn't he tax Annenberg's dope sheet profits?

Why doesn't he tax Grundy's money bags?

Mr. Speaker he can't, any more than he can tax Col. Estes' Texas ranch.

The utilities, Pew, Annenberg, and Grundy own the governor and the gentleman from Texas keeps his property out of the Governor's reach.

So now it would appear we are to be asked to tell the tired steel worker, the underpaid clerk, and the weary housewife:

"Pay the state another nickel so big business can cut another mellon."

I wonder if any of the majority party's leaders know what it's like to be poor?

I wonder if Governor James ever stood hungry in front of a lunch stand, wondering whether to buy a bowl of soup or a cup of coffee with his last nickel?

I wonder if Joe Grundy ever scrimped and saved and went without lunch once a week so he could see a movie Saturday night and forget his cares?

I wonder if Col. Estes thinks of a nickel as anything more than a monument to the buffalo which was crowded off the Texas plains by the cattle barons?

I wonder if any of these gentlemen think of a nickel in terms of a cup of coffee, a sandwich, or a bar of candy for the baby?

I wonder if they know that a nickel—or whatever the James amusement tax may be—is a big sum to many workers in this state?

A sum big enough to keep thousands from the movies?

A sum not to be spared from thousands and thousands of domestic budgets in towns and cities of Pennsylvania?

The rich man can spend a nickel extra to see a movie and never miss it.

A nickel is only a nuisance to a man with an income of $10,000 to a million a year.

But how much more is a nickel to John Jones, who supports his wife and three young children on $25 a week?

The Jones family can't afford an extra quarter to see their neighborhood movie each week, but that doesn't bother the Republican party and its Governor, the alleged former breaker-boy from Luzerne County.

It might be better, Mr. Speaker, to institute a gross receipts tax such as that suggested by a Republican in the other chamber of this Assembly, if the Republican Party simply must break its eat-your-cake-and-have-it-too promises.

But I predict that the Big Business men who put the Republican Party in power never will permit enactment of such a statute.

If new taxes are levied, they will be levied against the poor man.

That item in the James Catastrophe, Mr. Speaker, is companion to another. I refer to Mr. James' newest, wrapped-in-cellophane gift to Boss Pew.

I say wrapped-in-cellophane because you can see right through it.

The gift to which I refer is the repeal of the Oil Industry Investigation Commission.

Properly conducted, within the framework prescribed by the courts, that Commission could unearth many of the evils of the demoralized oil industry in Pennsylvania and propose remedies for their correction.

Properly conducted, and let alone by the Republican Party, that Commission could be a life-saver to the 28,000 hard-pressed filling station owners in the state.

Properly conducted, that Commission could discover anew that a brand name on gasoline means little or nothing, that the big oil companies never lose in a price war, that the oil companies are launching their propaganda over the state under phoney, high-sounding names sponsoring news releases and radio speeches.

But Oil Man Pew makes a profit the way things are, so breaker-boy James and Estes, the Texas Bull, are going to burn a law.

Thus the James Catastrophe.

Nor did the utilities go empty-handed last week.

The Public Utility Commission was demoralized by a payless payday.

Governor James made further strides in his sabotaging of the Commission with a two-third cut in staff.

Mr. Speaker, why not be honest about it? Why doesn't the Republican party introduce a bill abolishing regulation and allowing the utilities to charge the homeowner as much as they want for light, gas, and power?

Thus the James Catastrophe.

Nor did the Grundy interests, financial and industrial, go empty handed.

A Republican bill seeks to abolish the Securities Commission and hand its duties to the State Banking Department.

Mr. Speaker, if that bill is jammed through this legislature, the widows and aged of this state again will be prey to the stock jobbers.

Republican administrations of the past permitted Pennsylvania's banking structure to become honeycombed by dry rot, loose practices, and downright fraud.

Republican Banking Departments in the past lacked the courage to police the banking fraternity.

This Republican administration is no different from past Republican administrations: there is no reason to suspect that a party which feared the banker will spank the broker.

The administration would abolish the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and turn its powers over to the General State Authority.

Then the Administration would seize control of the Authority and, at the same time, of the Commission.

They say this is just a plan to seize a fistful of patronage.

I wonder if it could be a subtle, devious way for the Governor to wipe out 10,000 potential jobs for Pennsylvania workingmen by blocking the all-weather highway?

You will remember the governor first threatened to cancel the highway project. Then he promised he would let this great program proceed.

I wonder if that promise means any more than his other promises?

I wonder what's in back of the impending bill to abolish the State Housing Board? Do the great estates which own our slums also have a share in the governor?

Is the governor preparing to sabotage our housing projects, that the rich landlords may keep their slum tenants at the expense of decent American living standards for the poor?

Mr. Speaker, when Judge James last summer promised to "burn" all progressive legislation passed by this House in the last four years, he panicked his advisers.

They denied their alleged former breaker boy ever said that. They tried to blot out this glimmer of truth in a campaign of falsity.

We who voted for the Democratic candidates knew he meant it.

We predicted just what Judge James is trying to do today.

Quietly as possible, indirectly, deviously, he is working to nullify every decent piece of legislation enacted in the last four years.

Generally, as with the Public Utility Commission, he works under the disguise of economy. That is not economy, Mr. Speaker, but sabotage.

The Democrats promised and delivered to the people enlightened public utility legislation. Now the Republicans, afraid to erase it from the books, thwart the act and the Commission by firing men and women whose salaries were paid, not by the taxpayer, but by the utilities they regulated.

The Democrats promised and sought ways of relieving the Pennsylvanians independently engaged in the oil industry. Taking refuge in a court decision, the Republicans remove this peril from the big oil interests.

The Democrats promised and are delivering decent housing to the underprivileged. The Republicans will, if they can, destroy these projects.

The Republicans promised to balance the budget and cut taxes; they are doing neither. Rather, they will raise taxes.

The Democrats promised and delivered flood control; the Republicans under their man James seek to wipe it out under the guise of "states rights," but actually hope to aid the utilities at the expense of the millions whose homes and earnings will be jeopardized.

The Democrats promised and delivered humane, progressive legislation for the people; the Republicans promised but have and never had any intention of delivering excepting to their board of directors.

Mr. Speaker, the James Catastrophe is here.

We cannot flee, for we are Pennsylvanians.

We were born here, we live here, and we hope, when the day comes that we must pass from this earthly scene, that we will die here.

But long before that day comes, we will drive away the jackals that gnaw at the prostrate people of Pennsylvania.

We will drive off the Grundys, the Annenbergs, and the Pews.

We will send Estes, that man of many names, back to Texas.

We will end the James Catastrophe.

BILL RE-REFERRED

Mr. OMINSKY returned from Select Committee on Public Assistance, with a recommendation that it be re-referred to a standing committee, House Bill No. 7, entitled:

An Act terminating the legislative authority given certain political subdivisions of this Commonwealth to impose a tax upon sales of tangible personal property.

The SPEAKER. The bill is re-referred to the Committee on Welfare.

REPORTS FROM COMMITTEES

Mr. WILKINSON from the Committee on Municipal Corporations reported as committed, House Bill No. 24, entitled:

An Act prohibiting any political subdivision from imposing any income or occupation tax upon non-residents.

Mr. WILKINSON from the Committee on Municipal Corporations reported as amended, House Bill No. 556, (Senate Bill No. 79), entitled:

An Act permitting the county treasurer, with the consent of the county commissioners or the approval of the court, to adjourn county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes in all counties, except counties of the first class, and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands.

UNANIMOUS CONSENT REQUESTED

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to request unanimous consent of the House to call up on the First Reading Calendar, page 2, House Bill No. 474, Printer's No. 65, which passed first reading, for the purpose of moving that said bill be recommitted to the Committee on State Government for the purpose of further study and amendment.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would request the gentleman from York to withdraw his request for the moment. The Chair will recognize the gentleman subsequently, in order that we may save time. We are on the business of resolutions.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rose to ask unanimous consent of the House to make a motion. If the Chair desires that I delay the request for unanimous consent, I shall do so.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does so request, because the Chair is somewhat in doubt whether the gentleman needs to ask for unanimous consent. If the gentleman will yield for a moment we will take up the order of business and subsequently recognize the gentleman.

ADDRESS BY MR. HARKINS

Mr. HARKINS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and Ladies and Gentlemen of the House of Representatives. May I call your attention to a matter which has caused grave concern to the citizens of Western Pennsylvania during the past few days. I refer, members of the House, to the proposal of the Peoples Natural Gas Company made public last Friday that the rates charged small consumers be increased.

This increase would adversely affect 90% of the people using gas furnished by the Peoples Gas Company because it provides that the greatest boost in price shall be borne by those consumers using 15,000 cubic feet or less of gas per month. The protests of the City of Pittsburgh, through its Council, is expected to take the form of a resolution to empower the City Solicitor to enter the case in protest of any increase. County Commissioner, John Kane, has already indicated that the services and personnel of the Allegheny County Law Department and the Engineering Department will be made available to Allegheny County Municipalities which may intervene in litigation opposing such an increase.

The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is vitally interested in this situation as this rate increase, which it is estimated will add $1,200,000 annually to the coffers of the Peoples Natural Gas Company, will be absorbed in a large measure at least by persons who are unemployed and who are on relief. This means that as a relief client's gas bills increase his expenditures for food must decrease. These people are defenseless against such a rate increase unless protected by a Governor interested in proper utility regulation, a legislature in preventing those on the relief rolls from being gouged to fill the treasuries of the utility companies, and a Public Utility Commission which has the courage to block such brazen attempts to increase rates before any justification of the present rate has been made.

My friends I do not fear the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission as it is today constituted. It has been and is doing an excellent job since reorganized with the proper powers as set forth in the 1937 Act. But my friends, not only I but many of the people of Pennsylvania are wondering where Governor James stands on this issue. While many who are loyal supporters of Governor James consider such an action by this large Utility Concern to raise rates as an affront to the Governor, Governor James stands by idly and says nothing. Or maybe he is standing silently in the background ready to take a position which the shifting winds of political convenience indicate would be most favorable to a presidential candidate.

To Governor James I would only say: Governor, why stand you mute on the utility question as you did on Flood Control. Would you have Allegheny County Republicans desert your utility program as they deserted your Flood Control policy? Would you stand by speechless, if this rate increase, increased the rates to be paid by business and industrial concerns instead of slightly reducing their rates? Or would you then have rushed to the aid of the industries when you now leave the home owners and renters to be plundered at will by such increases? May I ask, Governor James, have you called the attention of the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to this rate increase?

Let us now see what the attitude of the House of Representatives is towards this question. But pause for a moment fellow members and check your House History where on Page 140 there appears House Resolution No. 30, Serial No. 54, introduced by me on March 8, 1939 and referred to the Committee on Rules. While I know you can easily see at a glance that this resolution applies to the Philadelphia Company and not to the Peoples Natural Gas Company, nevertheless, a real similarity exists between the Equitable Gas Company, a subsidiary of the Philadelphia Company, and the Peoples Natural Gas Company. It is expected also that the Equitable Gas Company, which I am informed now charges rates comparable to those of the Peoples Natural Gas Company, will soon seek to increase its rates if the Peoples Company is successful.

It is clear to me that all of the subsidiary operating companies of the Philadelphia Company pay exorbitant sums to companies also owned by the Philadelphia Company, and whose profits are not regulated or limited by the Public Utility Commission, which, therefore, have readily been adopted into convenient agencies by which the operating companies are milked of all possible revenues, thereby causing such financial crises as the Pittsburgh Railways Company now finds itself in, namely, bankruptcy.

If the Equitable Gas Company can afford to have its profits diverted and milked by reason of intricate corporate set ups, and if its rates are presently comparable to those of the Peoples Natural Gas Company, why then it naturally follows that the rates of the Peoples Natural Gas Company are at least high enough, if not already too high.

May I take this opportunity to implore of all the members of the Rules Committee that they give serious consideration to House Resolution No. 30, Serial No. 54, and that they report it out. You of the majority have nothing to fear, as the House and Senate are now controlled by members of your Party. If the evidence cannot be found to show that these involved and intricate corporate combinations are only set up for the purpose of maintaining unjustifiably high rates, then this committee can give such holding companies a clean bill of health.

Now Mr. Speaker, in order that the people of Pennsylvania may know where we as legislators stand on this issue, of increasing utility rates, I have prepared a resolution and I now ask unanimous consent of the House to present it, and I ask that it be read for the information of the members.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Allegheny is out of order. The gentleman asked unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. HARKINS. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution and ask unanimous consent of the House to have it read for information of the members.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent for the reading of the resolution at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objections and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

ADDRESS BY MR. WAGNER

Mr. WAGNER asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, may I first allay your fears and suspicions by telling you that I have no intention to read this voluminous amount of information which I hold in my left hand. However, I may refer to it occasionally to quote from some figures which I feel are pertinent, not only to you but to me and to all the citizens of this Commonwealth, and particularly to those who have children in our public schools.

I am speaking especially tonight for my colleagues and friends in Schuylkill County about a condition with which I am thoroughly familiar, and which generally I have no doubt, exists in other parts of the state as well. First I want to tell you of conditions among our school districts in Schuylkill County; then I would like to tell you what I have done to try to alleviate the serious ills of our school districts, particularly our teachers, and finally I want to ask our friends: Are there not measures that we may take to help where help is needed, very seriously needed and genuinely deserved?

First of all, in the county of Schuylkill, in about thirty-nine out of sixty some school districts, school bonds are in default, employes other than teachers, as well as the teachers, have not been paid for months; fuel, light, text books, and supplies have not been paid, in many cases, for the same length of time.

Tuitions due and owing are in default; transportation payments are in arrears. The total amount, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, for a little over half of Schuylkill county, default and arrearages amounts to $487,818.18. That is the picture in Schuylkill county, in many parts of which the teachers have not been paid for two, three and four months, and in some cases as far back as last May.

Now, what is the cause of this situation? Well, there are a number of contributing factors, not the least of which is the fact that each succeeding session of this House insists on making it easy to evade the payment of taxes, which the people will continue to do, whether they can or cannot afford to pay them, as long as the Commonwealth sees fit to encourage them in that delinquency.

Another argument is the fact that three coal companies in Schuylkill County owe for school purposes alone, taxes in arrears to the following extent:

Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron Company	$790,571
Hudson Coal Company	40,002

Now, if you please, this condition may be due to lack of profits on the part of the coal companies, but there are, in addition to the coal companies, individual taxes due and owing and in arrears, in the sum of one hundred ninety-two thousand dollars to county institutions, and two hundred and three thousand dollars in municipal taxes, and twice that much in school taxes.

Will you just bear with me for a moment until I tell you the amount of unpaid teachers' salaries. In forty out of sixty some school districts in Schuylkill County, on December first, if you please, we owed our school teachers but have not yet paid them, one hundred thirty-eight thousand two hundred and twenty-two dollars. On March first that sum had grown to two hundred sixty-six thousand eighty-eight dollars, and on a most conservative estimate, if you please, the amount of teachers' salaries that will not have been paid and which will be due up to the first of June, 1939, is somewhere between five hundred fifty thousand and six hundred thousand dollars, in Schuylkill County alone.

Now, members of the House, we have taken some measures to see if we could get help. We have taken our situation to the Department of Public Instruction; we have laid before them the seriousness of this situation, and all that we found available to help all of these teachers, all of the school districts in all parts of the Commonwealth was eight thousand dollars. We have had our committee meet with the Speaker of the House and with the Governor of Pennsylvania, and while he listened to them very sympathetically and very understandingly, he proceeded to point out the fact that there was very little that he could do until he had authorization, unless the money was provided. I presented a resolution in this House which called upon the Department of Justice to find some way to intervene in these bankruptcy cases to see if some corporation tax money could not be released, and just the other day in conference with Attorney-General Reno he summed up the situation as far as he could as it exists legally which amounted to the declaration that there is practically nothing legal that the Department of Justice can do as the set-up now exists. He recommended and I in turn recommended to the school districts that their attorneys intervene in the Federal court that is hearing the bankruptcy cases and ask for the release of any moneys that might be liquid, but I know the answer they are going to get. They are going to be told that the limited amount of money on hand can be used in only one of two ways; they can either pay their taxes and stop operations, or they can use the cash which they have to maintain the pay-rolls until receipts are greater, and thereby keep people employed.

I don't relish the idea of standing here addressing you at length on this subject this evening; the more speeches I hear the less inclined I am to make one. I certainly have no intention of ham-stringing the Governor. I am not even going to blame this on the minority party, because it is a situation which does not call for abuse but which calls for aid to the most necessary type of citizen for which the legislature is responsible.

I stood enraptured by that beautiful prayer of the Chaplain this evening in which he expressed the fact with which we are all familiar, the awful condition that exists in European countries, and that we and the other democracies should pray that the democracies might be sustained. Can we sustain them, I ask you, by letting teachers try to live up to the standards that the teaching profession exacts from them, and then let them go for six, eight or ten months without wages? Do you know that in Schuylkill county alone, six weeks ago, fifty-five members of the teaching profession were receiving public assistance? In other words, they were on relief. Six teachers have already resigned their positions because they simply cannot sustain themselves economically on what the Commonwealth doesn't see that they get. Do you know that teachers have come to my house with an experience of six, eight and ten years, with degrees of more significance than just plain B.S., who have earned their increments, who should be sitting pretty and protected by tenure and yet they are continually asking me to use my influence to get them a clerkship at $1040, if that is the best we can do for them in Harrisburg. I don't have the heart to tell them what little political influence we Representatives have, because they are in such distressed circumstances.

Now truly I approach you on this subject this evening, my friends, quite reluctantly. I have a lot of respect for the Vice President of the United States, Mr. Jack Garner, far more respect for him than the particular party that he represents, but that is neither here nor there. Mr. Garner, I understand, has been telling his colleagues during elections for the past twenty or thirty years that the two sure rules for progress and success in politics in Congress, are first, to make sure that you stay there, and secondly, to let seniority do its work. Now, I would be perfectly satisfied to take that course here if it were not for the fact that I am not yet fully persuaded that I want to stay here. That depends on developments and I am not sure that if I care to stay, the citizens of my legislative district would care to have me come back two or three times. Now, if all those things were true, those people for whom I speak tonight will be emaciated and starved long before seniority could do its work.

I ask you tonight, isn't there something that we can do eventually to put an end to this condition in this great Democracy, about which the Chaplain prayed, since it is going to depend upon the boys and girls of the coming generation, who in turn depend upon the teachers who are sustained by public funds to teach them? Can we sustain this Democracy by tearing down the morale and by lowering the standards of existence that are expected from these professional people?

I ask your indulgence for just five more minutes, as I read to you an editorial. This editorial has my approval, because it was written by the same man who wrote an editorial four weeks ago, and I think it must have been after he heard of the bill that was introduced here. If a man wants his water pipes repaired he dare not legally take the top of his pajamas and stop the leak, he must get a licensed plumber to do the job. He said, "Most people think there are four seasons in the year. There is autumn, winter, spring and summer, but," he said, "they fail to take into consideration the fifth season, which is the silly season, when the Legislature is in session."

And now I say gentlemen, we too often find that is true.

THE SPEAKER. The gentleman is advised that under the rules he cannot make any remarks that reflect upon the character or conduct of his fellow colleagues.

MR. WAGNER. I desire to apologize, Mr. Speaker.

I realize that possibly I should be a little more careful in my maiden speech. However, the previous statement I made in all seriousness, because I want you to know this was written by somebody who was very seriously considering the situation facing Pennsylvania, and it bespeaks my sentiments so accurately that I would like to read it. It is brief.

"We have never been able to see any good reason why school teachers, more than any other class of public servants, should be forced to go month after month in many instances without receiving any salaries.

"We can think of many reasons, on the contrary, why they above all others should be paid on time, and paid more than they now receive—when they are lucky enough to get it. Theirs is an exacting profession, requiring years of preparation, continued study and improvement. Theirs is the responsibility of leading the youth of the nation into becoming good citizens.

"Yet many of them, even when they are paid regularly, must live in genteel poverty or worse. And in some cases, thanks to peculiar conditions existing in some counties and townships, like those about us, they are reduced to the point of accepting charity or the assistance of friends and neighbors.

Teachers in Schuylkill and Blythe Townships have not received a penny for four months. And their plight is no worse than that of some teachers elsewhere. True, some townships are nearly bankrupt through failure of coal companies to pay their taxes.

"But the point we want to make here is this: Money seems always to be found to pay for other things. It can and should be found to pay the teachers—even if other bills have to wait. And if the towns and townships can't do it, then it is up to the State.

"The plight of unpaid teachers is intolerable and disgraceful. Something must be done at once to correct it. Teachers are worthy of their hire."

That editorial is taken from the Saturday issue of the Tamaqua "Evening Courier."

I have one more letter that came to me a few hours ago from a distressed teacher,—one of the hundreds that I have received, and one of the hundreds which my colleague must have gotten, asking if there is something we can do. I have been to the Committee on Education; I have been to the Department of Justice; I, in company with others, have been to the Governor. There is a resolution in this House asking for help; there is a bill in some Committee calling for a deficiency appropriation of $2,500,000 which could not possibly come out of this biennium. It would have to be in the next budget and I feel that is not expected. I believe if the relief situation known as Public Assistance is sufficiently important to have a Select Committee, which is preparing to provide a fund in order to take care of those who cannot get work, and incidentally some who do not want to get work, I feel that our teachers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should be assured that this House is going to do its part to find a way, if they can find a way, and if they can't find a way to provide a way to see that they get their wages before the end of this school term.

RESOLUTION No. 42.

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1939.

Whereas, on June 5, 1937, the General Assembly appropriated approximately $5,000,000 for flood control and clothed the Department of Forests and Waters with broad authority in the use of this money; and

Whereas, almost two years have lapsed and no substantial progress has been made in flood control; and

Whereas, almost $2,000,000 of this fund is reported to have been spent or committed; and

Whereas, there is a sincere public interest in the subject of flood control and an equally sincere interest in the proper use of money appropriated for such an important purpose; and

Whereas, it is reported that there is a conflict between the State and the Federal Government with respect to impounding reservoirs now being built and to be built; and

Whereas, a recent change in the Federal Flood Control Act is reported to have a serious effect on the basic interest of this Commonwealth; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives request of the Secretary of Forests and Waters a comprehensive report on the condition of the Flood Control funds, of the accomplishments with the fund, expenditures and commitments thereunder, of the use of the funds, of the effect of the operation of the amended Federal Flood Control Act on Pennsylvania's present and future interests, and of such other related matters as will afford useful information on Flood Control; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be certified by the Chief Clerk and transmitted to the Secretary of Forests and Waters.

Referred to Committee on Forestry.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 21, 1939.

The Senate met at 3:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

In these days of rapid succession of events in the world without, so vital to the affairs and destiny of men and nations, Blessed Father, give us and our leaders the ability and foresight to keep our Ship of State on an even keel.

May we be undisturbed by the propaganda of other nations and unmoved by their threat of reprisals against us.

May we set our houses in order, provide for the common defense and, tending to our own business, lend every effort from the three component branches of government—national and state—to the solving of our internal problems so vexing and perplexing that sound economic regimes in all may produce a real prosperity firmly undergirded by the proper evaluation of spiritual realities.

And God forbid that, having out our hands to the plough, we should ever look back. We would develop a citizenship here in this life that is fit for Thy Kingdom beyond. In Jesus' Name we pray. Amen.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, may I rise for just a few minutes on a question of Personal Privilege?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of Personal Privilege.

Mr. SIPE. For the fourth time I protest against the Governor's decision to keep the new Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium closed for the next four years. On the floor of this Senate I have asked the Pennsylvania State Medical Society to give a little help in an effort to cause the Governor to change his mind about keeping this modern institution of mercy closed, as an economy measure, for two years, knowing as he does, that the expenses of keeping it running are only a drop in the bucket compared to the total expense of running the Commonwealth.

I want to say that I have received a lot of communications from womens' clubs in different parts of Pennsylvania, asking me to be interested in eradicating syphilis in Pennsylvania. I say to the ladies that I am deeply interested, but I am also interested in eradicating tuberculosis in Pennsylvania. Therefore, I appeal to the womens' clubs of this State to give us some help in this effort to change the mind of our Governor about keeping this Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium closed for two long years.

On the floor of this Senate, Mr. President, I have quoted leading tuberculosis specialists, in Pittsburgh, in the great Hospitals of Pittsburgh, to the effect that there are enough needy tuberculosis sufferers in Western Pennsylvania alone to fill this Sanatorium within thirty days of its opening, and I have not heard these figures denied.

And now, Mr. President, I wish to read the closing paragraph of the Governor's Inaugural Address, in which he said:

"The spirit that shall guide my every act as Governor of this great Commonwealth was voiced more than two thousand years ago by the Prophet Micah: 'To do justly, and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God.'"

I say to the Governor of this Commonwealth that God is a God of mercy; that he is a God of love; that he is a friend of the friendless; that he is a friend of the poor, yes, the tubercular poor; I say to you that God never walks away from the suffering and distress of the poor, never walks away from the suffering and distress of the tubercular poor.

Now, Mr. President, I hope that these beautiful words of Sacred Scripture did not fall idly from the Governor's lips. I hope that, falling from his lips, they were not mere sounding of brass and tinkling of cymbals and, therefore, I further hope that when this modern institution of mercy is completed—as it will be in a few weeks—the Governor of this Commonwealth will "walk humbly with his God, right up to its very doors, and open those doors with the golden key of God's love for the tubercular poor."

Mr. President, another word of protest, against the Governor's action in bringing politics into education, in requesting the resignation of the scholarly, cultured lawyer Harry C. Golden, of Kittanning, Armstrong County, as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College.

I made this protest last Wednesday, and my good friend Mr. Wolfenden from Indiana county, who is such a pleasant gentleman that I wish he had a seat nearer mine, attempted to justify the Governor's political action by stating that soon after the Earle administration went into power a new Board of Trustees was created at the Indiana State Teachers College, and that they did certain damnable things.

Mr. Wolfenden connected Harry C. Golden with those damnable things in his statement, on Page 666 of the Legislative Journal, the first column, on that page, where he says, after enumerating these reprehensible and damnable things that he alleged took place, "I do say he (that is Mr. Golden) sat on the Board when these things were done."

Mr. President, I hold no brief for what reprehensible things may have been committed by the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College in the early days of the administration of Governor Earle—I know nothing about that. I will neither confirm nor deny the statement of Brother Wolfenden, but I do say to him that he is altogether mistaken when he says that the scholarly and cultured lawyer from Armstrong county was a member of the Board of Trustees at that time.

Therefore, I want to insert the fact into the record for today, that the date of the commission of Harry C. Golden as a member of the Board of Trustees of Indiana State Teachers College in September 20, 1938. Therefore, he was not a member in those former days when the alleged reprehensible things were carried on by the Board of Trustees. I might also say that if he had been a member he would not have stood for any reprehensible things; he is not a man of that type.

I wish to read into the record, Mr. President, the telegram of Governor James to Harry C. Golden, requesting his resignation, dated February 7, 1939, reading as follows:

"As it is my intention to make some changes in the membership of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College, I shall appreciate it if you will send me promptly, by collect telegram, your resignation as a member of the Board. Signed Arthur H. James, Governor of Pennsylvania."

I wish also to read into the record copy of Mr. Golden's reply to that telegram, dated Kittanning, February 8, 1939, and reading as follows:

"Honorable Arthur H. James, Governor of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pa. As requested in your wire of February 7th, I resign as trustee of the Indiana State Teachers College. Signed, Harry C. Golden."

Next I wish to read into the record the telegram that Mr. Golden received from Governor James in reply to his telegram just quoted:

"Harrisburg, Pa., February 8, 1939. Harry C. Golden, Kittanning, Pa. As requested in your telegram of today I hereby accept your resignation as a member of the Board of Trustees of the Indiana State Teachers College. Signed Arthur H. James, Governor of Pennsylvania."

Well, you see, Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, Mr. Golden did not request his resignation. I want to say to the members of this Senate that I had no hell-born evil malicious design against the Indiana State Teachers College when I recommended Harry C. Golden to Governor Earle as a member of the Board of Trustees. I have always been on very friendly terms with the Indiana State Teachers College; I was a good friend of the president of the college, Dr. Faushold, who resigned a few weeks ago; and also a good friend of the former president of the college, Dr. Foster, who died a year or so ago.

My sister was educated there, a number of my relatives have been educated there, and I have lectured there to a packed auditorium, so I had no evil designs against the college when I recommended Harry C. Golden for membership on the Board of Trustees, and I am sure Mr. Golden had no hell-born designs against the institution. If I thought he had I would never have recommended him to Governor Earle, and Mr. Golden advises me that owing to circumstances over which he had no control he was able to attend only one meeting of the Board of Trustees after he received his commission, so that even if he had hell-born designs against the institution, he surely could not have accomplished much damage at one meeting of the Board.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 12, entitled:

An Act for the prevention of congenital syphilis; providing for and regulating the taking of serological tests of women pregnant with child; and requiring notation thereof on the birth and stillbirth certificates of their children; imposing duties upon the Department of Health and upon physicians and other persons attending women pregnant with child.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to say a word or two in behalf of this bill, Senate Bill No. 12. I am assuming that the amendments which were made last night correct the misuse of a particular word which was in the bill, and if that is so I would particularly like to see the Senate vote in favor of this bill, because it is a step in the right direction.

I do not know how many people know just what this situation is, but I would like to read an article which will give some idea of just what we are aiming to correct with this bill and how far-reaching it is.

Addressing a Conference on Better Care for Mothers and Babies at Washington in January, 1938, the Surgeon General said: "The 12,544 mothers who died as a result of conditions of pregnancy and childbirth in 1935 do not represent the whole of the loss from child bearing—for there were more than sixty thousand babies who died two weeks after birth and more than seventy-seven thousand recorded still births. In other words there occur in the country each year more than a hundred and fifty thousand deaths, sixty per cent of which are needlessly lost, because of the mismanagement of the child-bearing function." He also stated: "Approximately one million children are born each year to families on relief or with an annual income of less than $1,000."

Now, the gentleman who made that quotation pointed out that in "breaking down those 150,000 deaths, 90,000 of which are unnecessary, with the aid of statistics from the Public Health Service, we find that five out of every six babies born to untreated syphilitic mothers will be born dead or infected; one out of every eleven babies will die or be born syphilitic, even if mothers have received adequate treatment before the fifth month of pregnancy; two out of every five babies will die or be infected even if adequate treatment is given the mother after the fifth month of pregnancy; there were twenty-five thousand still-births in one recent year because the mothers suffered from venereal disease."

This bill aims to provide, at the proper time, proper examination and treatment of mothers in the State of Pennsylvania. It may be well to call attention to the fact that on the question of the cost that in United States House Bill 9047, in the House of Representatives, there is appropriated for the purpose of allocation amongst the various States who adopt measures of this kind the sum of six million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1940; the sum of twelve million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1941; and for each of the ten fiscal years thereafter the sum of twenty-five million dollars; and it seems to me that this is a fine piece of legislation.

I want to say to my colleague, Senator Wolfenden, that he will deserve and undoubtedly receive the praise of a great many people for having sponsored this bill. It is the kind of legislation, that we can, I think, all vote for without any feeling except that we are doing a real piece of work, and I am sure that my colleagues in after years, when they see the results of this bill, will be proud of the fact that they voted for it.

I have been in touch with some other states which have adopted similar methods, and I have been in touch with them for the reason that I am associated as a member on a board of a hospital which has been making some efforts in this work, and we have made some real strides.

In all states where these measures have been adopted we have been receiving encouraging reports as to the number of lives that have been saved and the check on the spread of the disease in question, and I hope my colleagues will join in voting for this bill.

Mr. WOLFENDEN: Mr. President, I want to say I appreciate what the gentleman on the other side has said, because so much legislation here has been partisan. This bill, and the one that will follow, are not partisan measures. The information the Senator from Philadelphia has given you is entirely correct, and I appreciate his support of the bill.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 13, entitled:

An Act regulating the issuance of marriage licenses; prohibiting the issuance thereof of persons infected with syphilis in certain stages; requiring each applicant to produce certain evidence of freedom from such disease; imposing duties upon the Department of Health and the clerk of the orphans' court of the various counties; and imposing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

On the question,

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, in making the few remarks I desire to make concerning this bill, I do not want it to be construed that I am opposing the measure. I am very much in favor of doing everything that can be done to eradicate syphilis within our State, but I do not think that this bill will accomplish the purpose that is intended.

In fact, I am fearful that it might possibly result in some harm. I had hoped that the bill might be made to apply to every person of at least twenty-one years of age in Pennsylvania; I think the bill should be made to apply at least to every one of that age, and while I do not want my remarks to be construed in opposition to the bill, I simply make them by way of explanation of my failure to vote in favor to the bill.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think that the purpose of this bill is very meritorious, like the Senator from Blair, Mr. Mallery, I am deeply apprehensive as to whether or not it will bring about the results intended. This bill deals with marriage, and the aim is to prevent the spreading of syphilis, but it seems to me that it is objectionable from this angle, that it will encourage the citizens of this Commonwealth to go to adjoining states to be married and then come back into our State to live.

There is no safeguard that I know of in this bill—or that the legislature could have placed in the bill that would correct a situation where a resident of this State, who wanted to circumvent the provisions of this bill would only have to travel a few miles down into Maryland, and there he could obtain his license and be married and come back into our State.

For that reason, it does seem to me that, although the primary objective of the act is very meritorious, I doubt very seriously whether the bill can bring that about, and like the gentleman from Blair, Mr. Mallery, I do not want to be understood as being opposed to the bill—I am for the bill, and the purposes for which it seeks to accomplish—but I do not think that it will work very effectively.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I am very much interested in what the Senator from Fayette said, and there is something to that; but as a matter of fact New York State already has such a law; New Jersey has such a law; Ohio has such a bill before it; and you will find that this movement is spreading all over the United States.

Now, Mr. President, if anything the bill does not go far enough, but, as Senator Shapiro has said, I believe it is a step in the right direction. This is a bill that has been very carefully gone over by experts in this State, and in the Nation, and they have placed their mark of approval on it. I feel that by voting for this bill you will be voting for forward-looking legislation—not necessarily perfect legislation, but legislation in the right direction.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I wish to propound a very friendly interrogation to the pleasant gentleman from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, will the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden tell us whether, as far as he knows, there is any such law as this in contemplation in Maryland.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I am informed that there is.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

NAYS— 0

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives with information that the Senate has passed the same without amendments.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 206, entitled:

An Act requiring all applications for licenses or permits to be accompanied by a per capita school tax receipt for the last calendar year preceding the year in which the application is made, and making exceptions as to applicants residing without the Commonwealth or in school districts where no such tax is imposed, or those exempt by law or action of the tax levying authorities.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President does the Senator from Indiana agree that if a man wanted to get a marriage license he would have to comply with the provisions of this act and pay the school tax first?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, yes, I think so.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, does the Senator also agree if, in Philadelphia, a man wanted to get a marriage license he would not have to bother about that?

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I presume that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro is driving at the constitutionality of the act.

Mr. SHAPIRO. No, Mr. President, I am just wondering if the Senator from Indiana, Mr. Wolfenden, agrees if we do pass this act, before a man gets married he must secure a certificate from a doctor, before he can get married he must have a receipt for his school tax—so, therefore, instead of having his bride with him he had better bring a brief case.

Mr. WOLFENDEN. Mr. President, I feel to answer the question it would take so long that I would have to answer under personal privilege. The gentleman from Philadelphia is obviously taking me for a ride. He knows, Mr. President, as well as everyone else, that the rural school districts, particularly, have difficulty in collecting their per capita school tax.

If that bill in particular had been written to only take in what will be, obviously, the largest source of revenue, namely automobile drivers' licenses, it would have been discriminatory, but in order to make it take in all classifications it was made to include all licenses.

I think the Senator from Philadelphia knows it will be the automobile drivers' licenses that will furnish the chief source of revenue to pay for the the school tax.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would like to remind my distinguished colleague from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that—at least one object of matrimony is perpetuation and propagation of the race. I suggest, therefore, that when a man, before his marriage, has to pay a school tax, it may be classified as anticipatory notes or revenue—anticipatory note, and I hope you understand my allusion.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, while I am not anxious to take the Senator from Indiana for a ride, I am not averse to taking people for a ride I am not doing this merely to take him for a ride but to point out something which I think is very important.

If it is good to collect a school tax or per capita tax, it is also good to collect any other tax, and there is no reason why a bill of this kind should be confined to that kind of a tax.

You can imagine what is going to happen to the Revenue Department now. If I have to write in for a license, or if I have to pay a bill, I will have to enclose in that envelope a receipt for last year's taxes, and then the Revenue Department will have to send back the receipt for last year's taxes and the license; and before they get through with it it is going to cost more than the five dollars per capita to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and it looks like this is another way of making the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania pay the per capita tax for the school districts. This bill is all right, but it does not go far enough, and when you take it far enough, and drag it out to its logical conclusion you get a hodge-podge. There is no reason why a man who owes five dollars to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, or to a local district, should be prohibited and at some time a man in Philadelphia who owes $150,000 to the City of Philadelphia on property taxes can ride around in three automobiles.

This proposed legislation aims at a good cause, but it goes to a length that makes it ridiculous. To follow this out to its logical conclusion, a man who is on his death-bed has to pay his revenue tax bill for a thousand or two thousand dollars, his income tax for ten thousand dollars, his state income tax of five thousand dollars, and he wants to get married, in order that the money he leaves will descend to somebody with whom he has been in love, and he cannot get married because he is ill; and the doctor tells him he has two hours to live; and he wants to marry this girl, he must phone down to somebody and get a five dollar receipt, which he neglected to get, and if it dose not arrive in time, the inheritance of thousands of dollars will be lost to that girl through a ridiculous situation, just because somebody in the county has not paid a five dollar tax, and at the same time others in various parts of the State, or in the same county, who have not paid taxes, can operate an automobile or a saloon or get married, and the other man cannot.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Cumberland, Mr. Jacobs, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. JACOBS. Mr. President, at the risk of having to eat my words of last week, I would like to comment for just a minute on the Public Assistance Board in one of my counties, namely, my own County of Cumberland.

The Governor promised to take these Assistance Boards out of politics, but I cannot look at the Assistance Board he has appointed over there without feeling that either he has changed his mind or else he has been fooled as to the political connections of his appointees.

Under the Earle administration we had a Board of five members. We seemed to be unable to get any men to serve on this Board. We had three women registered as Democrat and two women registered as Republicans.

None of these women, either Democratic or Republican, was active in politics, although one, at one time, had been Vice-Chairman of the Democratic County Committee.

The Governor has seen fit to appoint a Public Assistance Board made up of six Republicans and one Democrat. He has appointed G. R. Fogelsonger, of Shippensburg, who has been a Republican leader in that town for the last fifty years.

As a member of that Board he has appointed Mrs. J. Cox Thompson, of Camp Hill, who is at present the head of the Republican Federation of Women's Clubs of Cumberland County.

He has appointed Mrs. James L. Brownhill, of Enola, who is President of the Women's Republican Club of Enola and committee-woman of the Enola precinct of Pennsboro township, a Republican committeewoman.

He has seen fit to appoint Ray E. Hutter, Present Burgess of Mechanicsburg, a Republican, and an ex-chairman of the Republican standing committee of Cumberland county.

He has appointed Dr. J. R. Snyder, of Mount Holly Springs, who is a recognized Republican leader of that town.

He has appointed Mrs. Louise Bentz Carroll, of Carlisle, whose husband, up until the time of his death, was prominently connected with the Public Service Commission and was an outstanding Republican citizen in our town; and Mrs. Carroll an active worker in the Women's Republican Organization.

The Governor has also honored us by placing George H. Fry, of Carlisle, a well-known County Auctioneer, Democratic, on this Public Assistance Board. Mr. Fry has been brought out by the Republican Organization twice in the last four years to oppose Democratic nominees for County offices. He has been brought out at the insistence of the Republican Organization, and can always depended on by them.

I hate to make this speech on politics—because that is what it is—but I would like to have on record my protest against the appointment of a Board that from top to bottom is 100% political and is controlled 100% by the present Republican Organization in the County of Cumberland.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, when the Governor says no sales tax, no income tax, it reminds me of the title to a current movie—which, by the way, is not worth going to, but which is entitled "Mother, may I go in to swim?"

Yes, my darling daughter;

Hang your clothes on a hickory limb,

But don't go near the water."

The Governor's mandates—well, the Republicans do not have mandates—but the Governor's idea or suggestion when speaking of any approach to sales tax, or income tax leaves the field of taxes rather arid. I want to read a very important paper on the personal property tax.

All economists will agree that a capital levy is anathema. I believe that we all agree that the personal property tax is a capital levy, but as some of the Senators may not know what a capital levy is I will state that there are two kinds:—when a dictator sends us to the scaffold and removes our heads, that is one form of capital levy; if we haven't lost our heads, but the dictator turns us upside down on our heads and shakes all the money out of our pockets until there is not a lira or pfennig or kopeck left in our pockets, that is another capital levy.

Now, if you understand what a capital levy is, it was bad enough when it was at the rate of 4 mills for county purposes. Four mills in terms of an income tax is somewhere around 10%. No State of the Union, to my knowledge, exceeds 6% in a graduated personal income tax scheme. The silver lining to the 4 mills tax was the ease with which the taxpayers could avoid it. There were some foreign corporations in Pennsylvania maintaining a few office chairs and a desk and telephone and paying perhaps $100 capital stock tax, and by so doing relieving all the Pennsylvania holders of their shares of the 4 mills tax on personal property. I cite this as an example of the case with which the economic royalists saved themselves from a capital levy.

The late lamented administration under Governor Earle added insult to injury by adding 4 mills, making an 8 mill tax, or, in terms of personal income graduated tax, about 20%. This additional 4 mills, this millstone around the neck of the taxpayer, would not only be a terrific burden, per se, but it had the unkind effect of collecting money from the taxpayer, not only from the State, but picked up all the county taxpayers, so that the immunity of the economic royalist faded out of the picture. The silver lining disappeared into a black cloud.

Governor James is doing very much what you or I would do if we were governor. He had spread before him a lot of taxes bringing in a lot of money, and all the birth pains had been undergone and the victim had become either reconciled, or had become unconscious of anything—relapsed into coma. The Governor then must have said to himself, "Here is a schedule, no matter how bad, bringing in almost enough revenue. If I make any change in the program I shall get myself into hot water, so I will let bad enough alone and try to appease by assuring them that there will be no sit-down strikes." This is pursuing the line of least resistance, which, theoretically, is very bad, but, practically, is very good.

There are a good many Republican members of the General Assembly who won their election somewhat upon promise to change the Earle taxes, to substitute for some bad tax a good Republican tax. These conscientious members of the General Assembly are therefore not satisfied with the Governor's policy of pursuing the lines of least resistance. The battle is now on in the House of Representatives and later it will be on in the Senate. I am proposing that we mark this 8 mills personal property tax as Enemy No. 1, and, while we may not be able to entirely destroy it, we can reduce it 50%, so that we are back at the old 4 mills rate, and impose the 4 mills for county purposes. You may say this will enable the victim in the county to again evade this tax, but the county collector has learned several tricks so that it will not be so easy for the victim to escape.

I wish to make it clear that, while personal property tax sounds like a rich man's tax, it is not necessarily so by any means. Every citizen in Pennsylvania who owns a mortgage has to pay this tax whether the mortgage is yielding a penny of return or not. While there may be a distinct majority in the Legislature willing to repeal not only the 4 mills State tax but the entire 8 mills tax, it just cannot be done at this time. There are two preliminary steps necessary before any such repeal can be accomplished. (1) The joint resolution No. 49, separating personal property from real estate as a base for borrowing, has to be passed by this 1939 session and submitted to the people in November 1939. This joint resolution is on its second passage through the Senate, and, while it is subject to some criticism, it is the best thing available to take away from the borrowing base of the cities the assessed value of personal property. Until that is done, it is impossible to repeal the personal property tax. When it is taken away, there will be a gap which must be filled by increasing the amount that the municipality can tax real estate. (2) What might be called a companion bill is joint resolution No. 53, setting up a graduated personal income tax, and I am reading this paper in the hope that Senator Mallery, who is chairman of the committee, will report this bill out. He promises to have a day set sometime—April 1st, perhaps, when he will report only amendments to the Constitution. The meeting will be held on the first of April. This resolution also has passed one session and is now before us in 1939. No one would dare to impose a personal income tax on top of the personal property tax. Therefore, these two are companion bills and both must be accepted by the people. Without the one the other is of no use.

The big point I am trying to make, therefore, is that if and when we can amend the Constitution by the passage of these two joint resolutions, if and when we can set up a personal income tax, we shall then be in position to repeal the State 4 mills tax and the county 4 mills tax and substitute a personal income tax which will take the place of the 8 mill capital levy.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I rise also to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Montgomery will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, since Senate Bill No. 43, relating to teachers' tenure, was introduced, I have had quite a lot of correspondence with people throughout the State, with teachers throughout the State and with a great many people who are interested in the subject. Last night I received a letter which was from a Pittsburgh teacher—whose name I will not mention—but I would like to read the letter and comment on it:

"It has been rumored, unofficially, among teachers throughout the Pittsburgh District that if the financial strain on school districts caused by married women teachers retaining their positions is not relieved by amendments to the teacher tenure law, the Edmonds Act will have to be revised.

Are there any grounds for this belief? Will you please advise the teachers in our building through me at your earliest convenience?

Enclosed find my self-addressed envelope for your reply."

As that is the only letter I have received that has had a self-addressed envelope for a reply I feel it is worthwhile to make a reply.

I feel the condition of the public schools of this Commonwealth is precarious, and I am bound to say that, the situation being as it is, the future of the legislation of 1921 relating to teachers' salaries is gravely imperiled.

We have, first of all, the fact that the enrollment in the elementary schools is decreasing through the decrease in population. We have the second fact that enrollment in the higher schools is increasing, increasing materially; and also that the elementary schools are cheaper and the higher schools are more expensive, and consequently the expenses of our public schools has materially increased.

We have a second factor, alluded to last night in the excellent address made by Senator Reed under question of personal privilege. We have the fact that delinquent taxes are increasing in the rural districts to such a figure that money cannot be obtained from real estate taxes to maintain the public schools.

Now, we have the third fact that the Tenure Act of 1937 sought to change conditions to such a degree that makes it exceedingly hard for many school districts to balance their budget. I have been reading a series of articles in a newspaper, the Philadelphia Record, which says that there are six thousand teachers in the State, including a great many districts in the anthracite and bituminous coal region, in which the pay for teachers has not been provided.

Under those circumstances I want to point out for just one moment a proper way to advance on the part of the State. This is not the time to increase expenses of the public schools. This is a time, it seems to me, to carry a little further the principle which was back of the legislation of 1921. We started out in 1921 realizing that the cost of higher schools would be heavy on the district and we put a portion of that burden on the State; 25% of the basic salary of teachers serving in school districts of the first class; 35% of the second and third classes; 50% of the fourth class.

It was never intended that those proportions would stay; it was always intended that those proportions, as the State increased its financial solvency, should increase with it, so that the State might bear a larger proportion of the maintenance of the school system that is established by school law.

Now, with that, by way of preliminary, I wish to direct attention to the fact that I have introduced today a bill that increases by five points the contribution that the State makes to the basic salary of each school teacher throughout the State; that is to say, where they now get 25%, 30% is proposed in the bill; where they now get 35%, 40% is proposed in the bill; where they now get 50%, 55% is proposed in the bill; and where they now get 75%, 80% is proposed in the bill.

I want to say definitely that that seems to me to be the right and logical approach to this question. The bill itself would involve $2,400,000 a year or about $4,800,000 for the biennium. I do not see that money now; it may be that before we are done with the session the money will be available, and I hope, if it is available, that something along this line, which would take a portion of the burden off the realty of each school district throughout the Commonwealth, will appeal to the Senators as helping to meet the situation.

However, in answer to my friend from Pittsburgh, I say very frankly that if these increased burdens are placed upon the school system, adding as they do, to the cost, there is not any question of doubt that unless economic conditions improve tremendously the legislation of 1921 is in grave peril.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I rise to a question of Parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Jaspan, will state his question of parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I would ask the Chair if House Bill No. 338 is still in the possession of the Senate.

The PRESIDENT. The Chair is informed that House Bill 338 was signed and returned to the House of Representatives.

MOTION TO RECALL BILL

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I move that House Bill 338 be recalled from either the House or the Governor, for the reason that the title of this bill reads: "An Act to amend clause ten of Section two and Section Three hundred one of an Act approved the Twenty-seventh day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven" whereas, as a matter of fact, it was approved on May 28, 1937, as the body of the Act will show.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, the bill is a House bill, passed by the House, signed by the Speaker of the House, and the bill is now in the House; and the resolution should originate in the House for recall. The bill is out of the possession of the Senate.

CONSIDERATION OF EXECUTIVE NOMINATIONS

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of nominations for appointment as Notaries Public, sent to the Senate, March 20, 1939, by His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth, together with those laid on the table today.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

"The glory of the spring, how sweet!
The new-born life, how glad!
What joy the happy earth to greet
In spring's bright raiment clad!

Oh, may we be, by Thy great pow'r,
Renew'd these spring tide days;
And so reflect Thee in each hour
That all shall give Thee praise."

O God, we thank Thee for the recurring manifestations of Thy beneficence as seen in nature. May these incidents inspire us to do our whole duty to the needy of our state. To be lulled to sleep by sweet sounding poetry is not sufficient in these strenuous times. We beseech Thee, O God, answer the prayer of Thy servant and of this House in behalf of the unpaid school teachers—this large army of courageous men and women who day by day are giving their "last full measure of devotion" for the proper guidance of youth. "New occasions teach new duties." Reveal to Thy servants here and now, O God, their full duty to these devoted public servants. Give health, we beseech Thee, to the ill of this body and assuage the grief of those who mourn. Through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. TRONZO. RESOLUTION No. 43.

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1939.

Whereas, The University of Pittsburgh, by virtue of its location in a great industrial center, should rank as a leading scholastic institution, and enjoy the confidence and good-will of all the citizens of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, A small clique of administrators dominates not only the academic life, but also the financial structure of the University; and

Whereas, This clique, scornful of the opinion of those who have the best interests of the students and faculty at heart, are speedily bringing the University into disrepute; and

Whereas, The salaries paid to the chief administrative officers of the University are among the highest paid in the United States, while, at the same time, the salaries of those engaged in teaching our youth are correspondingly the lowest paid; and

Whereas, The public, from whose tax moneys great sums have been, and are being spent to defray these excessive salaries of the administrative officers of the University, are vitally interested in, and have no knowledge of, the finances of the University, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Auditor General make a detailed audit of all the receipts and expenditures of the University of Pittsburgh during the last two years, and that a copy of said audit be presented to the House of Representatives not later than the first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Messrs. HOLLAND and SEIF.

RESOLUTION No. 44.

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1939.

Whereas, Gas rates in Pittsburgh, despite proximity of natural gas fields, always have been high as compared with gas rates of other cities; and

Whereas, The Peoples Natural Gas Company of Pittsburgh has announced a sharp increase in rates effective on May 17th of this year; and

Whereas, the proposed increase will affect only the small consumer; and

Whereas, The officers of the Peoples Natural Gas Company maintain that the company is entitled to a 6% earning on a reproduction value of $60,000,000; therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives does hereby request the Public Utility Commission to conduct a thorough investigation of the alleged $60,000,000 reproduction value of the Peoples Natural Gas Company of Pittsburgh, such investigation to include (1) an assessment of all real estate holdings of the company, and a comparison of such value with the assessment valuation for taxation purposes; (2) the number and amounts of stock dividends declared by the company on the original cash and property investment and profits reinvested in capital expenditures; (3) a comparison between such original and profit investments, with the amounts carried on the books of the company today; (4) the elements taken into consideration in arriving at the $60,000,000 valuation, and the justification of each such element; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be transmitted to the Chairman and to each of the members of the Public Utility Commission.

By Mr. HARKINS.

RESOLUTION No. 45.

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1939.

Whereas The Peoples Natural Gas Company has applied to the Public Utility Commission for the approval of rate increases which would raise the price of gas to its consumers in Pittsburgh and Western Pennsylvania, and

Whereas The Pittsburgh Post Gazette, Pittsburgh Press and Pittsburgh Sun Telegraph in the news items concerning this proposed increase report that the City Officials of Altoona and Pittsburgh are opposed to this boost in rates, and

Whereas The House of Representatives should be informed as to the necessity of and the justification for such an increase as is proposed, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Public Utility Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania report to the House of Representatives the following information:

(1) The names and populations of the cities in Pennsylvania in which natural gas is used as a fuel.

(2) The cost of natural gas in each of the cities named in answer to question one.

(3) A tabulation of rates charged by the Peoples Natural Gas Company in Pittsburgh and rates which prevail in at least twenty-five other cities in The United States which use natural gas.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 424, Printer's No. 47 be placed on the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in moving to place this bill on the postponed calendar, I feel that we are not yet in position to vote on this measure, because of the fact that the Supreme Court today is deliberating on the question of the gas lease in Philadelphia.

This bill, as you all know, is a measure to alleviate the budget crisis in Philadelphia, and if the gas lease as passed by this House, and as I understand by the Senate, is declared constitutional or legal by the Supreme Court, I don't think it will be necessary for this measure to be passed to help the Philadelphia situation. Therefore, it is only fair that a bill of this kind shall be held on the calendar until we know what the status of the gas lease will be, whether or not the Supreme Court will allow forty million dollars or fifty million dollars under the resolution of Council of the City of Philadelphia. I ask the membership of this House to vote for the placing of this bill on the postponed calendar at this time.

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise at this time to oppose Mr. Ominsky's motion. What he says is perfectly true, that if the Supreme Court sitting in Pittsburgh decides that the sale of the gas rentals is valid, we will not need this bill, but if we get an adverse decision, we will then need this bill to help us balance our budget in Philadelphia, so I can see no advantage to be gained by delaying this bill. We can pass it here and send it over to the Senate, and if a decision comes down against it, we will be in a position to balance our budget. I ask the members of the House to vote against this motion.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Judiciary General for the purpose of further study and possible amendment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I realize that this is an unusual request not to have the bill sent back to the Committee from which it emanated but it is not because of any dissatisfaction with this Committee in any way. A great many amendments have been offered, and practically all offered by persons who are members of the Judiciary

General Committee—I, myself, am a member of that Committee—and in order to save the time of the House. I thought it might be agreeable to send it to that Committee. The Chairman of the Judiciary General Committee is agreeable that the Chair refer this bill to his Committee in order that it might be considered at tomorrow's meeting with the amendments.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Section 2 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

An Act to further amend section three of the act approved the twenty-eighth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (P. L. 452) entitled "An act to promote the welfare of the people of the Commonwealth creating a General State Authority as a body corporate and politic with power to construct improve and operate projects and to lease the same and to fix and collect fees rentals and charges for the use thereof authorizing and regulating the issuance of bonds by said Authority and providing for the payment of such bonds and the rights of the holders thereof and to enter into agreements with the Government of the United States or any Federal agency and authorizing the Department of Property and Supplies to grant assign convey or lease to the Authority lands of the Commonwealth and interests therein and to acquire lands therefor granting the right of eminent domain and providing that no debt of the Commonwealth shall be incurred in the exercise of any of the powers granted by this act" fixing terms for the appointed members of the General State Authority and terminating the terms of present members

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Peculiar as it may seem, I am not going to in any manner question at this time the passage of this bill on second reading. Last evening I desired to call to the attention of the sponsor of this bill certain very necessary remedial amendments that are required in order to make this bill a proper enactment.

I feel that this bill is more or less a justification of the position that I have taken relative to my refusal to acquiesce in a dismissal from the General State Authority, but nevertheless since the membership of the House in a proper manner is attempting to effectuate this dismissal, I feel that if they are passing a bill, they ought to pass the best type of bill possible.

One of the amendments that has just been introduced is upon a subject that I desire to cover. There are other amendments that are required in order to make this bill a proper type of enactment. I might call to the attention of the members of the House that the bill as it is presently drawn and amended contains no provision whatsoever for the removal of an appointed member. The General State Authority, as the membership possibly might know, is not considered to be a function of the Commonwealth, and is therefore not included in the Constitutional provisions relative to removal from office. Under those circumstances, in order to make this a workable piece of legislation, it will be necessary to further amend the bill so that in addition to designating the expiration of the terms of the appointed members, there should also be included in the bill a provision effectuating the removal of the appointed members at a time prior to the expiration of the term of their appointment, or before the first Tuesday in January in the odd numbered year following appointment.

There are other administrative problems in this General State Authority Act that require amendment. One of the most vexatious problems with which the Authority has been confronted is the difficulty at all times to secure a quorum. The act requires that every action of the Authority be enacted with and by the consent of the majority of the members of the Authority. At the present time there are ten members of the Authority, which necessitates a quorum of six members before any action whatsoever can be taken by the Authority, irrespective of how superficial that action might be.

The membership of the Authority includes the Governor, the Secretary of Property and Supplies, the Auditor General, the State Treasurer, and also includes the appointees of the Governor and also other members of the Governor's Cabinet. It is difficult at times to secure participation in the Authority's business by all of these men who are exceedingly busy. Under those circumstances I would recommend that the bill be further amended so that certain functions of the Authority may be delegated to an executive committee which would function and whose actions would be subsequently ratified by the Authority board. I might state that that is the procedure followed in most of our corporate institutions, in which a committee functions throughout the work of the corporation and whose actions are subsequently ratified by the entire board of directors. Under those circumstances I feel that the bill in its present form should not be passed and I would recommend that the bill be held over until I can further discuss these particular amendments with the sponser of the bill so that a perfect piece of legislation might be enacted.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on second reading?
It was agreed to.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 474, Printer's No. 65, as amended, be placed upon the postponed calendar.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. DENMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to object to the placing of this bill on the postponed calendar. The bill was regularly called up and is, I believe, in proper form for passage. I ask that the question be put to the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

It was not agreed to.

This shall be done at a time fixed by order of the president judge soon after the last drawing from the wheel during the current calendar year. The court may by order filed prescribe the form of the jury wheel and its lock and the care and custody of said wheel and the keys thereto. The wheel shall be emptied and its contents destroyed after the last drawing of jurors in the calendar year. Within ten days after the approval of this act the jury commissioners and the sheriff of each county of the third class shall deliver to the president judge of the court of common pleas the jury wheel and the keys thereto.

Section 5 Drawing of and Notices to Jurors The issuing of writs commanding the impaneling and summoning of jurors to serve as jurors in the trial of any issue triable by jury in the several courts of the counties affected by this act and to serve as grand jurors shall be as now provided by law except the appropriate writs shall be directed not as heretofore to the sheriff and commissioners but to the jury board commanding it to impanel and summon such jurors as required under the law or by order of praecipe of any of the several courts of the respective third class counties affected by this act. After the jury boards as herein provided for are organized all drawings or jurors and proceedings incident to said drawings shall be as follows. At least thirty days before each term of court there shall be drawn from the jury wheel name-slips equaling the number of jurors which the jury board has been directed to impanel and summon for each week of said term of court and at least thirty days before the commencement of the grand jury there shall be drawn from said wheel twenty-four name-slips of jurors to be summoned for said grand jury. The names occupations addresses and numbers of the persons so drawn for jury service shall be typewritten upon a list and the list shall be posted in the office of the prothonotary and clerk of the court at least twenty-five days before the first day of the week of court or the session of grand jury for which said jurors are chosen. The jurors so chosen shall at least twenty days before the first day of the week of court or session of the grand jury for which they have been drawn for service be notified to appear for service at the proper time by card duly mailed to the proper address and signed by the clerk of the jury board with a postage-prepaid return card attached to said notice setting forth that notice to appear at the hour and date therein stated is accepted. This return card shall be addressed to the clerk of the jury board. The citizens to whom cards have been mailed and from whom return cards have not been received five days after the cards were mailed to them shall be served personally by the sheriff of the county or his deputies with notice to appear for jury service at the proper time. These summonses for jury service whether by card duly mailed or by personal service shall be deemed summonses of the court and disobedience to them shall be considered the same as disobedience to any other summons of the court.

Section 6 Method of Drawing Jurors All drawings of all jurors after the organization of the jury board shall take place in one of the court rooms selected by the chairman of the board at a time fixed by him of which time and place the other members of the jury board shall have at least three days' notice. The drawing shall be in the presence of at least one jury commissioner and at least one judge of the court of common pleas and shall be open to the public. The name-slips shall be drawn singly from the wheel by any person whom the judge or judges present at the drawing may there appoint for that purpose. The name number address and occupation as the same appear on the name-slips shall be read by any person there appointed for that purpose by the judge or judges present and shall be compared by the clerk of the jury board with the corresponding name number address and occupation on the official jury list. If the name number address and occupation correspond the clerk shall immediately copy the same in a book called the "jury book". After the name-slips have been copied in the jury book and the jury book entry compared and found to be correct the name-slips shall be immediately sealed in an envelope by the clerk and on said envelope and in said jury book the specific week or weeks of jury service for which said jurors whose names are on said slips are drawn shall be entered. These name-slips shall be held for safe-keeping as the court shall direct until the end of the year when they shall be destroyed unless the court shall order otherwise.

Section 7 Excusing Jurors from Service Any judge in charge of the trial list during the week for which a juror has been summoned shall have power upon application to excuse from jury service for cause any person drawn for jury service for said week. This may be done at any time after the jurors are drawn. Unless otherwise ordered by said judge the name of said excused juror shall be written on a name-slip identical in form with the name-slips in the jury wheel folded and placed back in the jury wheel.

Section 8 Summoning of Talesmen When because of exhaustion of the regular panel of jurors or other causes talesmen are immediately required for service as jurors in a case called for trial the trial judge shall appoint one or two or three persons or public officials as the court may determine having no personal or pecuniary or official interest in the case on trial to summon such numbers of talesmen as the court shall direct for jury service in the case on trial. If counsel for either side object to the person or persons appointed to summon talesmen such person or persons shall not be appointed until at least one other judge of the court concurs in such appointment. No official connected with the district attorney's office shall be appointed to summon talesmen to serve in a criminal case. Talesmen must possess the qualifications of jurors.

Their names may be taken from the jury list but persons not on the list may also be called as talesmen. The court may direct the persons so appointed to summon talesmen to work as a unit and to jointly summon the talesmen ordered for service or said persons so appointed may be sent out separately to summon a given number of talesmen. The notice to the talesmen shall be in writing directing the talesmen to appear at the court house at a certain hour and day for jury service and this notice shall be signed by either the clerk of the jury board or any member of the jury board or any one of the officials or citizens appointed by the court to summon talesmen. A failure to obey any such summons shall be treated the same as disobedience to any other lawful summons of the court. Any talesman accepted as a juror may be excused from further jury service for a year.

Section 9 Challenging Jurors or the Array. Any objection or challenge to jurors based on their disqualification for jury service under this act or to the array based on any irregularity in the proceedings or procedure in and by which said jurors were selected drawn or summoned for jury service must be made before said jurors or array of jurors are sworn and cannot be made thereafter. After jurors are sworn without objection all objections to their qualifications as prescribed by this act or to the manner of their selection drawing or summoning shall be deemed to have been waived. No indictment can be attacked or verdict challenged by reason of any juror's disqualification under this act or any irregularity in the manner of selecting drawing or summoning jurors unless due objection is made before said alleged disqualified or illegally selected jurors are sworn.

Section 10 Proceedings if Array is Quashed. When the array of jurors returned at any court shall be quashed by reason of any fault or irregularity in the selection of said array of jurors the court shall forthwith order another public drawing of jurors in the manner provided in this act to take the place of the jurors on the quashed array and said jurors shall be legal jurors for the week for which the jurors in said quashed array were drawn. The court shall prescribe what notice shall be given of the names occupations and addresses of the persons thus drawn so as to conform as nearly as may be practicable under the circumstances to the notice of and to jurors drawn as prescribed by sections five and six of this act. If there has been any fundamental irregularity in filling the jury wheel the court of common pleas may upon satisfactory proof of said irregularity order the wheel emptied and then refilled with names of persons qualified for jury service. Said names shall be selected by the jury board and as nearly as possible according to the procedure prescribed in this act except that the same shall be done within a time to be prescribed by the court.

Section 11 The provisions of this act relating to the drawing of jurors shall not apply to the drawing of jurors in any county in which the jury wheel was filled for the year under the provisions of any other act of Assembly applicable to such county at the time such wheel was filled and the names of jurors shall be drawn therefrom under the provisions of the law applicable to such county at the time such jury wheel was so filled. Provided however That thereafter this act shall apply to such counties and the jury wheel shall be filled and the names of jurors drawn therefrom under the provisions of this act only.

Section 12 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 13 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 140, as follows:

An Act to amend section one of the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws 623) entitled "An act prohibiting the erection of fences or similar structures above a certain height in suburban and similar districts of cities of the first class except under a permit declaring certain fences a private nuisance and their erection a misdemeanor and prescribing penalties for violation of the provisions of this act" by extending the provisions thereof to include fences in suburban and similar districts in all cities and boroughs

Section 1 Section one of the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws 623) entitled "An act prohibiting the erection of fences or similar structures above a certain height in suburban and similar districts of cities of the first class except under a permit declaring certain fences a private nuisance and their erection a misdemeanor and prescribing penalties for violation of the provisions of this act" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 1 Be is enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be unlawful for the owner or occupant of any improved premises in any suburban district of a city [of the first] [class] or borough (whether the premises concerned be assessed at rural suburban or city rates) to erect any fence or structure resembling a fence or to re-erect during the process of repairing any fence previously erected upon any part of the front yard lawn or space of said premises or on or along the boundary line thereof of a greater height than four feet if the height in excess of the said four feet is unnecessary or if the same is maliciously erected elevated and maintained for the purpose of annoying the owner or occupant of the adjoining premises. Every such fence or structure so maliciously erected elevated and maintained in excess of four feet in height shall be deemed and is hereby declared to be a private nuisance.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Harkins. Tronzo.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 449, entitled:

An Act to amend clause (a) of section one and section four of the act approved the thirty-first day of March, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-seven (P. L. 160) entitled "An act creating a commission to be known as the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission; defining in part the powers and duties of such commission; abolishing The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, terminating the terms of the members thereof, and transferring to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission the records, employes, property, and equipment of The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; authorizing the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission to appear in and complete all pending proceedings, legal or otherwise, instituted before, by or against The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania; providing that all certificates of public convenience, contracts, orders, and rules and regulations of the latter commission shall remain effective until repealed, changed or modified by the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, and transferring and appropriating to the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission any unexpended balance of any existing appropriation to The Public Service Commission of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania," by changing method of appointing and removing members of the Commission and making political activity a grounds for their removal.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate either of the sponsors of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Bucks, Mr. Stockham, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, I will.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Bucks, under the existing law who makes appointments to the Public Utility Commission.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Mr. Speaker, the Governor of the Commonwealth with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Bucks whether or not this bill will change the consent of the Senate that is required, the stated two-thirds, to a majority.

Mr. STOCKHAM. Yes, it will, Mr. Speaker.

CONSTITUTIONAL POINT OF ORDER

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, in view of the statements made by the gentleman from Bucks which indicate that under present existing law appointments to the Public Utility Commission are made by the Governor of the Commonwealth by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, in view of the Constitutional provisions that require all the appointments of the Governor to be made by and with the consent and advice of two-thirds of the Senate, and in view of the fact that this act seeks to circumvent a constitutional provision, on behalf of myself and the following signed members, Messrs. Roy E. Furman, E. J. Holland, L. A. Achterman and Joseph Omlinsky, I wish to raise the Constitutional question.

The SPEAKER. The Chair under Rule 4, is required to submit questions affecting the Constitutionality of a bill to the House for decision, which it now does.

On the question,

Will the House sustain the Constitutional point of order?

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, in considering the constitutionality of this measure, I wish to offer the following:

From time immemorial it has been the province of the Legislature to prescribe rates, and in so doing, the United States Supreme Court as far back as 94 U. S. in case of Munn vs. Illinois, upheld the right of the state Legislature to prescribe rates for utilities.

The theory under which this act was drafted is very briefly this: In 1913, the Legislature of Pennsylvania adopted the Public Service Company Act, which act was in force up until 1937, when the Legislature repealed it, struck out the Public Service Commission and set up the Public Utility Commission in its place.

As stated before, it has always been within the province of the Legislature to prescribe rates and to govern public utilities. As such, Mr. Speaker, this Legislature is exercising its legislative power, and has delegated it to its branch or its arm, so to speak, and gave to the old Public Service Commission in 1913 the right to govern utilities and to set up rates. This Legislature is not sitting all the time and there must be some person who has the power to make appointments and to fill vacancies in the Public Service Commission, now the Public Utility Commission, and for this purpose the Legislature of Pennsylvania designated the Governor as its agent, who is here all the time, to fill vacancies when, as and if they occur.

The act of 1913, the old Public Service Company Act, prescribes certain circumstances under which the Governor may fill vacancies. I understand that the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, has raised a constitutional question here. It is a fact that under Article 4, Section 8, of the Constitution of Pennsylvania, the Governor shall make such appointments by and with the consent of two-thirds of the Senate, but this applies only to executive appointments, and does not apply to Legislative appointments.

The Public Utility Commission is merely a branch, a right arm of the Legislature; it sits all the time. The Legislature does not sit all the time. This question has been directly decided by our Pennsylvania Supreme Court in three cases.

I would like to read for the benefit of the members of the House a brief statement of the position of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the case of Commonwealth ex rel Attorney General vs. Benn, 284 Pa. 421.

Quoting the law of 1913, the Governor by and with the advice and consent of the Senate may appoint members of the Public Service and likewise "The Governor, by and with the consent of the Senate, may remove any commissioner, . . . for inefficiency, neglect of duty, misconduct in office," and so forth.

Now, Mr. Speaker, continuing to read from the opinion, in this instant case at page 436:

"The above cases, to which a host of others, equally strong, might be added, demonstrate that public service commissioners must be viewed as deputies of the general assembly to perform legislative work; and since, in the words of our Superior Court, the commissioners are the 'representatives of the legislature and not of . . . the executive,' the legislature might, as before said, have named them directly; but the Governor, being 'an integral part of the law-making power of the state' and being constantly at hand, whereas the legislature has long periods of recess, the latter very naturally chose him as its agent for the purpose of exercising its authority to appoint its own instruments, giving him the right to take the initiative in both nominating and removing such representatives, subject to its ultimate approval, to be expressed by a vote of the Senate, which body the act before us in effect authorizes to speak for both chambers on such matters. At the same time, the general assembly dictated the manner in which the Governor might exercise the power which it conferred on him. All of this delegation of authority, however, is simply for the purpose of setting up machinery by which the appointing power may practically operate, and the legislature itself retains that power, the Governor acting only as its agent. This salient fact is the key to the situation in the present case, and, when this is kept in mind, it becomes clear that the legislation under attack is not in any sense inconsistent with the Constitution of the State; on the contrary, it presents merely a direction by the general assembly as to how delegated authority shall be exercised by a named agent."

And I quote again the following sentence: ". . . It is not in any sense inconsistent with the Constitution of the State."

In the case of Commonwealth ex rel Attorney General vs. Shelby, 284 Pa. 443, the same point is covered, and also in the case of Commonwealth vs. Stewart, 286 Pa. 511, the same point of law is involved.

Mr. Speaker, very briefly it may be boiled down to this: Under the Constitution, the Governor may appoint executive officers. In other words, the Governor appoints and they must be ratified by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate. This, is not an executive appointment. It is a Legislative appointment. The Legislature is merely setting up the machinery and prescribing how its acts and desires shall be carried forth and accomplished. In so doing, Mr. Speaker, it is not an executive appointment, it is a legislative appointment. The Public Utility Commission is a child of the Legislature and as such the Legislature has the right to prescribe the manner in which its officers shall be named.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker, under these three decisions by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, which are directly in point, and which I have read, this very act and this very point have been decided so I do not see how, under any construction, the gentleman from York can call this particular act unconstitutional.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that I must differ with the gentleman from Lancaster. While the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn has held the Public Utility Commission, or rather its predecessor, the Public Service Commission, to be an arm of the Legislature, nevertheless the cases which have been cited by the gentleman from Lancaster are not on the point. In each one of those cases, the Governor without the advice and consent of the Senate attempted to remove a sitting member of the Public Service Commission.

In the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth said that the Governor having made the appointment by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, the only way the Governor could remove a sitting member of the Public Service Commission was to obtain the same advice and consent of the Senate that he utilized in the first instance in making the appointment.

That decision is in full accord with another constitutional provision that requires and makes it possible for the Governor, appointing an official, to remove the individual or officer of the Commonwealth whom he has appointed. It is horn book law that the power to appoint a civil officer carries with it also the power to remove, but in the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, when the Governor of the Commonwealth attempted to remove a sitting commissioner without using the same forces that had been utilized to effectuate the appointment, the Supreme Court held that he could not be so removed. Therefore the cases that have been cited, Commonwealth vs. Benn, Commonwealth vs. Stewart, and Commonwealth vs. Shelby are not in point, because not one single Supreme Court interpretation of the Constitution can be cited by the gentleman from Lancaster which will say that the Governor of the Commonwealth may appoint Public Utility Commissioners with a majority, nor can the gentleman from Lancaster tell me one decision of our Supreme Court that gives the Governor the power to remove a member of the Public Utility Commission without receiving the necessary two-thirds vote of the Senate. What this bill attempts to do is to fly in the face of the constitutional provision, Article IV of Section 8, which states that the Governor shall nominate, by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all of the members of the Senate certain officers whom he is entitled to appoint either under the Constitution or under the law.

The gentleman from Bucks has stated to this House that under the present existing law, the members of the Public Utility Commission are appointed by the Governor and even though this Legislature has appointed the Governor as its agent to make the appointment to the Public Utility Commission, nevertheless the Governor under the Constitution in exercising the agency delegated to him by the members of this House and by the Senate must exercise that appointing agency in a constitutional manner, and the Constitution definitely says, in Article IV, Section 8, that that appointment must be made by and with the consent of two-thirds of the Senate. I submit that the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn never decided this point. The case of Commonwealth vs. Benn states that if the Governor seeks to remove a sitting member of the Public Utility Commission that such member can only be removed in a constitutional manner; in a manner that would give the Governor the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate to effectuate the removal. Commonwealth vs. Benn never decided that the Governor could appoint or could remove commissioners of the Public Utility Commission without the necessary two-thirds consent of all the members of the Senate.

I might state to the members of the House that the problem of whether or not the Public Utility Commission is or is not an arm or branch of the Legislature, is beset with innumerable contradictions. In our own administrative code, Section 31, it is defined just what the Public Utility Commission is, and in Section 61 of Title 71 of Purdon's Statutes it is indicated that the executive and administrative work of this Commonwealth shall be performed by the executive department "consisting of the Governor," and then it goes on, "by the following independent administrative boards and commissions," designating the Game Commission, the Board of Fish Commissioners and the Public Utility Commission. So, by our own administrative code it has been accepted that the Public Utility Commission is a separate, distinct and independent commission functioning in order to give the people what might have been termed legislative enactment as far as rates are concerned, but not going beyond that in the exercise of its judicial and quasi judicial powers.

I might also state that in the same administrative code is contained a provision relative to the appointment of the Public Utility Commissioners, requiring the same constitutional two-thirds "advice and consent" of the Senate.

Mr. Speaker and members of this House, by this bill we are attempting to change the fundamental law as to the appointment of Public Utility Commissioners that has existed in this Commonwealth from time immemorial. The advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate is an integral part of such appointments.

May I quote to you a resume of the debate and deliberations that were had in a chamber similar to this during the formation of our Constitution in 1874. In arriving at the intent of the framers of the Constitution when this section was discussed, a reading of the debates, makes it apparent immediately that the framers of the Constitution intended that every appointment by the Governor must receive the approval of two-thirds of the members of the Senate before the persons mentioned by the executive may be appointed.

In five debates on the Constitution, pages 206 to 213, the discussion centered about the insertion of the two-thirds approval of all the members of the Senate, rather than a mere majority of the Senate. The Constitutional framers voted to insert the two-thirds requirement, because they felt the Governor should be required to designate a person who would be so qualified for the position that two-thirds of all the members of the Senate would vote for his appointee rather than a mere majority, which the Governor could easily obtain if his party had a slight majority in the Senate Chamber. Whereas he would be required to designate an outstanding nominee if he hoped to obtain the required extra votes in an evenly divided Senate.

Furthermore the debate recorded in these pages makes it clear that the framers intended that every nominee mentioned in the Constitution or in any law should obtain a two-thirds consent of all the members of the Senate. Clearly, the Constitutional history of the Commonwealth has been such from the very enactment of our Constitution as to require two-thirds "advice and consent" of the Senate before any member of the Public Utility Commission or any other officer of the Commonwealth be appointed. If we as members of the House feel that in order to obviate the intent of the framers of the Constitution, in order to make it possible to appoint men who do not have the qualifications that muster a two-thirds vote in the other Chamber, if we feel that this long history of approval should be flaunted and thrown to the winds just to help out in a political expediency, then you members on the other side might be justified in violating the clear intent of the Constitutional provisions, but speaking for the minority, we say that the Constitutional provisions are plain and explicit, and I ask the membership of this House to so vote on this question.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, has made reference to the administrative code of 1923. In answer thereto I would like to read from this very same opinion concerning the applicability of the administrative code to this present situation.

"The fact that the Administrative Code (Act of June 7, 1923, P. L. 498), the statute dealing with the executive department of the government, includes in a manner, the Public Service Company Law, . . . cannot change the predominant character of the Public Service Commission as 'an administrative arm of the legislature,' or serve to make the Commission any more a part of the executive department that it was before being mentioned in the code."

Now, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I submit that that is ample answer to the objection raised by the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

As to the fact that the administrative code requires that all these appointments must be by the advice and consent of a two-thirds vote of the members of the Senate, I would like to remind you that the Act of 1913, setting up the Public Service Commission, provides that appointees shall be by the advice and consent of the Senate, and it was not until the act of 1937, P. L. 160, passed by the last administration, when it was deemed advisable to abolish the Public Service Commission and set up the Public Utility Commission, that there was inserted in this act the provision that all of the appointees must receive the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate.

Furthermore, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the argument of the gentleman from York, it seems to me, makes my position more clear and more certain that the Public Utility Commission is a child, a branch or the right arm, whatever you choose to call it, of the Legislature, because he cited the Benn case and stated it was there held that the Governor did not have the right to remove summarily a member of the Commission without action by the Legislature. That is precisely what the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania decided in that case and that is precisely what I am saying here today, that the members of the Legislature, the House and the Senate are the ones to determine the qualifications, mode of appointment, and mode of removal of these officers, and therefore it is precisely within the province of this Legislature to prescribe that the members may be appointed with the advice and consent of the Senate, which means the majority of the members of the Senate and not by the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate. What this act under discussion now contemplates doing is really to restore the qualifications of a Public Utility Commissioner, the same as it was under the previous existing act which had been in effect from 1913 to 1937, namely, "with the advice and consent of the Senate."

Now, Mr. Speaker, I think that that amply answers the argument which the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, has made concerning the constitutionality of this measure, and I would ask the members of this House to vote in favor of it.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Alspach.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Lancaster permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ALSPACH. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Lancaster whether he can cite me an instance under the 1913 Public Service Commission Law wherein any member of the Public Service Commission was appointed without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I know of none.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I am not sure that the gentleman understands what I asked him. The question was whether he could cite me an instance where any member of the Public Service Commission was appointed under the 1913 act without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that I would state that I have not followed the proceedings as to the "advice and consent" on these Public Service Commissioners from 1913 up until 1937. I am unaware of the number of votes it was necessary to muster.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that even though the 1913 act did not have the requirement of two-thirds of the members of the Senate, that all of the appointments to the Public Service Commission under the 1913 act were made by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that I would say that I have no information as to the votes necessary for the appointment of any particular appointee or any particular officer to the Public Service Commission under the act of 1913. I would suggest that that information is available to the gentleman from York, if he would care to go back to the Legislative Journals and secure it.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Lancaster, whether he can cite me any Supreme Court decision in which an appointment to the Public Service Commission or the Public Utility Commission without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate was held to be a constitutional appointment.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I know of no such case.

I might further add that very probably, and in fact I would not be at all surprised to learn, that Public Service Commission appointees from 1913 to 1937 did receive the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate, but whether they received the unanimous consent of the Senate, that would not destroy the effect of the act of 1913, which says that a mere majority would have been sufficient.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is it not a fact that the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn did not decide that it was possible to make appointments to the Public Service Commission or Public Utility Commission without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, but rather decided that a member of the Public Service Commission could not be removed summarily by the Governor without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate?

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that I would say that the precise question involved in the Benn case, was as the gentleman from York has stated, whether the Governor could summarily dismiss a member of the Public Service Commission without the advice and consent of the Senate. I would say to that, however, that the court went into this entire question and the constitutional questions generfc to this question, or in any way involved in this question, and considered them in detail, in the very learned opinion of then Chief Justice Von Moschzisker in which he discusses all of these problems. I might say further, that although you might say that this question at this point is different, so far as the exact precise law and decision of the court is concerned, when it comes down from the lips of the Justice of the Supreme Court, it is very, very persuasive especially since we have no other precedents in our courts.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Lancaster read me the dictum that would indicate that a member of the Public Utility Commission or the Public Service Commission can be appointed without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, in reply to that I will refer the gentleman from York to the section which I have already read and which I assume appear as part of the record. I think those sections adequately apply and I know of no other law that would otherwise cover it.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand from the gentleman from Lancaster that the dictum in the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn would indicate that an appointment could be made to the Public Utility Commission without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, and with a mere majority of the Senate?

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, that is my interpretation of this act.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman from Lancaster refer to the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, and read, for the benefit of the members of the House, the dictum that would indicate that a less number than two-thirds of the members of the Senate would be required to confirm such an appointment?

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I would refer to the excerpts which I have read previously, and I would say that under this dictum and under the holding in the case itself, the Public Service Commission is an arm of the Legislature and it would naturally follow, you might say, as night follows day, that whatever the Legislature chooses to do, that is valid and binding.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, we in the law know that dictum is not the turning point in a case. Nevertheless in the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, while the case went on and discussed the development of the Public Service Commission and the Public Utility Commission, not one sentence in a reading of the entire case would indicate that it would be constitutional to make an appointment to the Public Utility Commission without first having obtained the necessary constitutional requirement of two-thirds of the "advice and consent" of the Senate. The case definitely holds, as the gentleman from Lancaster admits, that before the Governor can remove a member of the Public Utility Commission, it is required that he have the advice and consent of the appointing agency with him, namely the Senate, and have it in the same manner as when he made the appointment, namely, a two-thirds majority. Under those circumstances, I must reiterate to the members of this House that the constitutional history, even under the old Public Service Commission law, the procedure followed by the Senate on appointments to the Public Service Commission under the Act of 1913, was with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, indicating that the constitutional provision became a part of the law, and governed the Governor in the exercise of his appointive power.

I say to the membership of this House to attempt to change that long-established procedure is not merely an attempt to change our legislative enactment, but is an attempt to change our Constitution, and there is only one way to do that . . . by constitutional amendment . . . and even though night follows day, this is not a constitutional amendment and until we act under the power expressly given us by the people of the Commonwealth, we have no right to make inroads into the Constitution of 1874.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I do not desire to prolong this technical debate on the question which is now before us, but I would like to read for the benefit of the gentleman from York the following paragraphs of the opinion of the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, which I think is in answer to the question that he asked of the gentleman from Lancaster, who had not the opportunity to examine the case at the moment he was being interrogated. I am sure he would have answered it if he had had an opportunity to look at it as I have. On page 431 it is provided as follows:

"Moreover, in providing for a practical method of selecting and dismissing its own appointees, the general assembly could permit the Governor, or whatever agency it might select for the purpose, to act in removing the officials thus named, and it could dictate the exclusive manner in which the removal should be made; for, under such circumstances the general assembly, as the appointing power, would have the right to provide by statute how its 'pleasure' (in the language of the Constitution) should be expressed, since there is nothing in the Constitution from which it can be even plausibly argued that, if the legislature sees fit to delegate to others its power to appoint its own deputies, it is required to give to these others an uncontrolled appointive power."

The gentleman from York has made the statement that it is elementary that the power to appoint is the power to remove, but what he is trying to confuse the members of this House on, is that the power to appoint a Public Utility Commissioner is in the Executive. That is not the law, and it has been definitely determined as not being the law, because the Supreme Court has held in the Benn case that the power to appoint is in the Legislature, and if the Legislature has the power to appoint it has the power to remove and it and it only can determine the manner in which that power shall be exercised, and that is exactly what the Legislature is doing in this bill.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, like the majority leader, I do not intend to prolong the debate, but in view of the fact that there is only one question before us, it might be well to stick to the Constitution, since a constitutional question has been raised.

Article IV, Section 8 says

"He (meaning the Governor) shall nominate and by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all of the members of the Senate appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth, an Attorney General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint."

I submit to the membership of this House that if the Governor makes an appointment under the Constitution, he is bound to get a two-thirds consent of the Senate; if he makes it by law, whether that law is delegated by the Legislature or not, he must have two-thirds. He can only make appointments in one of two ways, either by the Constitution or by law. If he makes it by the Constitution, he is bound by two-thirds, and if he makes it by law, he is bound by two-thirds.

I submit further that only in those two ways can the Governor make any appointments, and if he does he must make that appointment in the manner provided by the Constitution. "He shall nominate and by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of all the members of the Senate, appoint a Secretary of the Commonwealth, an Attorney-General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth" Now, there seems to me to be no doubt that the Public Utility Commission are officers of the Commonwealth. It seems to me that the language is so plain that he who is deaf must hear. If there is some other way by which the Governor can appoint, then probably the gentleman from Lancaster is right, but if he does it by law he is bound by the Constitution, and if he does it by the Constitution, he is bound by the Constitution. If he does it by law, there is only one body that can make the law and that is the Legislature. It therefore seems to me that the gentleman from York is right on the question of Constitutionality, and I say that the House should sustain him.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from Alleghany, Mr. Brown, has made reference to a provision of the Constitution, Article IV, Section 8, concerning executive appointments. I would like to read from the opinion in the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, as follows:

"Since bodies like the Public Service Commission were not in the minds of the people when they voted on the Constitution, and because the place in controversy is not a constitutional office, the above mentioned section of the organic law has no application."

Mr. Speaker, it seems to me that under this interpretation, Article IV, Section 8 of the Constitution, names certain officers,—the Secretary of the Commonwealth, the Attorney General, the Superintendent of Public Instruction and the like, and those are all constitutional offices provided for in the Constitution itself. They were not in existence in 1873 and 1874 when this Constitution was adopted. They are constitutional offices and their appointment must be with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, as it is stipulated here. The Public Service law did not come into being until 1913, and it was the Legislature itself that set it up. The Public Utility Commission is not a constitutional body; the members of the Public Utility Commission are not constitutional officers and therefore the Legislature, in saying in 1913 that the members shall be appointed by and with the advice of the Senate,—and that is exactly what is said, with the advice and consent of the Senate—meant the majority of the members of the Senate. Now, I would like to ask whether the gentleman from York can show me any case or refer to any case in which it was decided that the appointment of a Public Service Commissioner requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate for his confirmation.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I will answer that question even though it is not directed to me. I will answer it by quoting to the gentleman from Lancaster his own case of Commonwealth vs. Benn. It is the established law that the power to appoint carries with it the power to remove, and the Supreme Court has said that before a member of the Public Utility Commission may be removed, he must have the same elements and agencies cooperating in making the removal as cooperated in making the appointment. The Supreme Court stated that in order to remove him he must be removed by the Governor by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate, so it follows that in order to make an appointment, it requires the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker, I have here in my hand Volume 284 which is the Case of Commonwealth vs. Benn, and I would like the gentleman from York to read to me where it was decided that it required a vote of two-thirds of the Senate to remove a Public Utility Commissioner. I was under the impression, Mr. Speaker, that the contention of the gentleman from York a few moments ago was that the only thing decided by the case was that the Governor could not summarily dismiss a Public Utility Commissioner without the Senate's passing on it and "O.K.ing" it. I have this volume if the gentleman would like to look at it.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from York take the report of the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn and point out to the gentleman from Lancaster the passage he requests?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I do not need it as I remember the case verbatim. I can quote it to you —

Mr. ALSPACH. I think that answers the question, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I can only refer the gentleman from Lancaster to his own construction of the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn when he quotes me as saying that the case of Commonwealth vs. Benn holds that the Governor cannot summarily dismiss members of the Public Service Commission without obtaining the advice and consent of the Senate in order to effectuate such a dismissal. That is my interpretation of the case and the gentleman from Lancaster's interpretation of the case, but to carry it one step further, I would say that since it requires two-thirds of the Senate to make effective the removal, in addition to the removal by the Governor it follows that in order to make an appointment it requires the advice and consent of two-thirds of the Senate.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this long-established practice has been followed in every Public Service confirmation from 1913 up to the present time. Not one single solitary officer of the Commonwealth has ever been confirmed by the Senate without the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members and to change it now is not changing the law, it is changing the Constitution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House sustain the Constitutional Point of Order?

So the question was determined in the negative and the Constitutional Point of Order was not sustained.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar, in order that the Attorney General may give to this House an opinion as to the constitutionality of this particular bill.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. ALSPACH. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think the question of the constitutionality in this case has been very carefully studied and considered by various persons and I think it will do no good at the present time to have this bill postponed, awaiting the opinion of the Attorney General. I am not placing myself in the position of casting any aspersions on the results of the findings therein, but I am merely stating that to put this measure on the postponed calendar would be to cause needless delay, and I request the members of the House to vote against this motion.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order. The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, it is irregular for this Legislature to ask the Attorney General for an opinion on a constitutional point, that being solely the prerogative of the Governor.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is of the opinion that the point of order of the gentleman from Cambria is well taken, but the gentleman from Northampton, Mr. Jiro-lanio, is in order in making the motion to postpone.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it was no surprise to me to have the Public Utility Commission Ripper presented to this House under a camouflage, for the attitude of Governor James—since he took office—in trying to disrupt the workings of the Public Utility Commission has been very evident. But, of course, he is merely living up to his campaign promises made to the Utilities and is trying to pay them back for the monies they spent in having him elected. At least, we have to admit that he is very honest in his endeavor to pay the Utilities back, with interest, for his political debt to them.

Let me read to you a heading taken from our Pittsburgh newspapers last Friday, March 17th—and I might add, the Utilities picked a good day to make this announcement, for March 17th was the third anniversary of the great flood, costing many lives of Pennsylvania and $212,000,000.00 in property damages—for it has been the Utilities that have obstructed Flood Control in Pennsylvania since 1897. This heading reads "Peoples Gas Co. Demands Increase In Rates." With the Public Utility Commission that is now existing, they will not get permission to gouge the users of gas—but with the Public Utility Commission controlled by James, the Utilities would get prompt consideration and assent. And, I might add, that the only rates that are to be increased are the rates to the small home owners and the poor relief recipients. In other words, if they are permitted to increase their rates, the consumer who pays $3.00 for 5,000 cubic feet of gas will pay $4.02 under the new set-up.

Some of you will say "Why doesn't he confine his remarks to the Bill that is being discussed?" But when this bill is discussed we should know the results of this legislation when it is enacted into law. Utility lobbyists were very active in this House to get this bill on the calendar.

House Bill No. 449 was introduced on Wednesday, March 8, reported to committee and reported out of committee the following Tuesday, although there are other bills lying in that committee which are much older than this bill.

Was it merely a coincidence that the Peoples Gas Company asked for an increase in rates at the same time that the change in the Utility Commission was asked for?

There is not one member of this House who can accuse the Public Utility Commission of not functioning in the interests of the people. If Governor James is going to try to fool the people, that because a member of this Commission dare make a speech and tell the people of the true conditions existing in Pennsylvania on utility matters, that that Commissioner should be removed for "political activities," then we might as well invite Hitler to Pennsylvania because it is dictatorship controlled by the Utilities of Pennsylvania that is set up in this Bill. At least Hitler might give the people of Pennsylvania some consideration. They'll not get it when this bill is passed.

What is political activity? When a man takes an interest in using his constitutional rights to support for office a person of his choosing he is politically active. Today, any man or woman who does not become politically active and takes an interest in government is worse than the slacker who refused to fight for his country in the World War. If we continue to disfranchise voters, it will be only a matter of time until the only people who will be permitted to run for office, who will be permitted to vote, will be those who appear in Dunn and Bradstreet, for we are steadily trying to build up a feudal system in this state, so that only the voice of the vested interests shall be heard, and the hundreds of thousands of unemployed and "Border Line Relief" inhabitants will be treated worse than the slaves of olden days.

I appeal to the Republican members of this House, if you are looking for places for "deserving Republicans," why do you not insist that the openings already filled by the Governor be given to "deserving Republicans" who need incomes, instead of to men of large incomes who hold other jobs paying them from six to ten thousand a year? You will find that the Public Utility appointments will be dictated by the utilities, and that you members of this House will not be given any consideration in replacing the present Public Utility Commission.

You Republican members from Allegheny County are going to have a hard job explaining to your constituents back home, when the James Public Utility Commission permits the Peoples Gas Company to increase their gas rates, why you voted for this change in Commission personnel so that the Governor could serve his friends, the utilities, and not your constituents back home who are going to be compelled to pay more money for their gas.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, as one of the members who had nothing to do with the appointment of members of the present Commission, and as one of the members of the House who fought against the ripper bills by which the present commissioners got their jobs, I would remind the gentleman from Allegheny that the men who are on the Commission today got those positions because of their political activities,—and if he cares to have a private session with me I will tell him exactly when and where. I submit that the proper thing to do would be to throw them all out by the same method whereby they came in, but Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it has been the Governor's pleasure apparently to penalize further the political activities of commissioners who are supposed to administer the wishes of the Legislature, if you please, with regard to utility rates and rights in the state of Pennsylvania. I do not think it was very becoming, Mr. Speaker, for the gentleman from Allegheny to air a particular grievance against a particular utility company on the floor of this Legislature and make a campaign speech for his constituents at the expense of the time of the members of the House. I do not know what motive may have impelled that particular company to do the particular thing it did, but certainly it was not politic, because if ever there was an inopportune time to bring up a question of that sort it would be now. That is almost a self proving situation. This bill, if the Constitutionalists are right, is constitutional when it requires a majority of the Senate, but I don't think so, Mr. Speaker. I agree with the Democratic members, who seem to be the ones who thought that the Governor at all times was either the Governor or nothing, and when as Governor he made appointments he did so as Governor and not as an errand boy or an agent of the Legislature. I agree with that, but I certainly do not agree with the gentleman from Allegheny with regard to the propriety of this bill. It is certainly a proper cause for removing these or any other important servants if they should be politically active at the expense of the office for which the taxpayer is paying.

I want to say in comment that while I had nothing to do either with the suggestion or selection of any member of the present Cabinet of this Administration, whether they are highly paid or not and it makes no difference to me so long as the men chosen have the ability and the capacity with which to administer their offices. I wish to compliment the Governor of this Commonwealth upon the quality of the men whom he has chosen to fill the Cabinet positions with which I am familiar.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I had not intended to take the floor on this bill, but the gentleman who just spoke caused me to change my mind. I will therefore take the floor so I can explain to the minority why I am going to support this measure.

Looking at this measure I cannot but realize what a magnificent instrument it would have been in the hands of Governor Gifford Pinchot when he wanted to fire the Public Service Commissioners. Looking upon this measure I cannot but realize what a magnificent instrument it would have been in the hands of George Earle when he wanted to fire the Public Service Commissioners. They finally had to introduce a bill to accomplish that purpose. Surveying this measure, and keeping in mind the possibility that a Governor might be elected by the Democratic party, when, as and if that is accomplished, I would call attention to the fact that the previous administration by its rippers endangered its position. I opposed, so far as lay within my power, all ripper activities upon the part of the previous administration. I am in favor of this bill, and in supporting it, I would like to say there is a lack of frankness about it. The purpose of this bill is to enable any Governor, whether a Republican Governor or a Democratic Governor, to fire any member of the Public Utility Commission for any reason he wants to, and at any time he wants to. The words "political activity" mean anything that the Governor wants them to mean, or anything that twenty-six members of the Assembly want them to mean. If the majority party wants to take the position that the Public Utility Commission should henceforth cease to be the instrument of this legislature and become the instrument of political leadership, it suits me, because that is the very kind of a position that I would like to see the majority party take.

Mr. LEVY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I too, like the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, have no sympathy whatever with any member of this House who might now take the opportunity to oppose this bill in order to keep the Democratic party in power. And should a different party come into power and attempt to do the same thing, I would say "God speed."

In this bill, members of the House, I believe we are met with one issue and one issue alone. That is not the ripper feature of this bill. We are met with the Constitutional provision as outlined by the gentleman from Lancaster and the gentleman from York, where they cited Article IV, Section 8 of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Have we as members of the Legislature the right to pass laws taking the power away from the upper chamber when the Constitution of the Commonwealth in clear and distinct wording gives them such power? Article IV, Section 8 of the Constitution provides not as Mr. Alspach said a few moments ago. The gentleman from Lancaster, in defending the constitutionality of this act made some reference to a section in the Constitution, but I was very sorry to hear that he did not go far enough. Section 8 of the Constitution provides that "he" meaning the Governor, "shall nominate by and with the advice and consent of two-thirds of the members of the Senate, a Secretary of the Commonwealth, an Attorney-General during pleasure, a Superintendent of Public Instruction for four years, and such other officers of the Commonwealth as he is or may be authorized by the Constitution or by law to appoint."

Mr. Speaker, I challenge the gentleman from Lancaster to say on the floor of this House that he feels that any member of the Public Utility Commission is not an officer of this Commonwealth. They individually receive their power from the Legislature, it is true, but they are paid by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and they became an arm of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania when they took their oath of office.

When the Constitution of Pennsylvania was written these words were placed in it clearly to mean any such officers of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I might point out to the gentleman from Lancaster that he need not go back to 1873 or 1874, but on the bottom of the page referring to this section, he will read that this section was amended in 1909 and the amendment did not change the meaning that this was all inclusive as to "officers of the Commonwealth."

My friends, the constitutionality of this act is important to us. It is especially important to every member of the House who feels that the constitution of the Commonwealth should not be tampered with. This is a dangerous bill, it is vicious in its inception, and I ask the members of the House to vote down this measure.

On the question, recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. DENMAN filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am voting "no" on House Bill No. 449 for the following reasons:

"Section 4 of the said Bill restricting the person in question from exercising his right to speak freely on public matters is a violation of Section 7 of Article 1 of the Pennsylvania Constitution which reads as follows:

"The free communication of thought and opinion is one of the invaluable rights of man and every citizen may freely speak, write, and print on any subject, being responsible for the abuse of that liberty."

Mr. ROSENFELD filed the following reasons for his vote:

I oppose enactment of House Bill No. 449, Printer's No. 62 for the reason that the measure is not designed to prohibit political activity by the members of the commission. This is another measure of the Republican Administration to compensate political activity and to assist public utilities.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 301, as follows:

An Act providing that sentence shall not be imposed by any court of criminal jurisdiction on any person convicted of any offense before such court until after the expiration of five days from the date of conviction

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows:

Section 1 Whenever any person shall be convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime the said court or any judge specially presiding in said court upon application of such person or his counsel shall not pass sentence on said person until after the expiration of five (5) days from the date of rendition of verdict by a jury or the finding of guilty by the court which said person is tried before the court without a jury Nothing in this act shall be construed to limit the power of the court to order said person detained in the county jail of the county where said person is tried pending sentence but nevertheless such convicted person shall be entitled to be admitted to bail as now provided by law

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to know from the gentleman from Dauphin whether the Commission now would be the same as it was back in 1913?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is not discussing the bill before the House. The bill before the House is House Bill No. 301, Printer's No. 90.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 199, entitled:

An Act to confirm and validate past tax levies or assessments made by school districts of the first class and liens filed thereon

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Ominsky.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Philadelphia permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. OMINSKY. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, I desire to know the purpose of the bill.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this bill declares that all school taxes levied for 1939 and preceding years are confirmed by the Legislature and are to be treated as if the Legislature itself had originally made the levy for that year. This bill provides that the taxes levied shall be valid liens against real estate. The bill is necessary because the Supreme Court some time ago declared that no delegation of a tax levy shall be made unless a specific levy is intended. This bill states that the Legislature confirms the levy which is made for 1939, both in Pittsburgh and in Philadelphia, and if it isn't done it may jeopardize the school budget of these two cities; therefore, it is necessary.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the tax bill for 1938 raised the school tax ten cents in Philadelphia? Is that correct?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, the special session of 1938 passed an act which provided an increase of one mill both in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia, but this bill does not increase the tax at present.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker, if this bill is not passed will the ten cent tax rise in Philadelphia remain and will it be constitutional?

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker, if this bill is not passed, the tax will remain as it is today; whether the act will be constitutional or not is not for me to determine but for the Supreme Court.

Mr. VOORHEES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I discuss this bill at this time because the tax rise of ten cents levied by the school district of Philadelphia is in direct opposition to the lower taxes levied by the city council of Philadelphia. Now, we have heard a great deal about city council of Philadelphia and about the school board of Philadelphia. City council is accused of being a political unit, and not being for all of the interests of the people of Philadelphia because they are elected by districts the same as you members here in the House are elected. Now, city council elected by representation in districts has lowered the tax rate in the last five years from $1.95 to $1.71. The tax rise by the Board of Education, a non-political unit, has steadily increased, in fact in the last thirty years the taxes have gone up five hundred percent in school teachers' salaries. It probably was too low thirty years ago, but a five hundred percent increase is something alarming. I further wish to state that it seems to me that a non-political unit, which has faced a mounting deficit in Philadelphia of six million dollars a year since 1932, due to the declining assessed values of real estate in Philadelphia, is in the same position as city council and if this non-political unit and this political unit are faced with the same problem, it doesn't seem to be fair to change our system. I have no better solution to offer than a rise in the tax rate to cure our deficit in the school budget, therefore, I did not oppose this bill, but I do point out that our school costs are alarming and that we should take that into consideration on an anticipated tax rise of more than one mill. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. OMINSKY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in asking your support of this bill, you will not Mr. Hamilton the gentleman from Philadelphia and I are tice that this is really a non-partisan measure because both sponsors of this bill. We feel that educational matters should be non-partisan. The rise in Philadelphia last year was necessary because, as the figures will show between 1930 and 1939 the assessments have been decreased in Philadelphia almost one billion dollars necessitating a rise in the tax itself. Had the assessments been the same, probably that rise would not have been necessary. As a matter of fact, the difference in the amount of the levy, as between 1930 and 1939, as far as Philadelphia is concerned, is seven hundred fifty million dollars less in 1939 than it was in 1930.

Now, this bill is necessary so that it will not jeopardize the possibility of a school budget in Philadelphia and in Pittsburgh, and if this bill is not passed and the levy is questioned as it is being questioned at the present time, there may be a possibility that the school teachers in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh will not be paid, and so, to show the intent of the legislature, this bill was introduced and is required so that the levy may be made proper if the Court later on may take the attitude that it is not. Now, it doesn't raise the present rate at all, it is the same thing that was done in 1938, and it is only for the year 1939. I understand that a regular school program will be submitted for future years. This bill is necessary in order to insure the payment of teachers' salaries and all other administrative expenses.

Shall the bill pass finally?

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O Blessed Father of light and love and wisdom, as legislators assembled here today we are filled with thanksgiving that we may pause in Thy Holy presence to think just a moment about Thee and the verities both of time and eternity.

We are grateful that our forefathers founded our government upon religious convictions and freedom which, under Thy guiding hand, have pervaded our national consciousness both directly and indirectly until the present time.

May we guard this priceless heritage even with our lives, if necessary, so that we and our posterity may never forget nor refuse to be faithful unto Thee.

In this hour may each of our hearts drink satisfyingly at the fountains of eternal life so richly filled by Thy beneficent hand, that we may apply Thy heavenly wisdom to earthly realities. This is true workmanship and highly desired by Thee.

We pray in the Name of Thy Christ. Amen.

COMMUNICATION URGING OPENING OF TUBERCULOSIS SANATORIUM AT BUTLER

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, my colleague, Senator Gilson, has handed to me a communication which I wish to read into the Journal at this time. This is a communication from the Erie County Health and Tuberculosis Association, dated March 18, 1939, reading as follows:

ERIE COUNTY HEALTH AND TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION

March 18, 1939.

Hon. Samuel Gilson, Senator,
State Legislature,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Dear Senator Gilson:

At the regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Erie County Health and Tuberculosis Association the following Resolution was unanimously adopted:

Whereas, There were 4800 tuberculosis deaths in Pennsylvania last year and on the basis of nine (9) cases to every death, there are approximately 44,000 active cases of tuberculosis in Pennsylvania at the present time, and at the most conservative estimate, at least 12,000 of these are in need of hospital treatment and,

Whereas, There are but 4512 beds available in Tuberculosis Hospitals or sanatoria in the State at this time, and,

Whereas, It is recognized by authorities on tuberculosis that the minimum requirements are two beds for each annual death, there is a dire need for provision for additional hospital beds and,

Whereas, The program sponsored by the previous administration provided for an additional 1163 beds or a total of 5675 Tuberculosis Hospital beds for Pennsylvania, and,

Whereas, This is but half of the amount actually needed and,

Whereas, It has been reported that Governor James is considering the curtailment of this program, especially in regard to the opening of the new State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Butler.

Be It Hereby Resolved, That this association respectfully petition the Governor and his Secretary of Health to reconsider the needs for adequate provision for our tuberculosis sick and that a sufficient sum be included in the budget for the opening of the State Sanatorium at Butler and the proposed additional beds in existing State Sanatoria.

Resolved, That a copy of this Resolution be sent to the Governor, the Secretary of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to the members of the State Legislature from Erie District and to State and County Tuberculosis Association of Pennsylvania.

COMMUNICATIONS URGING ASSISTANCE FOR TUBERCULOSIS SUFFERERS

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I desire to read into the record at this time two personal letters received this morning.

Community Fund
New Kensington, Pennsylvania

March 21, 1939

Hon. John Dent, Senator
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear Mr. Dent:

The following are the names of persons listed for sanatorium care through the Greensburg Tuberculosis Clinic.

Listed

Miss Margaret Melgot, 1420 Third Avenue	Nov. '38
Miss Helen Gidos, 1523 Fifth Avenue	Jan. 18, '39
Mr. John Hahn, 1500 Third Avenue	Mar. 1, '39
Mrs. Dessiree Hahn, 1500 Third Avenue	Mar. 1, '39

All of these persons reside in New Kensington, Pennsylvania.

There are a number of listed cases on Greensburg records of persons all living in our community who are in need of immediate sanatorium care. Living conditions of several of the patients are such that they should be given immediate hospitalization to be assured of a probably early recovery. Newspaper reports state that officials are again opening the Butler Sanatorium, and improvements to Pott and Torrance State institutions. We trust that serious consideration will be given a health program which will facilitate rehabilitation to the many sufferers of these diseases.

In writing to Dr. John M. Shaw, Secretary of Health, Harrisburg, we are advised that due to the scarcity of vacancies they are unable to arrange future dates for admissions.

It is not our intention, to tell any authority how best to function, yet in our daily associations with these persons when many are in the contagious stages of development we are called upon to assist in providing milk and diet and upon advice from the Doctors to purchase clothing and other necessities for their welfare; also, to arrange transportation to various clinics and sanatoriums. We feel that humanitarian interests are paramount in the preservation of health and life and that every effort should be made toward the early completion of these State institutions.

Respectfully yours,

EDWARD J. LINNEY,
Executive Secretary.

Paul K. McCormick
Attorney at Law
Greensburg, Pa.

March 14, 1939

Honorable John H. Dent, Pennsylvania State Senate,
Capitol Building,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

Dear John:

I seek your assistance in placing a young mother, afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis, in a State sanatorium at this time. This woman is Mrs. Carolyn Hitchens, 99 Penn Avenue, North Irwin, Pennsylvania. She is 27 years old, the mother of a child ten months old and is expecting another baby in about six weeks.

Her physician, Dr. R. R. Bushyager of Irwin, Pennsylvania, advises that she is seriously afflicted and should have immediate hospital care, particularly in view of the fact that she is now in the latter stage of pregnancy. The doctor indicates that if she receives the proper care and treatment at this time, she will have a fair chance for recovery.

This meritorious case has been called to my attention by very close friends of mine, and I would like for you to use your influence with the State Department of Health to have her admitted to Cresson or other state institution as soon as possible. You know that we will greatly appreciate your effort on behalf of this poor woman.

Thanking you for your attention and assistance in this matter, I am,

Cordially yours,

PAUL K. McCORMICK

I want to state further that I have applied to the Department of Health, and they tell me there are no vacancies and they do not know when there will be.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Chairman of the Committee on Executive Nominations, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. EALY, state whether it is not true that the appointment of Mr. Kilgore to the Stroudsburg State Teachers College is to fill a vacancy arising out of a resignation occurring in December of 1938?

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, before I present these two bills, I respectfully request the indulgence of my colleagues in order that I may set forth a brief resume respecting these bills. These bills affect anthracite coal. In view of the vital importance of their effect upon my constituents and the general welfare of the entire Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, I desire to make a statement concerning them. These bills provide for the creation and establishment of a Bureau of Research, as an adjunct of the Department of Mines of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, to conduct researches to discover a by-product for the use of anthracite coal, and to develop new scientific, chemical and other uses, and new and extended markets for anthracite coal and its products, as well as making an appropriation of $1,000,000, for the next biennium, to be used for the purchasing, leasing, and maintaining of equipment materials, and such other things necessary to conduct this Bureau of Research, the payment of salaries of chemists, engineers and such other experts and employees and all other necessary expenses.

I am in favor and advocate an aggressive, vigorous and intensive attack upon the discovery of a by-product for the use of anthracite coal for other than domestic heat. I am interested in such an attack and not a lackadaisical effort.

I am satisfied that the discovery of a by-product for the use of anthracite coal will not fall into our laps, and that we must go after it. I am for just that. I am in favor of taking the pick and shovel and digging in.

An appropriation of $1,000,000 for the next biennium is not too much. The effect upon our economic welfare and the effect upon unemployment upon a discovery of a by-product surely must be fully appreciated by everyone. It is my plan that a Bureau of Research be set up with the best trained experts in the field without regard to politics and equipped with the most modern equipment available.

I feel that the discovery of a by-product for the use of anthracite coal is most essential to the welfare of my community in particular and to Pennsylvania in general. Such a discovery belongs to the people of the State and I am against saddling the cost of the production of anthracite coal with more royalties, which would be the case if the discovery of a by-product is left to individual efforts. If my plan is successful all the consumers of anthracite coal will get the benefit and it will keep down the cost in order to permit anthracite coal to compete with substitutes. A discovery of such a by-product by the Bureau of Research of the Department of Mines of the Commonwealth under my plan will become the property of the State and not require the payment of any royalties for the discovery in the producing of anthracite coal and its products.

Mr. MILLER read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 269, entitled:

An Act to add section one thousand nine hundred and four to the act, approved the ninth day of April, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (P. QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EDMUNDS. Mr. President, yesterday there was presented to the Senate a very interesting report from Mr. Russell, Secretary of the Department of Public Assistance, relating to recipients of old age pensions among aliens. You will recall that the figures showed there were, all together, 87,837 who received old age assistance in the month of January, and of these 3,738 did not have American citizenship nor had they applied.

In going through an analysis of the counties it is rather interesting to note that there are several counties in the State in which there are no aliens who are receiving old age assistance.

They are generally the smaller counties, I take it, such as Adams county, Clarion county, Cumberland county, and so on.

There are other counties in which the percentage of aliens receiving old age assistance is as high as 9.9, such as Philadelphia County.

Senator Dent yesterday raised the question that there were a great many aliens in Pennsylvania who had never had the opportunity of preparing themselves for citizenship.

I think it would be very interesting, especially to the committee on Relief, if Senators who find in their districts that facilities do not exist whereby aliens can prepare themselves for citizenship would let us know, because that is one of the studies that will be appropriate to our work.

I therefore ask the cooperation of the Senate in letting us know whether there are any places in Pennsylvania where an alien is beyond reach of the instruction that would make him an American citizen. It would certainly seem to me that when they reach the stage of old age pension, which will be with them until the end of their lives, this is a group of people of whom we certainly have a right to ask that they shall study to be able to accept American citizenship.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 134, entitled:

An Act requiring aliens to register with the Department of Labor and Industry and to carry and upon proper demand to exhibit identification cards prohibiting the issuing of certain registrations and licenses to or the employment of aliens under certain circumstances and prescribing penalties.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, earlier in this week I suggested that this bill be sent back to the committee for further study, but my colleagues saw fit to refuse to adopt that motion. I am going to vote against this bill and I would like to explain my reason.

I stated, in discussing the motion, that this bill, instead of restricting the activities of aliens, in some respects increases their powers. I also stated that in some respects it infringes on international law.

Section 3 of this act provides: "No motor vehicle shall be registered in the name of any alien nor shall any license to operate a motor vehicles or any liquor license or malt brewed beverage license be issued to any alien unless such alien shall exhibit an alien identification card for the current registration period."

I take it that under the provisions of this act if an alien proceeded to register and presented his card to the liquor license control board he would have the right to insist that a liquor license be furnished to him. Under the present existing law no alien can receive a license; in order to receive a license a man must be a citizen, naturalized or otherwise.

Now, it may be argued that the Act does not say he shall receive it, but I argue that under this Act, since it comes later than the liquor license board, it will be interpreted to amend the Act to the extent to which it is inconsistent; and it is inconceivable to me that the framers of the Act should provide that a man should not get a liquor license unless he produces a registration certificate, when they intend he should not get a license when he does produce it.

There is also some question in my mind with respect whether ambassadors and others who travel through our streets, who have the right to operate and they are certainly foreigners, aliens, what would happen to our rights if we would take automobiles over to foreign countries and attempt to operate them, which we have the right to do now.

That is only one of my objections I have to this bill. I pointed out last week—I am not going to detail—but it seems to me unfair to delegate to the Department of Labor and Industry the right to ask of any person any question which it sees fit and the right to compel him to answer those question and to record those answers or documents which they will keep; and under those circumstances I am obliged to say I am compelled to vote against this bill.

I should like to add one other thought. The Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, has called our attention to the fact that there are 3,700 aliens on the old age pension, and that they are receiving $87,000 a year.

The effect of this bill, if there are that many old age pensioners, if it is true that there are that many on the old age pension, there must be considerably more on the relief rolls—the effect of this bill will be to increase relief expenditures by five dollars per year for every alien.

All he will have to do is to register and if he has not the money for registration, I am sure the welfare workers will consider that is a proper thing to be included in the estimate for that man to exist and so, if we have three thousand on the old age pension list and we spent $1,800,000 last month, and we spend $8,000,000 per month—$7,000,000 or $8,000,000—$7,200,000 per month for direct relief, I would imagine there are four times as many aliens on that roll as there are on the old age, so that we will have 14,800 aliens, and if we multiply that by five that will give $90,000 a year, for the purpose of allowing these aliens to receive the benefits of the relief roll.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, allow me to make a slight correction in the figures he quoted me as saying? I did not say $87,000 but I said there were 87,837 recipients of relief, but 3,738 is the number of aliens that collect.

Mr. KUNKEL. I intend to vote against this bill, and I would like to state for the record my reasons for opposing it.

In the first place, this bill, I believe can fairly be characterized as a species of punitive legislation against a minority group. I can see no particular reason for passing this bill.

I believe that the matter of dealing with aliens is primarily a federal matter. I think the State is acting beyond the scope of its authority when it legislates on this subject. Furthermore, I believe that the bill is unconstitutional. And for these reasons I intend to oppose the bill.

Mr. SPIE. Mr. President, I would like to say a few words on this bill. I am sorry that it has traveled so fast that I have not had opportunity or time to consider it as much as I should have liked to consider it.

I am greatly interested, Mr. President, in the foreign-born and unnaturalized aliens, and I have had a great deal of experience with them. During my law-student days it was my good fortune to be principal, faculty and janitor of a night school for teaching foreigners to read English and to learn enough of the fundamentals of our American system to become naturalized. It was one of the most delightful experiences of my life. During those three years I made eight hundred citizens, and I am very proud of that record.

I did not find many people of criminal intent among these unnaturalized person; however, I found that the majority of them, who did not make any attempt to become naturalized were men and women who came to this country after their youth had fled—they were in mature life and it was practically impossible for them at that age to learn enough of our English language to pass the test for citizenship.

So, I want to say that while I will vote for this bill I regret that I have not had time to consider it as much as I should; and I will say, when voting for it, that my large experience among the unnaturalized aliens has not led me to believe that there is any considerable percentage of people of criminal intent among them; and I would not be fair to them or fair to myself if I were to fail to mention at this time that there are two many of our old—line American stock, too many citizens of the United States whose ancestral roots run back to the pre-revolutionary days, too many of that class who set a mighty bad example for the foreign born. I do not intend to take up the time of the Senate to enumerate the number of old-line American lawyers, bank presidents, bank officers, and so on, that I have come in contact with in my life-time, who have been sent within the cold walls of penitentiaries.

So, I will end, as I began, with the regret that I have not had enough time to examine into all the portents of this bill, but I shall vote for it.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to make myself clear on this proposition. I can see no reason why a man who comes to this country and enjoys the privileges of the Democracy, and who has an opportunity to live and think here freely, should not want to be a citizen of this country. I hold no brief for them, and I am not asking a single member of this Senate to follow my views in voting against this bill; and the reason I am making this statement is that when a Senator who is interested in legislation requests that a bill as important as this one go over and be placed in the hands of the committee for further study, so that some of the things which appeal to us as being wrong may be corrected, it is only fair and right that that should be done.

If there was any opportunity on the part of any of us, myself particularly, for killing this bill by sending it back to committee, my motives might be impugned or questioned. I have pointed out something, and I may be one hundred per cent wrong, but in my opinion that that paragraph leaves the implication that an alien may be able to get a liquor license now where he could not get it before.

I only point that out, and not a number of other things that are objectionable in the bill, because I do not want to prolong the discussion. However, I want emphatically to say there is no excuse for any man who has—certainly for very few men who have the opportunity of becoming citizens, to live here and enjoy the privileges of this country and not become citizens; I hold no brief for them; but because there may be a great many of those people who should be and are not citizens there is no reason why we should carelessly prepare legislation and inflict punishment on those who for some reason may not be able to become citizens. It is with that thought in mind I raise objection to this bill, not for the purpose of having the bill defeated, but for the purpose of placing myself on record as pointing out the objections I see to the bill and requesting a more orderly procedure and a more careful procedure be adopted in relation to this legislation, as well as all others.

I say to my colleagues on this side I am not asking them to vote against this bill, but I do not intend to vote for it because I do not think that it is carefully drawn legislation, with all due respect to the sponsor of the bill—I mean no reflection against him. It is a large subject, an important subject, carrying with it many ramifications, and all of those things should be looked into before it is passed, and for that reason I am opposing the bill and shall vote against it.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, if there is some language in there that might be slightly hard to interpret, that can be corrected in the House. We have had this bill on the calendar now for some time; it is an important measure; I think the language in it is very clear; and if the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, wants further time to study it, as it goes over to the House, he can study it there.

We ought to pass this bill or we ought to defeat it now, and get on to something else.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I have a few questions I would like to ask the sponsor of the bill, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. DENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, give me his definition, description, of an alien?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think an alien is a person in this country—for the purpose of this discussion—who is not a native citizen nor a naturalized citizen.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I further desire to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, Section 4 of the proposed Act prohibits the employment of any alien who is not registered and in possession of an alien identification card. What effect would that have if a man happens to belong to some organization where citizenship is not a requirement for membership and he comes within the protective jurisdiction of that particular organization in the matter of employment?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, does the Senator from Westmoreland mean in connection with private employment by a particular group or something of that kind?

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I was referring to the section of the Act, which says, "No person, co-partnership, association, corporation, political sub-division of the Commonwealth or any of its agencies shall employ any alien who is not registered and in possession of an alien identification card for the current period."

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, my interpretation of that clause is just what it says; unless an alien is registered for the current period, they are not permitted to employ him.

Mr. DENT. In other words, Mr. President, if a man happens to belong—to give an illustration—say to the United Mine Workers for a period of thirty years, and his rights to be employed are protected by the Association in that union, will the union be forced to withdraw its support of his claim to a position or job in that mine unless he is registered?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I would say that is correct, that is the purpose of the bill, not that there will be punishment inflicted upon him, but to see that we can have a check upon what aliens we have in this country.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, what is the necessity of the five dollars a year and the hundred dollars fine and all that, if it is not punitive?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think if there is not some penalty provided for you will not have compliance with the Act. I am afraid that American citizens generally, as well as others residing in this country, are not too inclined to comply with the law unless there is some reason for it, and that unfortunately is the situation.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, as I said Monday evening, I fully intend to vote for the bill, because of the implications that might be construed from any vote to the contrary on my part by those in my county who are anxious at all times to identify me particularly with any movement which might not be so-called one hundred per cent Americanism.

I have in my own mind a doubt as to the reasonableness of this measure. I do not want to delay it and I will vote for it, but I cannot distinguish in my own mind between the so-called immigrant and an alien. There must be a difference in the immigrant and in the alien, but under this Act they are all aliens.

There is no need in rehash a story that has been once told, but I believe we are being unfair to a great many persons who came to this country and who, because of their economic conditions, have not become citizens. They have been taken out into the coal-mining communities and I venture to say that for thirty-five years a great many of those persons have voted as legal voters, and it was not their fault, because they were voted by the coal companies, lists were made out of employees of the coal companies and they never saw a ballot, but their names were turned in, and they were voted. For years they thought that they were legally members of these great United States.

I am not particularly disturbed over what will happen to them; I suppose they will probably die within a few years. Since we are going to root out all the "isms," I am going to vote for the bill; and I hope that from now on, after we pass this bill, we will not hear so much about Nazism and Communism and Fascism, because all the aliens will be under control.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I have studied the bill as carefully as any of the other colleagues in the Senate. I want to say to the Senator from Westmoreland that if in the years past these aliens were herded like sheep and brought to the polls, given ballots and made to vote, that it was never done by any Democratic organization. It is very pleasant to me when one can differ with his best friend honestly, without incurring the enmity of his best friend. I disagree with my colleague from Washington, as friendly as we are to each other.

I have never subscribed to the policy that this Senate ought to send a bill over to the house, knowing that it may be defective in some form or another. I agree with the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, that Section 3 of this act leaves the implication that an alien does have the right to have issued to him a liquor license or malt or brewed beverage license, and on that particular item I think the bill does not read right. I would rather see in this bill a provision along the same lines as was contained in Senate Bill 206, Printer's No. 23, introduced by Senator Wolfenden and passed yesterday. That bill required all applicants for licenses or permits to display a per capita tax receipt. If this particular bill before us now would contain a general provision of that kind then there would be no implication that an applicant or an alien might have the right to apply for a liquor license or a malt or brewed beverage license.

I am fully in accord with the principles of this bill. I do not think the requiring of an alien to register is such an inconvenience as great and troublesome as the inconveniences imposed upon American citizens in many other countries of the world.

We can say, with a great deal of pride here in America, that as long as we have been a nation there is no evidence—no indication that at any time during our national existence the property of an alien has been confiscated by our government or any political subdivision.

Yet in other countries of this world the property of our American citizens have been confiscated, they have been despoiled and they have been destroyed. I say that this restriction, or this requirement that aliens register, is not an inconvenience to be compared with the inconvenience caused to American citizens traveling or residing in many other countries of this world.

The principle of this bill is excellent and I am for the bill. The only objection that I have is on this section No. 3, that I think could be better and I will not subscribed to the policy announced by my colleague from Washington, that, knowing a bill to be faulty in any particular, we ought to send it over to the House I would like to see this Senate do its work thoroughly on all bills before we leave them out of our possession.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I believe, in the few remarks that I made, the Senator from Fayette misconstrued my intention. I do not admit that this bill is faulty; I think the language in the bill is all right. I think that the Courts would hold the language legal and the section that the Senator from Fayette refers to, Section 3, in my opinion, as a lawyer, does not hold that inference. I think the bill ought to be considered at the present time and either passed or rejected, so that the Senate can get on to some other business.

Mr. KUNKEL. Mr. President, I would like to state for the information of my colleagues, to avoid any false implications, that I was a veteran of the World War—I am a veteran of the World War—and that I fought in that war with aliens who were soldiers in the American army.

I feel, too, that my ancestors were aliens, and so were the ancestors of every member of this Senate. This bill appeals to me as of a punitive character.

Furthermore, I believe that under the provisions of this bill, and as the enforcement of it would work out, any minor police officer, investigator of the Department of Labor and Industry, or any constable, might on sight arrest any one with a foreign appearance or foreign accent, and threaten to imprison that person, unless the fine which might be imposed by a summary conviction were forthcoming.

In other words, it seems to me that this bill will work out, and, in effect, amount to a legal shake-down. Since it seems to have the tendency to encourage that sort of thing I will oppose it for that reason, as well as the other reasons already stated.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Geltz permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Will the Senator state whether it is not true that before an alien who wants to become a citizen can even declare his intention to be a citizen he must have resided in this country for a period of time?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, that is correct.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it also correct that the period of time is at least two years?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I think that is correct; I am not certain.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, is it not true that if an alien came over to this country yesterday and wanted to become a citizen, under this bill he could not get a license, he could not register, he could not get any work, because, even though he wanted to become a citizen and is eighteen years of age, he cannot even declare his intention to become a citizen?

Mr. GELTZ. No, Mr. President, but he has the opportunity to be registered as an alien.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, the Senator is asking that a man be registered, under this bill, as an alien, even though he would like to become a citizen and cannot under the circumstances.

Mr. GELTZ. That is correct, Mr. President.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, could not this bill be amended so that a person coming over here now might be given an opportunity to register, or permitted to go along until a time when he can declare his intention to become a citizen?

Mr. GELTZ. Mr. President, I do not think that is a good suggestion, because the purpose of the this bill is to to have some accurate check on those who are not citizens of this State. Whether they are here six months, six years, or sixteen years, I do not feel this bill will work any hardship on an individual who has the right to become an American citizen, by asking him when he comes here and becomes a resident of this state that he then register—I cannot see that that is any hardship. I think we have a right to demand that; we are entitled to that.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, it seems to me that when you make people carry cards around when they are aliens and want to become citizens and cannot become citizens only because of existing laws, you are putting a hardship on them by stigmatizing them as aliens.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

BILLS ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 94, as follows:

An Act abating certain unpaid penalties and interest imposed on counties cities boroughs townships school districts and incorporated districts for the nonpayment of state taxes on scrip bonds certificates and evidences of indebtedness and authorizing the Board of Finance and Revenue to compromise the Commonwealth's claims against such political subdivisions for such unpaid taxes
The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 2 The Board of Finance and Revenue is hereby authorized and empowered to agree with any county city borough township school district or incorporated district owing to the Commonwealth on and before January 1 1938 any delinquent taxes on scrip bonds certificates or evidences of indebtedness to accept in compromise of the amount of such taxes and costs due any sum less than the whole of such amount so due if the penalties and interest on any such taxes shall have been abated under the provisions of section one of this act

Section 3 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

And said bill, as amended, having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

PRAYER

Rev. Dr. Clyde Alvin Lynch, President of Lebanon

Valley College, Annville, Pa., offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Lawgiver Supreme, Whose statutes are eternally valid, in humble acknowledgment of Thy glorious Sovereignty we approach our duties this day, remembering that "Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people."

We thank Thee for the dawn of human conscience in ancient Egypt; for its development in Palestine, where lawgivers, sages, poets, and prophets expressed Thy revealed will; for its culmination in Jesus of Nazareth, who left the home of a Jewish carpenter with the blueprint of the Kingdom of God to assist humanity in building a new world.

Help us to learn the lessons of history, that we who are making the history of tomorrow may avoid those fatal mistakes of the past and seek to perpetuate and enhance only those well-tested character values that make men good and nations strong and prosperous. That such goodness may be wisely directed we invoke Thy blessing upon our public schools, the institutions of higher learning, and all other agencies that conduce to the moral and spiritual development of our citizens and the strangers within our gates.

Bestow upon these representatives of the people and their executive and judicial associates Thy heavenly grace. Reveal unto them Thy truth and impart Thy strength, and may their service to this Commonwealth eventuate in the greatest good for the largest number, the preservation of our American way of life, and the greater glory of Thy name. Amen.

The SPEAKER. The Chair desires to thank Dr. Lynch. It was a pleasure not only for the Chaplain of the House but for the members of the House to welcome the head of this interesting Pennsylvania College to the House.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WAGNER. Concurrent RESOLUTION No. 46.

In the House of Representatives, March 21, 1939.

Whereas, school teachers in many districts of the Commonwealth have not been paid their wages for months; and

Whereas, many school districts have been unable to collect their school taxes that are due because of the economic conditions of their respective districts, particularly in the districts in which the coal industry is centered; and

Whereas, if relief is not started immediately, many schools will have to be closed; and

Whereas, the public school system is the first line of defense in a democracy, and this great Commonwealth cannot permit those responsible for its maintenance to be demoralized and made destitute by economic distress; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That a committee of twelve members shall be appointed, six by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and six by the President pro tempore of the Senate, among whom shall be the Chairman of the Ways and Means, Appropriation and Education Committees of each House, and three members from the Committee on Education in the House and three members from the Committee on Education in the Senate. The said committee shall devise plans of meeting the distressed financial conditions of the school districts of this Commonwealth, and shall submit a legislative program to be introduced at this session of the General Assembly for the immediate relief of the said distressed school districts.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mrs. FAUSET. Concurrent RESOLUTION No. 47.

In the House of Representatives, March 21, 1939.

Whereas, the Public schools in America are a vital force in preserving and carrying on our democratic traditions, and whereas all American children are entitled to equal educational opportunities, and

Whereas, the burden of maintaining high standards in school programs is becoming increasingly difficult for some of our states and municipalities to bear since they do not all have equal resources for supporting an adequate educational system, and

Whereas, several of our states and municipalities are in a precarious financial position resulting in stringent retrenchment and even in the closing of schools, thus causing a local problem so serious as to have become a matter of national concern, and

Whereas, there has been introduced into the United States Senate by Senator Thomas and Senator Harrison, and into House of Representatives by Congressman Larabee, a bill to "promote the general welfare through appropriation of funds to assist States and Territories in providing more effective programs of public education," and gives grants to states on the basis of the index of educational load and financial ability for Adult Education, Rural Library Services, Cooperative Educational Research and Demonstrations, and for the improvement of Public Elementary and Secondary Schools by improving Teacher Preparation, Constructing of School Buildings, and Administration of State Departments of Education; now

Therefore be it resolved, that the Legislature of the State of Pennsylvania hereby memorialize the Congress of the United States to approve Senate Bill 1305 and HR 3517, the Federal Aid to Education Act of 1939.

Be it also resolved, that one copy of this resolution be forwarded to each of the following:

The President of the United States—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Vice-President John N. Garner, President of the U. S. Senate.

Speaker Bankhead, House of Representatives.

Senator Elbert D. Thomas, Chairman, Senate Committee on Education and Labor.

Congressman William H. Larrabee, Chairman, House Committee on Education.

Senator Joseph Guffey.

Senator James J. Davis.

All members of the House delegation from Pennsylvania.

Referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 556, (Senate Bill No. 79), entitled:

An Act permitting the county treasurer with the consent of the county commissioners or the approval of the court to adjourn county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes in all counties except counties of the first class and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands

The first section was as follows:

Section 1 The county treasurer of every county except counties of the first class may with the consent by resolution of the county commissioners of such county or the approval of the court adjourn or readjourn to such time or times not later than the first Monday of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine all tax sales on seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes Where any such tax sales are adjourned or readjourned after advertisement an additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for such adjourned or readjourned sale No such adjournment or readjournment shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or any penalties or interest due thereon but the lien of all such taxes shall remain in full force and effect until such sale shall take place in accordance with this act

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendments.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 3, and 4, by striking out the words: "the first Monday of"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 4, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "first"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "forty"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by striking out the words: "thirty-nine"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "no"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the word: "an"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. O'Connor.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. O'CONNOR. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman from Cambria, if the only affect of the amendment will be to change the date of adjournment of the sales from August 1st, 1939 to August 1st, 1940.

Mr. O'CONNOR. That is not correct, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman explain the purpose of the amendments.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, the purpose of the amendments is to restore the bill to the same status it was when it passed the Senate, with the exception that the Committee of the House had another section added to the bill making the bill effective immediately upon its final enactment.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to inquire of the gentleman whether he will agree to have the bill placed upon the postponed calendar and withdraw his amendments until we have had an opportunity to consult with him concerning the matter.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, personally I should be glad to do that, but I believe the member of the committee who had the bill amended in the House committee, accompanied me to the Senate where we conferred with the sponsors of the bill, and they have assured us that if we pass the bill with the amendments as they now are, they will refuse to concur in the amendments. They want the bill passed in the form in which we received it from the Senate.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the amendments were placed in this bill primarily for the purpose of adjourning the sales until 1939, instead of 1940. The committee on municipal corporations has been working diligently upon a program concerning tax sales, tax abatements and installment payments, also concerning the entire municipal tax liens and return set-up. If this bill is passed in the form in which it was before amendments were placed in it, it will result in hampering the carrying out of the program which that committee is working on. For that reason it was amended so that the sales will take place in April. In other words, the sales which are now immediately before the various counties and which it is necessary for us to take immediate action upon can be postponed and will not cause a hardship upon the people, which hardships would be caused by the failure to pass the bill at this time. There will be a comprehensive bill presented by the committee on municipal corporations which will meet this problem and which will set up certain provisions for the postponement of the sales, at least in part, in the future. We feel that this would meet the immediate situation and would not hamper the committee in carrying out their very splendid work and the ideas which are taking form as a result of the very diligent work of this committee. For that reason I ask that these amendments be voted down.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I regret that I cannot agree with the majority floor leader that these amendments should not be inserted in this bill.

First of all, I do not believe that he or anyone else can assure the membership of this House that this comprehensive bill which has been spoken of will be passed by this Legislature and approved by the Governor. We all know that April first is the deadline for the postponement of these tax sales and that something must be done at once to pass this bill. In my opinion it is merely to fool the public. It will postpone tax sales until August, and then, if for any reason, we should fail to enact the bill to which he refers, those properties must be sold because I feel confident that this House will not continue in session until August, at which time we would have to remedy the condition.

Also, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it has been the history of these tax postponement bills in previous Legislatures to postpone the tax bills for the benefit of those who are unfortunate enough to be in a position where they might lose their homes for failure to pay their taxes. This bill adds an additional burden. All previous bills postponing tax sales have contained a provision that where the property had once been advertised and the sale was then postponed, it would not be necessary to advertise the property for the second time. That was the provision in the bill when it came from the Senate. However, the House Committee saw fit to amend the bill, that is, if the sale were postponed after the property had once been advertised, it must again be advertised, which in effect would be soaking the poor people double instead of helping them as the bill purports to do.

I repeat, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, that it will be foolish for us to pass this bill as amended, and then have our action turned down in the Senate as we have been assured it will be by the sponsor of the bill.

POINT OF ORDER

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his point of order.

Mr. ANDREWS. The gentleman is out of order in unofficially conveying messages from the Senate.

The SPEAKER. The point of order is well taken. The gentleman will confine his remarks to the amendments, the question before the House.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I thank my colleague from Cambria because I appreciate a guardian. However, it is not my intention to convey any secrets from the Senate, but it is a matter of vital importance to the poor people of Pennsylvania who are going to be soaked, and while I appreciate my colleague is a newspaper editor, I still am not in favor of double advertising and doubly soaking the poor people in order sell their homes and property.

Therefore, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, if you are sincere in your attempt and in your desires to help the distressed home owners of Pennsylvania, I ask you to support these amendments and vote to have them inserted.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, taxes, as far back as 1931, have been returned to the county commissioners and to the county treasurers in the various counties of this Commonwealth, and properties have not been sold since that time. Liens have been filed on many of them and some of them we are told are as far in arrears as twenty years. This has created a situation in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that demands the serious attention of this Legislature; it creates a problem which all of us should consider seriously as one of the really vital problems of this state.

The Committee on Municipal Corporations has been working on this problem. We all know that year after year, session after session, we have come here and postponed tax bills. It was necessary possibly to do this on several occasions, but the result of this action, repeated year after year and session after session, has been to bring about a situation whereby many people who are perfectly able to pay their taxes do not pay them because they know that they will never be forced to pay them. This has created a situation in many counties of the state about which something must be done and it is the purpose of the Committee on Municipal Corporations to deal with this problem, and they will present to this House of Representatives a bill which will deal with the entire problem. Goodness knows they all know the difficulties that exist in the counties where people cannot pay their taxes, and the bill will be so prepared that it will not interfere, it will not cause serious harm or difficulty to these people who are not able to pay their taxes. I cannot state definitely exactly what the committee will propose, because I do not know whether it is in final form or not. My suggestion was that at this time we force the sale for taxes which are back as far, say, as 1933 or 1934 and previous years. In order that there be no hardship upon the people, we have a tax abatement bill and an installment bill, so that it will be possible for these people whose properties are not to be sold to come in and pay one-fifth of their delinquent taxes without penalty and without interest, and thereby avoid the sale of property. Whether or not that is the proceeding that will be adopted by the Committee on Municipal Corporations I am not able to say. I understand that their present suggestion is, that no taxes that have been assessed within the last five years shall be sold and that a bill will be presented which will include in it an adjournment of tax sales for taxes incurred during the last five years. That bill will meet the situation with reference to those taxes which are more than five years old and will not force the sale of all properties at one time.

If we put these amendments into this bill it will interfere with the program of the Committee on Municipal Corporations and unless this situation is cleaned up at this time, with justice to the Municipalities, to the taxing authorities, and certainly justice to the people who owe taxes, it will be impossible to create such a program for a period of two more years. Of course, we will not be in session in August, but legislation which will relate to the August sales will be passed before we adjourn. Therefore, the entire situation will be met before we adjourn this Legislature and before August sales will be due. This bill is a temporary measure to stop the sales in April and at the same time to permit the Committee on Municipal Corporations to carry out a comprehensive program which will meet a situation that has been growing more serious year by year.

I ask the members of the House to vote down these amendments so that the program can be carried out without interference.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, my colleague from Cambria County has seen fit to reflect upon my dual capacity as an editor and a member of this House. If he were more familiar with conditions in Cambria County he would realize that I am interested in a minority party newspaper, and I don't give a continental cuss about official advertising. If he were familiar with the Legislative Record he would know that invariably I have voted against the curtailment or elimination of official advertising in newspapers, because I think it is mostly a waste of money. If he were also familiar with the record he would know that I have invariably voted against those bills which create jobs for lawyers.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the gentleman from Dauphin if he will agree to one of the amendments that I have offered, that amendment being to strike out of the bill the requirement that a property after having been once advertised, in case the sale is postponed, it will not have to be advertised again.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I will agree to a separation of the amendments—to a separate vote on each of the amendments. As a matter of fact, I am not particularly concerned about that phase of the amendment one way or the other.

I wish to call the gentleman's attention, however, to the fact that a lot of the county commissioners have felt that by advertising they are enabled to get in a great deal of tax which they otherwise could not get, and that some of them would like to have the advertising because they feel that it would be a paying proposition to the municipalities or the taxing authorities. I will agree with the gentleman to separate the two, and will make no objection to whatever action the House takes on the amendment to which he refers.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would inquire of the gentleman from Cambria where the division will take place in the amendment. Has the gentleman a copy of the amendment before him?

Mr. O'CONNOR. I have not, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, the amendment to which I have referred and concerning which I interrogated the gentleman from Dauphin is the amendment that strikes out the word "and". That is the amendment I would like to have put in the bill.

BILL PASSED OVER

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to have this bill go over in its order and proceed with the calendar, returning to it later.

The SPEAKER. The Chair would suggest that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar until you are ready to call it up.

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

L. 370), entitled "An act to fix the number and salaries of assistant district attorneys in counties of this Commonwealth having over one million five hundred thousand inhabitants, and prescribing the powers and duties of said assistant district attorneys" by increasing the number and fixing the salaries of the assistant district attorneys thereof

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 342, entitled:

An Act to further amend section one thousand thirteen of and add section one thousand eleven and one-tenth to the act approved the fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and thirty-three (P. L. 364) entitled "An act relating to business corporations defining and providing for the organization merger consolidation reorganization winding up and dissolution of such corporations conferring certain rights powers duties and immunities upon them and their officers and shareholders prescribing the conditions on which such corporations may exercise their powers providing for the inclusion of certain existing corporations of the second class within the provisions of this act prescribing the terms and conditions upon which foreign business corporations may be admitted or may continue to do business within the Commonwealth conferring powers and imposing duties on the courts of common pleas and certain State departments commissions and officers authorizing certain State departments boards commissions or officers to collect fees for services required to be rendered by this act imposing penalties and repealing certain acts and parts of acts relating to corporations" authorizing the issuance of subpoenas with clause of duces tecum upon foreign corporations registered to do business within the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and providing a method of service thereof upon such corporations and its proper officers agents and employes and providing a penalty for noncompliance therewith.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane permit himself to be interrogated.

Mr. KANE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, if this bill provides that a court of proper jurisdiction in this Commonwealth may issue a subpoena duces tecum on the proper offices of a foreign corporation doing business in this Commonwealth, and have the same served upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth for the production of any books, papers or records of a foreign corporation anywhere in the United States.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, in answer to that question I would say my opinion is that it does so provide, and that it should so provide. In further answer I would say that there is no reason why we as Legislators of the state of Pennsylvania should throw our protecting arms about a foreign corporation to the extent that we do not protect a corporation which is incorporated in this state. A corporation of our own state must produce these records and there is no reason why those who choose to do business here should not also be subject to the production of their records in a proper court.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I should like to ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, if this bill or a similar bill is in force in any other state in the Union.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman's question I would say that I am not aware of the same bill, or a similar bill, having been introduced in any other state or being in force there.

I am however, Mr. Speaker, in position to give the gentleman my reasons for introducing this bill and I will do so. It is not directly in answer to the interrogation. To specifically answer his question: I don't know of any other state which has this bill.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, if what is intended by this bill is not already in the law in our reciprocal agreements between various nearby states and that records of corporations doing business in another state can be brought into the demanding state upon proper application in the state of incorporation.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would say that it might appear that we have that authority but apparently when it comes to a test we do not have it.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman whether or not we have such legislation between the states.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, it is my opinion that we do have.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. May I ask the gentleman why does the state of Pennsylvania seek by this method to get the books, records and papers of a foreign corporation, the books records of that corporation being in another state.

Mr. KANE. I would say in answer to that that the matter having been tested in specific cases, if was found that as long as the law remained as it was, the states have refused to produce their records. Further I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that the production of those records is sometimes of the utmost importance to persons accused of crime in this Commonwealth, when the only defense sometimes is in the records and books of a foreign corporation doing business here. They might have participated in the offense, and they may refuse to help in the defense. If the other state does not compel them to produce the documents, they apparently do not do so. If they are allowed to have property here, Mr. Speaker, I submit to the House that they should also be willing to come into court and produce their records.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I want to thank the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane. I think he knows that we have talked about this bill and that my interest in the bill is not to protect any foreign corporation. I doubt if any foreign corporation has raised a hand in defense of this bill or in protest of the bill.

My objection is that we ought to be slow, first of all in passing legislation when we already have laws recognized by the state, and when there is no precedent to such a law, as I understand, anywhere in the United States.

We ought to be careful for another reason, it seems to me in the light of recent decisions of our Supreme Court, which decisions go to show that a subpoena can violate the search and seizure clause of the Constitution, in view of the fact that a foreign corporation feels if it has the right to come in and do business it is protected by the Constitution. This bill is an unlawful exercise of our power to do something which we cannot do. I think the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, will agree that the court has power to strike down legislation that is oppressive and unreasonable.

I submit to the House that it should not pass a piece of legislation that gives the right to a court of this Commonwealth, or any other authority, to issue a subpoena duces tecum, have it served upon the Secretary of the Commonwealth and then have the Secretary of the Commonwealth serve that subpoena and give notice to the proper officers of a foreign corporation doing business within this State that the books, records or other papers of that corporation from California, from Maine, from Florida be brought into this State, and if the corporation does not bring those books, records and papers in, . . . and by the way, the bill does not specify that they must be germane to the issue, . . . if the corporation does not bring those books, records and papers into the Commonwealth, then this Commonwealth can forfeit the right of that corporation to do business. It does seem to me that such a law is going too far.

If the law should happen to be good as a matter of law, which I seriously doubt, there is another reason: I have heard in this House at this session that bills have been presented, or are in preparation, for the setting up of a Department of Commerce. The purpose of that Department is to get new business into the state. How can we get new business into this state if we are going to put such burdens on corporations? I don't believe corporations will come into this state when Pennsylvania takes the lead in assuming the right to run all over the United States and bring their books, papers and records into this Commonwealth and, "If you don't do it we will penalize you by keeping you out." We are primarily interested in bringing business into the state. We can't rely entirely upon domestic corporations. We know as a matter of fact that the great business enterprises in these United States are the foreign corporations that employ thousands and thousands and thousands of men. I am not here to defend any of them. I am here to oppose any laws which may be oppressive, unreasonable and without warrant, and it does seem to me that inasmuch as we have a law which will do identically this same thing, which is recognized by the state, whereby we can get the records of corporations after it has been shown that those records are germane to the issue, and after the foreign corporation has had a chance to defend itself about bringing those books here from the state in which it was incorporated. This bill goes too far, and with all due respect to my very good friend from McKean, Mr. Kane, notwithstanding the most cordial relationship that exists between us, I do feel that this bill ought to be defeated.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, at the risk of being considered a co-founder of a mutual admiration society, I want to say that I am one of those who have the greatest admiration for the high talents and for the impersonal manner in which Mr. Brown on many occasions has discussed matters of legislation before this House. We have one point in common, we are habitual defenders of what we term the "down trodden."

However, on this occasion Mr. Speaker, let me say that this bill was brought to my attention by a condition which exists in my own county of McKean, and which also exists in Dauphin County. It was the feeling of the authorities in those counties that the present law was not adequate. Let me also say that the papers and books, to clear the good name of a friend of mine, were refused by a foreign corporation which has property in my county and which in all other respects is subject to the same laws as any of the other seventy-five thousand citizens of that county.

I might go further and say to the gentleman from Allegheny, that I think the courts have erred in including corporations under the fourteenth amendment of the United States Constitution. I think they are persons, yes, but they are persons in another sense. I think certainly they are not persons which are entitled to special privileges and immunities. If a working man on a lease of an oil company in my county can be brought into court under subpoena and made to exhibit the car in which he has had an accident, then most assuredly the corporation who owns the lease on which the man works should be compelled to also bring in its records, but that is purely hypothetical, and is not the case in point.

Let me say that if in Allegheny County the United States Steel Corporation, a very laudable and enormous corporation, which happens not to be incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, were to take a notion that they would not produce certain papers that were essential to the defense of Homer S. Brown or E. Kent Kane accused of crime in that county, they may under the present law absolutely decline to do so and will delay and refuse until perhaps it is too late for the defendant.

I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that foreign corporations need have no particular fear of my being an aggressor against them because they are foreign, but I say it is a ridiculous thing, and so regarded by the bulk of the people who sent us here, that our neighboring state of Delaware, for example, is being used as a hide-out for corporations that do not care to comply with the ethical, moral and economic standards in the state in which they do business on exactly the same plane as our domestic corporations are required to do.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to say that I think this bill has no possible damage in it to a corporation that has nothing that it need cover from the proper authorities in the State of Pennsylvania, since the courts must pass upon the matter as to whether or not subpoenas shall be issued on that concern. I think we can trust the courts to be reasonable. We trust the courts in the issuance of subpoenas in regard to our own companies, and I ask the members of the House to pass this bill.

If an amendment which could have made it more satisfactory were in order I would have been glad to receive it either on second or third reading, but the bill now being up for third reading, I think it should be put through, and if proper amendments are presented in the Senate, no doubt they will be considered.

I ask the vote of the members of the House on the bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. JAMES filed the following reason for his vote:

I have voted "no" on the question of passing finally House Bill No. 342 for the reason that I believe the passage of the bill would tend to discourage the development of industry in this State.

BILL ON SECOND READING

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar, by Mr. WOODSIDE.

The House resumed the consideration on second reading of House Bill No. 556, (Senate Bill No. 79), entitled:

An Act permitting the county treasurer with the consent of the county commissioners or the approval of the court to adjourn county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes in all counties except counties of the first class and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands

The first section was read as follows:

The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 The county treasurer of every county except counties of the first class may with the consent by resolution of the county commissioners of such county or the approval of the court adjourn or readjourn to such time or times not later than the first Monday of August one thousand nine hundred and thirty-nine all tax sales on seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes Where any such tax sales are adjourned or readjourned after advertisement an additional advertisement or notice shall be necessary for such adjourned or readjourned sale No such adjournment or readjournment shall invalidate the lien of any tax due and unpaid or any penalties or interest due thereon but the lien of all such taxes shall remain in full force and effect until such sale shall take place in accordance with this act.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, I ask for a division of the amendments offered before the postponement of this bill.

The SPEAKER. The Chair understands that the gentleman from Cambria is asking for a division of the amendments at this time.

Mr. O'CONNOR. That is right, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The amendments to lines 3, 4 and 5 of section 1, offered by Mr. O'Connor will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, lines 3 and 4, by striking out the words: "the first Monday of"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 4, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "first"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "forty"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 5, by striking out the words: "thirty-nine"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the amendments which I have offered, as you know, have been divided. You first voted on whether or not the bill before the House on second reading will be amended so as to postpone tax sales until the first day of August, 1940.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, on the question of the division, I would like to ask the members of the House to vote "no" on the amendments we are about to vote upon, which would continue all of the tax sales from August, 1939 to August, 1940, it being the understanding, as stated before, that the bill which will be presented will continue most of the tax sales from August, 1939 until a future date, but that a few tax sales might possibly be held in August, 1939.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

They were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

The SPEAKER. The amendments to line 8 section 1, offered by Mr. O'Connor will be read by the Clerk.

The amendments were read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the following: the dark-face brackets before and after the word "no"

Amend Sec. 1, page 2, line 8, by striking out the word: "an"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. O'CONNOR. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, the amendment that you are now voting on would amend the bill so that properties proposed to be sold for non-payment of taxes having once been advertised and the sale postponed you need not have them advertised the second time. In other words, this amendment means that once a property has been advertised, the party losing his property for non-payment of taxes would not have to pay advertising costs the second time. I ask you to support this amendment.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER declared the "Ayes" appeared to have it,

Whereupon, a division was called for, seventy-one members having voted in the affirmative and eighty-four in the negative the question was determined in the negative and the amendments were not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. WATKINS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend Section 1, Page 2, by striking out at the end of line 8, the following word: "or" and inserting in lieu thereof, the word: "and"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second, third and fourth sections and title were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 This act shall have no force or effect upon any tax sale held prior to the approval hereof

Section 3 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

Section 4 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

An Act permitting the county treasurer, with the consent of the county commissioners or the approval of the court, to adjourn county treasurers' sales of seated and unseated lands for non-payment of taxes in all counties, except counties of the first class, and preserving the lien of all taxes on such lands.

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to as amended.

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I do not rise to voice in any sense the views of the minority portion of the House. I understand that both the majority and minority are committed to this bill on the ground that it is sound politics. I oppose this measure because I am against the diversion of Motor License funds directly or indirectly from the immediate control of the Highway Department. If we have had one department of our State government which has been more conspicuous than another in rendering sound service, it is the Highway Department, and I can concede to the minority party the fact that the Highway Department was never better equipped to render an effective service than it is right now.

Unfortunately the Highway Department, gentlemen of the House, is a bit hard-boiled. It is insisting that county superintendents, that the local representatives in charge of highway engineering in the various counties, be men of merit and experience. I understand and can sympathize with the members of the minority group, when

I am told that political influence in landing jobs in the Highway Department isn't as potent as it used to be, and so it comes about that since the Highway Department is prepared to render this state that sterling service, there must be somewhere in the picture a wicked party. We are going to keep the Highway Department clean and pure and efficient, but it is necessary it seems, to recognize the political element, so we are preparing to recognize the township supervisor under the guise of "home rule," that great principle which is in vogue in order to keep communities in the mud and to place unskilled men in charge of highway affairs. If there is any group of men who have failed conspicuously, as compared with the Highway Department, it is the supervisors and we carefully provide in this bill that the highway supervisors can name himself foreman and then he goes ahead and gets John, Bill and all the rest of the relations to man the force.

Of course it provides that the Highway Department shall have general supervision of these supervisors, but you know and I know that the Highway Department cannot police all of the supervisors and all of the politicians in the State of Pennsylvania at one and the same time, and you know that under this set-up the supervisors of highway work, financed by state money, will be as political as the politicians can make them.

So I want to rise, not speaking in any sense for the group on this side of the House, to protest against the principle of placing state funds in the hands of incompetent, untrained men, particularly at a time when you are creating a Highway Department that in spite of all the opposition is endeavoring to launch itself and maintain itself upon a non-political basis.

Mr. FISS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I am somewhat surprised at the position of the gentleman from Cambria, that being a good Democrat he would oppose a democratic form of government.

There is nothing further from the truth than saying we would place this money in the hands of inefficient men unable to handle money or work. At the same time it is not aimed particularly at politics, politics does not enter into it, because a Republican board in Cambria County would fulfill the same objective as a Democratic board, and a Democratic board in Snyder County would fulfill the very same thing that a Republican board would fulfill. In that respect it is far from any political scheme to make this a wild scramble for jobs.

On the other hand, these districts in the state, representing about one thousand five hundred and twelve districts, if even ten or twenty men could be employed part time in those districts it would account for about thirty thousand men having part time employment in this state. We do not deny the fact that there are always loose ends in any bill and any scheme to build roads or bridges, or reconstruct or repair bridges or things of that type in this Commonwealth, but when we say that this is brought forth in the guise of "home rule," that also must be denied. After all the bill only provides to give elective officers of these districts, officers elected by the people, a part in the frame of government, and if that isn't one hundred per cent home rule then I surely don't know what I am talking about. It is the old rule that made possible the great advance of this state as well as many other states in this nation. If we talk about the cost or the need for bills of this kind, there is no denying that fact, because, in this state there are more persons employed in agriculture than any other occupation you can find in the State of Pennsylvania.

I want to recall to you this fact, just to give you a few figures:

There are about one hundred and ninety-one thousand two hundred and eighty-four farms in the State of Pennsylvania, with a tremendous value—eight hundred and sixty-one million dollars. They own stock in the amount of one hundred and forty-three million dollars; they own machinery, farm machinery, I mean, to the extent of one hundred and fifty million dollars.

Pennsylvania ranks fourteenth among all of the states in the nation in agriculture. They have crops to the value, quoting from the year 1936, of two hundred and fifty million dollars; poultry, their poultry amounts to eighteen million dollars, and so on down the line—eggs, thirty-five million dollars.

I want to specifically show you and state to the members of this House that we are an agricultural state, and we want the supervisors in every district of this Commonwealth to become a part of the government. There is a place for these men, and home rule should never be denied these people who are as aggressive and patriotic and willing to do their share, carry their burden as anyone engaged in any other occupation in Pennsylvania.

You cannot deny the fact that this state is an agricultural state, and these men who live back in the rural sections in the farming sections of Pennsylvania only ask to become a part of our government, only ask to assume some responsibility and be under the direction and supervision of the Highway Department. We wouldn't want it any other way. The sub-committee working on these bills never asked for anything. We want it to be under the direct supervision of the Department of Highways.

Just a little further. Let me say it reminds me, if I may give this illustration, of a great tree that is fed by roots that go back into the farming sections of Pennsylvania, feeding that grand trunk until it finally bursts forth in a volume of leaves. That is what these rural roads will be. They are necessary in our form of government here in Pennsylvania; they are necessary to the great transportation problem that we have in Pennsylvania; they are necessary because they are a great part of Pennsylvania.

Another thing I want to recall is this: What greater benefit could we give to the rural sections of Pennsylvania than some aid to get them out of the mud, in order to enable them to bring their crops and produce to market, which we will admit is necessary, as well as form the feeder lines to the great transportation system we have here in Pennsylvania.

Now, may I ask you, how many of you members in this House like to go out on a Sunday or Monday or Tuesday or Wednesday or whatever day it may be and enjoy the benefits of the outdoors and these roads which might be improved.

Again, I can't help but state that this money given to the supervisors in our various districts in the state of Pennsylvania, by reason of their custom and tradition will make those dollars go as far as any department that I know of. I am not finding fault with the Department of Highways and I am not saying they are inefficient. I worked with them for a number of years, for many years, but I do say that by reason of the custom and the traditions of our people in Pennsylvania, they will make those dollars go as far as any department we have. We are only asking some sense of home rule for these people, some responsibility. They want it; they ask for it. Let us at least place them in some position where they are to be a part of us and part of our form of government. I assure you we will make no mistake as far as results are concerned in this great Commonwealth.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker, I wish to second all of the remarks of the gentleman from Snyder, but I wish to go a little bit further in speaking in favor of this bill.

To my mind at least it is a step in the right direction.

The fund from which these moneys are to be allocated is paid by the motorists of the cities, boroughs and townships of this State and they should have the right to have part of it back for the punishment that the streets and roads of these various cities, boroughs and townships have to bear, by reason of the increased heavy traffic of motor vehicles.

It has come to the point where real estate no longer should be called upon to bear the burden of the heavy motor vehicle traffic. This act simply takes part of the money that is paid in by these townships and gives part of it back to the place from which it came. Naturally you run into some opposition from various departments of the state government when you seek to relieve them of some of the powers which they now have. Any department of any central government hates to lose any powers they may have. It is always that way when various powers move from local control to centralized control, the expense of administration goes up, and goes up enormously, and to my mind, it is one of the big faults of our country. In this state today, there is too much centralized control and not enough of local control.

This bill should make possible a reduction of the taxes on real estate in the townships to which this money is allocated. One of the biggest industries located in this country today is the building industry and until we cut heavy taxation on real estate we will never be able to revive the building industry.

The one fault that I find with the bill is this: The bill doesn't go far enough. I feel that the cities and the boroughs of the state should have the right to have a like allocation to the end that the real estate taxes on property in the cities and boroughs can be reduced. The burden is getting too much to bear. When any taxes are to be raised they go to real estate for it. Nevertheless, I am in favor of the bill and I ask the members of this House to vote for the bill.

When the gentleman from Snyder stated that it was going to increase employment in the fifteen-hundred districts of the state to which this money will be allocated, I would ask the members to keep in mind this point, that if such a bill passes the House, it will allocate money to the cities and boroughs, and you can't imagine how much unemployment will be taken up with a consequent decrease in our unemployment rolls and public assistance rolls. It will give to the elective officers, if such a bill be passed, the right to allocate moneys to the cities and boroughs who are now excluded from their proper proportion. The elective officers could help spend some of the money that comes from the cities and boroughs; the big bulk of these funds comes from the cities and boroughs—the greater part of it comes from people who live in the cities and boroughs. We are not getting any relief and we are asking for it. We feel we have the right to it. This is a step in the right direction, and I ask the members of the House to support this bill.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I don't want to take too much of the time of the House, but I do want to call to the attention of the gentleman from Cambria several provisions of this bill which are very, very clear.

If you look at page two, lines sixteen, seventeen and eighteen you will find that it says:

"The funds so apportioned shall be expended by the township supervisors of each township under the supervision and subject to the approval of the Department of Highways."

You will find on page three the following:

"Before any of the funds allocated to townships by this act shall be expended for construction, reconstruction resurfacing or improvement the supervisors of the respective townships shall by resolution specify the location and type of construction of the highway proposed to be constructed reconstructed resurfaced or improved or the bridge to be constructed or reconstructed and shall submit the same to the Department of Highways together with estimates plans if any and specifications for the approval of said Department."

At the bottom of the same page it is stated:

"The supervisors of each township shall appoint a foreman who may be a member of the board of supervisors to supervise the work to be done under the provisions of this act and in the event more than one foreman is required the Department of Highways may authorize the supervisors to appoint one or more additional foremen. The Secretary of Highways shall have the right to remove any foreman so appointed for incompetency or for neglect or refusal to comply with the rules and regulations."

Mr. Speaker, I might suggest that there is an improvement that could be made to this bill, which should have been offered before third reading, and that is in section four. That section provides that any contract or agreement entered into prior to January first, nineteen hundred forty shall stand. That perhaps should be changed to read that a contract or agreement that has been entered into prior to the enactment of this bill.

Further, Mr. Speaker, I would like to call the attention of the members of this House to the fact, that we who have recently come from the other side to this side have had the experience of having absolutely nothing to say for a short period about the road right alongside of our own houses and our own farms. We talked to the local supervisor, but what good did it do? It was strictly political and the highway superintendent would pay no attention to us. I hope that condition has gone, but that was a very recent experience to me at least, and I have always felt that when it came right down to it, I could go to the supervisor, perhaps as a reasonable fellow citizen suffering under the same conditions under which I suffered and talk a little sense into him by one means or another. It is, however, a very difficult thing to get something through the head of a county superintendent of highways or through the heads of the department down here.

I think this is a step in the right direction, and I feel that the bill provides ample safeguards. As I said to the gentleman from Cambria and to the rest of the members of the House, the bill if it is to be improved must be improved in the Senate by amendment, but I would like to see the bill pass the House.

Mr. LLOYD H. WOOD. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would like to give you briefly my views on House Bill 442.

I listened rather intently to the criticism which the gentleman from Cambria levelled at this bill. He stated in the first place that he was opposed to the diversion of funds from the Motor License Fund for purposes other than highway purposes. In the second instance he stated that it was a consensus of opinion on both sides of the House that this bill was introduced as a matter of political expediency, and his third criticism was levelled at the incompetency and inefficiency of second class township supervisors.

As to the first criticism I would like to say that we have in Pennsylvania over twelve thousand miles of unimproved roads on the highway system; we have approximately seventy thousand miles of unimproved roads that are not on the highway system. Since these unimproved roads serve our farm population, which as Mr. Fiss has pointed out to you, represents one of the largest and most substantial groups of our population, I want to say to you, Mr. Speaker, that this group pays into the Motor License Fund for the privilege of operating automobiles, a tax on the gasoline that it uses, and fees for license tags. Those fees and this tax represent in effect a contribution to the Motor License Fund from which certain benefits are supposed to flow to those who use our highways, whether they be on the highway system or whether they be off of it. It would be manifestly unfair, and I think that thought was in the minds of the Legislature in 1932, when the first bill was enacted, whereby an allocation was made to second class townships, I say that it would be manifestly unfair to deprive those who reside in second class townships, along roads that are nothing but mud holes in the spring, summer and fall, and depositories for snow in the winter time, to fail to give them some sort of relief out of the money that they expend in the form of taxes to make up the Motor License Fund.

Now, since it must be admitted that they are entitled to some sort of benefit from this money that they expend, the question arises how much should they receive and in what form should this benefit be bestowed upon them? Under this bill, which contemplates an allocation of eight million, five hundred thousand dollars for the calendar years of 1940 and 1941, second class townships will receive the benefit of possibly ninety-three dollars per mile. I say to you, Mr. Speaker, that that is a modest amount for road improvements. How in the world, if we don't pass a bill of this sort, are the members of that group to which I have just alluded going to get any benefit whatsoever out of the moneys that are expended by the Highway Department for road purposes? It is true that this group has an opportunity to use the improved highways on a highway system, but that is only a part of the story. What benefit, I ask you, is it to members of this group if they have to go to market, as an illustration, a distance of about ten miles, if they have the benefit, perhaps, of one, two, three or five miles of improved roads, and the rest of it over unimproved roads? I say to you, Mr. Speaker, there is no question in my mind but that some kind of benefit should be bestowed upon this group for no other reason than that they are entitled to it.

The second criticism of the gentleman from Cambria is that this bill is nothing more or less than a matter of political expediency. To that criticism I wish to plead surprise. This is the first time I heard that, and I, incidentally, happened to be a member of the sub-committee of the Highway Committee that assisted in drafting this bill.

In conclusion I would like to point out, Mr. Speaker, with reference to the third criticism of the gentleman from Cambria, as to the supervisors of second class townships to which he rather facetiously referred as Bill, John, and so forth, that those supervisors are elected by the voters of the second class townships of this Commonwealth, and it is equivalent to saying that when they know of someone in the township that is incompetent and inefficient, that they will make out of him a township supervisor.

It reminds me of my experience during the World War when I was in the Army. I always had the impression that the cook was one of the most important individuals connected with a military organization, but in the organization in which I happened to serve during the war they were constantly pointing out to us if you don't do this and if you don't do that—if you are not successful in your activities in learning to be a soldier, they would make a cook out of you. I want to say to you that it is a fallacious argument to say that second class township supervisors are incompetent individuals because there might be one here and there and elsewhere who is not up to standard.

I am not going to take up any more of the time of this House in speaking in behalf of this bill, other than to say that it is an equitable allocation of funds to a group that deserves consideration.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, the gentlemen on my right are using sixteen inch siege guns to kill a sparrow. The probabilities are, Mr. Speaker, that when this bill comes to a vote there will be only one vote against it, my own. However, if I had not made the first talk, the gentlemen on my right would not have been able to register so magnificently with the supervisors' lobby. I have given them a chance to go home and say, "Bill, we certainly put it across against those fellows that tried to count you out." Do not think, Mr. Speaker, that I am not perfectly conscious of the power and strength of the supervisors' lobby. Their power at Harrisburg is only equalled, I think, by their inefficiency at home.

Now just for the sake of the record, this bill is unscientific in its allotment of funds, because it recognizes as being entitled to a portion of the allotment every cow path and every trail in a county. Everybody knows that there are certain roads in every township that are back roads, that do not have the right to be included in the allocation of funds, and so when you recognize every cow path and every trail that a farmer or Indian laid, it seems to me you don't get the correct allocation of funds throughout the State.

The gentleman from Blair is in error when he says that this measure will reduce taxes, because this measure supplants a bill which forbade the township commissioners from levying taxes in keeping with the amount of state aid they received, but they can go ahead now under the legislation you are proposing, get the State aid and levy their taxes.

You have listened very patiently and as far as I am disposed this bill can come to a vote, you can all vote "aye," and I will vote "no."

Mr. JOHN N. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I appreciate that you have been patient and have listened with interest to the very fine debate on behalf of the bill that is now before the House for final passage. I don't know that I can add anything to the debate because the high under-lying principle of this bill appeals to me more than anything that we may say in words. It brings to my attention the opportunity to approach the bill with a great deal of delight because of the under-lying principle that is involved.

Now, there is an adage that is more than an adage, because it is an everlasting truth "Where there is no vision, people perish."

I am glad that this House has the opportunity today to take action upon a bill that concentrates attention and interest upon the common humanity that makes up our Commonwealth. We can entrust the execution of this bill into the hands of people who by history and tradition have been known for their sterling qualities of economy and common sense.

Too far have we gone along the line of centralization of government and I believe that here and now is the opportunity for us to show the common folks we are concerned about their interests in government. I say to you that when we destroy the initiative of home rule we attack and undermine the very bulwark of our civilization and government. It is therefore with a great real of pleasure that I rise to make these few brief remarks in support of a bill that from the standpoint of its principle opens up the door, of interest in government to our local people in the spirit, on the basis and on the fundamentals of home rule.

Mr. LOVETT. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I notice that most all of the speeches on this particular measure came from the other side of the House.

I just want to say that we as Democrats, or at least some of us, feel that our party is for home rule and when we vote on this particular measure we don't vote with any particular lobbyists or supervisors or anybody else; we vote because we feel that our party stands for home rule. I ask the members of my party to support this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—194

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 443, entitled:

An Act to amend the appropriation act approved the fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-seven (Appropriation Act No. 51-A) entitled "An act making an appropriation out of the Motor License Fund to the Department of Highways for expenditure in the various second-class townships of the Commonwealth for the maintenance of township roads and bridges during the calendar years one thousand nine hundred thirty-eight and one thousand nine hundred thirty-nine apportioning the funds to the several counties on the basis of the maintenance costs for the year one thousand nine hundred thirty-two permitting the use of any surplus funds for construction and reconstruction and resurfacing of township roads and bridges requiring townships to exclude provision for maintenance of roads and bridges from their annual budget and tax levy for road and street purposes for said years authorizing the Department of Highways to rent road building machinery and equipment belonging to such townships in carrying out the provisions of this act and lapsing the unexpended or unencumbered balance of the appropriation remaining on January first one thousand nine hundred forty" by providing that the unexpended and unencumbered balance of such appropriation at the time this act becomes effective shall be allocated to and apportioned among the various second-class townships on the basis of the amount of road mileage in such townships authorizing the township supervisors to expend the moneys allocated to the township for the purpose prescribed under the approval and supervision of the Department of Highways and excluding the provision for expenditure by the Department of Highways of such balances the taxing and budgeting limitations on townships of the second class and the right of the Department of Highways to rent road-building machinery and equipment belonging to such townships

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LICHTENWALTER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in January I introduced a bill amending a section of Act 51A which was passed at the last session of this Legislature, sponsored by a member of this House from my own county, representing a district comprised entirely by the city of Allentown. I introduced that bill because I felt that that act was a vicious piece of legislation. It was preventing the men who were elected by the people of the district from doing the job that was expected of them by their people. That act left with the supervisors the responsibility of any lawsuits that might arise out of the carelessness or the negligence of the State Highway Department in the various counties in caring for the maintenance of the roads.

We feel that it is rightly proper that the supervisors of the districts of this Commonwealth, being duly elected officers of the people, should have the right to say, if they are to be responsible for the acts that are committed upon that highway, to be also responsible for the expending of money on the roads in these townships. The bill that I introduced provided for allocation to the townships rather than to the counties in this State. Act 51-A as it is presently operating allows a great deal more politics than if this amendment is passed, because the commissioners of the counties under the present act can give to any particular favorite township any amount of money that they see fit and the township in that county which is in most need of funds would probably receive none.

I think that the amendment to this act is fair in its distribution of money to the townships in this Commonwealth. I want to state that this bill 443 embodies all of the principles that I introduced in my particular bill, and I want to ask the members of this House to vote in favor of this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

It is hereby declared as the legislative intent that this act would have been adopted had such provision or part hereof not been included herein.

Section 5 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

MR. REUBEN E. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, Philadelphia again comes to the Legislature with its problems.

Philadelphia is asking a delay at this time in the passage of this bill for very practical and obvious reasons. This House only recently passed the so-called gas bill, which would allow the city of Philadelphia and its council to borrow $50,000,000 with which to get out of its present financial difficulties. Bringing all of the facts and figures down to actual amounts of money, there are three courses which Philadelphia might take at the present time.

The first is, if the Supreme Court in its decision on the case argued last Monday, and which I believe will be decided very shortly because of the importance of the situation, were to decide that the borrowing of $50,000,000 on our gas house is legal and proper, Council would then have $50,000,000 in its pocket to spend, and which they have evidenced they proposed to spend as follows: $40,000,000 will immediately be used to pay off the deficit that has accumulated during the past few years. That would then leave the city with $10,000,000 with which to bridge the gap between this year's estimated income and expenses. If the plan works out in that manner, we would have no deficit to spread and therefore the bill would not be necessary. If on the other hand, the Citizens Committee, which intervened in the argument before the Supreme Court, is successful, it would result in the Supreme Court saying that you can only borrow $40,000,000 and that $40,000,000 could be used to pay off all our deficit and we would then be faced with the problem of only meeting this year's difference between estimated receipts and estimated expenses. We would have no deficit concerning which any legislation could be passed as this bill pretends to do, and this deficit would not exist under those circumstances.

The third situation is, if the Supreme Court would say that the gas loan is not legal, we would then have a deficit of forty million dollars by the end of the year, should there be no further taxes. I might say in that regard that an independent newspaper in Philadelphia on a poll which was conducted in a scientific manner by Dr. Gallup, indicated that the people of Philadelphia want no new taxes. Assuming that council would at this time heed the wishes of the people of Philadelphia, and say it will put on no new taxes, we will have a fifty million dollar deficit at the end of the year. Now, if we put this bill into effect spreading the deficit at two and one-half million dollars a year, it would necessarily run us into a situation where we would bind every future council in the City of Philadelphia for at least sixteen years, and at the same time they have to worry about paying back to the bankers for the gas company seventy-three and one-half million dollars over a period of seventeen and one-half years. So that in the future, besides trying to meet the gap between income and expenses, we have to worry about a fixed charge under this act and under the gas loan of over six million dollars to pay back the waste that has accumulated in Philadelphia. I am not referring to sewage, I am referring to the financial waste that we have in Philadelphia today.

Now, my purpose in rising at this time, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, is that if either of the first two propositions turns out to be true, we don't need this bill. If either of the first two propositions can be looked forward to or be expected at the hands of the Supreme Court, that great arm of this Legislature, we would then have to talk about this bill later on to determine how it might fit in with Philadelphia's plan, as to whether or not City Council will have the courage in the face of an overwhelming poll indicating a repugnance as to new taxes to make a new levy, and whether we would have a little bit or a lot to think about.

Now, the argument might be made that two years ago, this House, supported by the Democratic majority, including the Democrats from Philadelphia, passed a bill to spread what was then a twenty-five million dollar deficit over a period of five years at the rate of five million dollars per year. It is true at that time we never even thought of hocking our gas lease and we felt that with that five million dollars a year, council might make an effort to get rid of our tremendous deficit, but council never made an attempt to take advantage of it, so that goes bye-bye and is in default?

What will Council do with this money? That is our problem today. Council might with the same disdain for public opinion as it has indicated in the past, use that money to pay the deficit, or they might decide to use ten million dollars of it or twenty million, or thirty million, or forty million dollars of it, because the Supreme Court's decision won't say "You must use it for certain purposes," leaving the City with a deficit to cover.

If we have only a ten million dollar deficit left after this year is over, would it not be good sense on our part to say to Philadelphia, "we will pass a bill to spread the deficit." Let us say it is only ten million dollars, why not spread it out to provide for payment at the rate of one million dollars a year, so that the burden of future councils might be a little bit lessened over the next ten years, rather than to say it must be two million five hundred thousand dollars.

MOTION TO POSTPONE

Mr. REUBEN E. COHEN. I move you, Mr. Speaker, that this bill be placed on the postponed calendar and remain there at least for one week as we may know by that time what the Supreme Court will decide for the benefit of Philadelphia, and we will then know what the expression of city council will be, and what they intend to do with the benevolence which will be heaped upon them by the Supreme Court.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

Mr. SWEENEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I do not intend to take up a great deal of your time. This bill was discussed the other day when amendments were offered, or rather when Mr. Ominsky suggested that it be placed on the postponed calendar.

It is true that in Philadelphia we are faced with a deficit. Our budget for the coming year is eighty-six million dollars and our estimated receipts according to City Council are seventy-six million dollars, leaving a deficit of about ten million dollars. We have an accumulated deficit of about forty million dollars. If the Supreme Court which heard this tax case on Monday would find, as we would like it to, that this gas sale can go through, we can use this fifty million dollars to pay off first our accumulated deficit of forty million dollars and ten million dollars of our anticipated deficit. It seems to me, members of the House, after listening to Mr. Cohen, that the Democratic members of the House from Philadelphia are desirous of putting City Council into a position where they will have to levy new taxes on the people of Philadelphia. Mr. Cohen told you, and has told you truthfully that the people of Philadelphia in a pole conducted by an independent newspaper were against any new taxes. Still the Democratic members of this House, especially the Democratic members from Philadelphia, would have City Council go against the wishes of the people who elected them and levy new taxes upon them. Evidently this situation is not peculiar to Philadelphia. I heard on the floor of the House Monday night that the school teachers in some of the counties of the state have not been paid for five or six months. They are all bankrupt. We hear a lot of talk about waste and extravagance by City Council of Philadelphia. There was a survey made by a supposedly independent group of individuals—I have never seen the report of that survey or a copy of it—which stated that if City Council were to fire every available man that could be fired there would be a saving of possibly three million dollars. This is an eighty-six million dollar budget, and we might save three million dollars were we to fire everybody that we figure could be fired, so you see that won't help us out in Philadelphia. Our situation in Philadelphia has arisen because of one reason, and that is that the assessed values of our real estate have decreased one billion dollars. We don't get the revenue. There is only one reason why the minority members in this House, especially the Democrats from Philadelphia, want this bill postponed or not passed, and that is because they want to put City Council, all the members of which are coming up for election next year, in the position of going against the will of the people and levying new taxes. I therefore ask you, members of the House, to vote against putting this bill on the postponed calendar.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the motion?

So the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. LONG. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I merely wish to call the attention of the membership to the fact that the particular bill upon which we are about to vote does not in any sense constitute a solution of Philadelphia's financial difficulties at the present time, nor does it extend any hope of a solution in the future.

If the present plan to hock the proceeds from the gas works of four million, two hundred thousand dollars a year income to the city of Philadelphia for a period of sixteen and one-half years, is successful, then this bill will not be necessary in order to balance this year's budget in Philadelphia. On the other hand, if the gas sale is unconstitutional, this particular bill would not contribute to any great extent to the solution of this year's budget problem. I believe that all of the people familiar with conditions in Philadelphia today admit that even the sale of the gas revenues of the city of Philadelphia for an extended period will only solve the budget for this year. Mr. Jay Cooke, Chairman of the Republican City Committee of Philadelphia, in a statement to the press a couple of weeks ago, admitted that some new taxes must be levied in the city of Philadelphia to balance next year's budget, or a curtailed service to the people of Philadelphia will result.

I wish to impress upon you first of all that this bill is not a solution of these difficulties. However, the city of Philadelphia has an opportunity to solve its difficulties in the future. You have within your power the right to give to the citizens of Philadelphia the privilege of voting upon a City Charter which might possibly offer some solution to Philadelphia's future difficulties. Such palliatives as the sale, or the mortgaging of the gas lease, the selling of Philadelphia's future revenues to the extent of four million, two hundred thousand dollars a year for a period of sixteen and one-half years, which sum must be made up in taxation, as well as twenty-six million dollars more in interest which will accrue, merely imposes upon the citizens of Philadelphia extra difficulties and added burdens and only accentuates the problems that must be faced after this year.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

ANNOUNCEMENT BY SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. The Chair would advise the members that by reason of the predicament in which he finds himself it will be necessary for him to ask the House to adjourn before five o'clock. The State Authority Board meets on Wednesday of each week. It was supposed to meet at two o'clock today, but the Speaker was unable to attend the meeting at that time because of the session of this House, and the meeting was adjourned, until five o'clock. The Speaker has promised to be present at that meeting.

The gentleman from Green, Mr. Furman, has been trying for two days to present a resolution. The Chair does not feel that it would be fair to adjourn without giving him a chance to present it. However, if other members seek to introduce resolutions we will not be able to adjourn before five o'clock.

The Chair would therefore ask that the gentleman from Green, Mr. Furman, be permitted to present his resolution, and that as far as possible we take up other resolutions until the time for adjournment. The Chair asks that as a courtesy from the members of the House.

If there is no objection the Chair will proceed accordingly. The Chair hears none.

The Chair understands the purpose of the resolution which the gentleman has to offer, it having been explained to him. The Speaker feels that he does not care to occupy the Chair when this resolution is presented, and therefore requests the gentleman from Lancaster, Mr. Wood, to come to the rostrum.

MR. NORMAN WOOD IN THE CHAIR

RESOLUTION

Mr. FURMAN offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent to have it read for the information of the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the House give its unanimous consent to have the resolution read? Is there objection?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE

Mr. FURMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move that Rule No. 84 be suspended for the specific purpose of having this resolution read.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

On a rising vote, fifty-eight members having voted in the affirmative and one hundred and thirteen in the negative, the question was determined in the negative and the motion was not agreed to.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the Rules.

THE SPEAKER (Ellwood J. Turner) IN THE CHAIR

The SPEAKER. The Chair thanks the gentleman from Lancaster for his presence on the rostrum.

RESOLUTION SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. McGARRITY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, March 22, 1939.

Almighty God, in his Divine Wisdom, has summoned to his Eternal Reward, Joseph Cortese, beloved and distinguished father of the Honorable Americo V. Cortese, our esteemed colleague and fellow-member of the House of Representatives.

Joseph Cortese dedicated his life to the honorable and noble pursuit of guiding and rearing children, in the love of God and Country, and in the service of his fellow-men.

He was born in Marsicovetere, Province of Basilicata, Italy, and entered the United States about forty-five years ago.

From the age of seven years until he had passed the half century mark he was a master of the violin, composed music and played before the crowned heads of Europe and in the White House at Washington.

For many years he conducted his own orchestra in Philadelphia at the old Bellevue Hotel. He also engaged in the jewelry and banking business.

The past score of years he spent in the quiet enjoyment of the society of his wife and family.

The passing of Joseph Cortese has brought to his wife and to our grief-stricken colleague and his brothers and sisters a sense of deep and irreparable loss; Therefore be it

Resolved, That this House extends its most sincere sympathy to Caroline Cortese, his wife, who devoted her life to his care and the care of their children, and likewise to our sorrowing colleague and to his brothers and sisters who so deeply mourn the loss of their father; and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be transmitted by the Chief Clerk of this House to our colleague, the Honorable Americo V. Cortese.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

In profound reverence we approach Thee, O God, Eternal Creator, who "of the dust of the ground" didst form man and didst breathe into his nostrils "the breath of life, and he became a living being." Surely where breath is present there is life and power; where it is absent there is only flesh, weakness and decay. May Thy eternal spirit ever abide in us so that we may be conscious of Thy indwelling presence. Grant that the mention of Thy Name in our devotions may not only be the formal profession of our lips but also the deepest confession of our hearts of our faith in and our dependence upon Thee, O God. In this spirit we beseech Thee, O God, to bless the undertakings of this day. May unity and peace abide in all our hearts. May we work together to promote the interest and the welfare of these tasks to which Thou hast called us. May the words of our mouths, and the meditations of our hearts, be acceptable in Thy sight, O Lord, our strength, and our redeemer. Amen.

RESOLUTIONS INTRODUCED AND REFERRED

By Mr. WEISS.

RESOLUTION No. 48.

In the House of Representatives, March 22, 1939.

Whereas, Many bills have been introduced during this session dealing with group and industrial insurance; and

Whereas, There has not been established any uniformity in the forms of the policies issued for such insurance; and

Whereas, By reason thereof, fraud may be easily practiced by companies upon policy holders; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly that the Speaker of the House shall appoint a legislative committee consisting of three members of the House whose duty it shall be to confer with the Department of Insurance and determine upon a uniform form of policy or policies to be used in writing such insurance within the Commonwealth so that appropriate legislation can be enacted at this session of the Legislature.

Referred to the Committee on Insurance.

By Mr. WEISS.

RESOLUTION No. 49.

In the House of Representatives, March 22, 1939.

"Ghost towns" are the ghosts of what were once happily populated and thriving communities in the mining regions of the Commonwealth.

They are now but a pitiable and tragic wreck of their former condition.

They are filled with squalor and inhabited by a jobless and unhappy people.

These unsmiling denizens of the "Ghost towns" have no work and no future, they are destitute and hopeless; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House of Representatives is authorized to appoint a legislative committee, composed of five members of this House of Representatives, whose duty it shall be to make a thorough investigation of the Ghost towns within the Commonwealth, for the purpose of determining what can be done for the people existing therein, in order to improve their condition, to determine the possibility of providing them with work or the advisability of removing them into some different environment, and to report the result of such investigation to this House of Representatives as soon as possible.

By Mr. WEISS.

RESOLUTION No. 50.

In the House of Representatives, March 22, 1939.

Whereas, "Speed traps" planned to catch the unsuspecting motorist and subject him to humiliation, fine and embarrassment are in most cases but the legalized means adopted by unscrupulous peace officers to enrich themselves; and

Whereas, Many of our citizens have been entrapped when far from home and have been compelled to pay the charges imposed or to put themselves to great inconvenience and expense in order to contest the charges preferred; and

Whereas, The General Assembly should be made familiar with the operation of "speed traps" in order to intelligently eliminate them without opening the highways to reckless and illegal traffic; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Speaker of the House is authorized to appoint a Legislative Committee composed of five members of the House whose duty it shall be to investigate "speed traps" existing in the Commonwealth in order to determine the best method of eliminating them and substituting some better method of curbing reckless and illegal driving, and to report to this House as speedily as possible the result of its investigation.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

By Mr. FURMAN. Concurrent RESOLUTION No. 51.

In the House of Representatives, March 22, 1939.

Whereas, The General State Authority was created by Act No. 190 approved June 28, 1935, P. L. 452, as a separate independent public corporation and empowered to construct and improve projects for the use of the Commonwealth and of the Pennsylvania State College; and

Whereas, During the years 1937 and 1938 the said Authority undertook, at the behest of the Commonwealth, the construction at a gross cost of $65,000,000.00 of eighty-one (81) projects situate in forty-three (43) counties of the Commonwealth for the use, occupancy and accommodations of a number of the Departments of the Commonwealth and of the College, which program of projects is now approximately 75% completed; and

Whereas, In the prosecution of its construction progress, the Authority has entered into contracts with its own employees, with construction contractors, with the purchasers of its bonds, with the owners of property used and occupied as its offices, and with the Government of the United States of America with relation to Public Works Administration grants; and

Whereas, The governing board of the said Authority has not held any meetings since February 1, 1939 and has permitted to accumulate a large volume of its business urgently in need of attention, thereby contributing to the detriment of and to possible loss to the public and the Commonwealth, to the embarrassment of those entitled to expect prompt performance of the functions of the Authority, and to the possible demoralization of the employed personnel of the Authority; and

Whereas, The officers of the Authority have failed and refused to execute bonds of the Authority, part of the issue of $55,000,000.00 authorized on January 12, 1938 to finance its present program, in order to meet the January and February construction obligations of the Authority thereby endangering its credit, embarrassing its contractors and creating the hazards of the stoppage of the execution of the many construction contracts, of throwing contractors into financial difficulties, of putting workmen out of employment, and of endangering the solvency of the Authority itself; and

Whereas, the good name of the Authority is of vital concern to the members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth,

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) that the membership of this Legislature appeal and it hereby does appeal to the membership of the Board of the General State Authority, without further undue delay to do all things lawfully within their powers to provide for the proper and expeditious transactions of the business of the Authority to the end that the honor and good faith of the people of this Commonwealth, as reflected in the conduct of the Authority, may be fully maintained and preserved; and be it further

Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be immediately transmitted to each member of the Board of the General State Authority.

Referred to the Committee on Rules.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I realize that we have had somewhat of an hectic day. I realize that the Republican majority is somewhat confused after their lengthy caucus and I wish by no means to place any oil on the trouble waters, nevertheless I feel that there are certain things that warrant an explanation in order to guide the membership of the House in voting on this particular bill.

I might say with strained modesty that the bill apparently is directed at my continued tenure on General State Authority. Nevertheless I feel that part of my position can be adequately explained to the membership of this House and I feel that it will follow, I should say, a tacit acquiescence in the position I have taken on my unwarranted dismissal.

The General State Authority Act was passed in 1935. The bill at that time and through its passage was so written that representation on the General State Authority was equally divided between Republican and Democratic members. However, the General State Authority Act never had an opportunity to go into operation due to the fact that the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1935, declared the General State Authority to be an unconstitutional function, due to the fact that it would indirectly allow the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to increase its indebtedness without the attending necessary constitutional amendment.

However, in 1937, immediately following the election of 1936, the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had a change either of heart or mind and held the General State Authority's functions to be constitutional on practically the same identical facts. From then on followed a building program that has enriched Pennsylvania and the inhabitants of Pennsylvania far beyond the monies expended. By that program there has been erected throughout the Commonwealth a complete new institutional system some of the benefits of which, I believe, have permeated into each and every county of the Commonwealth. Schools have been rehabilitated hospitals have been improved, new institutions have been erected, armories have been repaired and the entire institutional background of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania which had been neglected for so many years, through the advent of the General State Authority has been placed upon the basis to which I feel other administrations had aspired.

Today the program of the General State Authority is approximately ninety per cent completed. I played, I would say, a small part in that program since my appointment to the board by the predecessor of the present Speaker, the gentleman from Greene, Mr. Furman. I have had occasion to attend approximately ninety-one meetings of the General State Authority Board, each meeting lasting anywhere from an hour and a half to seven hours in duration. In addition thereto I have expended a great amount of my own individual time and effort in analyzing the problems with which the General State Authority was confronted prior to my attendance at those meetings. All this was done according to the act but without the attending compensation.

I have taken a particular pride in the accomplishments of the General State Authority, because I feel that we have erected for the people of the Commonwealth the necessary agencies whereby the people of the Commonwealth can be better served. However, in the passage of the act of 1935—and I might state to the gentleman of the majority that the Senate at that time had a substantial Republican majority—there was not included any tenure for the appointed members. The General State Authority is not, and has been so held by the Supreme Court of the Commonwealth, an agency of the Commonwealth. The General State Authority has been held by the Supreme Court, in the case of Kelly vs. Earle, to be an independent corporation established by the act of the Legislature, and hence the constitutional provision that would apply to an officer of the Commonwealth has not applied to the appointed members of the General State Authority, because they are not officers of the Commonwealth. Were the members of the General State Authority Board officers of the Commonwealth, I do not believe that the Speaker or any appointed member could act in that capacity, being a member of the House or of the Senate, on account of the constitutional provision that restrict a member of the House and a member of the Senate from receiving any appointment to any office in the Commonwealth during the term for which he has been elected. Hence it follows that membership on the General

State Authority Board is not under the Constitution and the right to appoint does not carry with it the attending right to dismiss. Relying upon learned legal council, I felt that the interests of the General State Authority necessitated my continuance in that office, irrespective of the fact that the Governor of the Commonwealth desired that I withdraw my affiliation with that independent corporation.

We are today confronted with the problem of doing legally what the Governor attempted to do illegally we are now confronted with the necessity of amending the act and deciding that the action of the Governor on February 21st, attempting to dismiss the appointed members, was an unwarranted intrusion into a field and a sphere in which the Governor had no right to inject himself. That dispute has resulted in the fact that for the past two and one-half months approximately, the contractors have not received their payments and it has occasioned the General State Authority an unwarranted expense of approximately three hundred and thirty-eight dollars per day, and has resulted in the disruption of the administrative affairs of the General State Authority solely due to the fact that the Governor stated that he would not sit with either myself or the gentleman from Dauphin, Senator Kunkel or with the Hon. Arthur McCullough the appointed member from Lancaster County. However, apparently last night there were some modifications of that announced procedure on the part of the Governor. Last night there was a meeting of the General State Authority at which Mr. McCullough and myself were present and the pressure on the contractors and other employes has been relieved by the signature of the State Authority bonds and the payments made to the contractors.

The Governor stated at the time of his attempted removal that he was acting under the Attorney General's opinion. At the time that I was served by an officer of the Motor Police with the announcement of my dismissal, I immediately replied to the Governor through the same medium by writing to the Governor and having the same officer deliver my letter to him, in which I indicated that I did not acquiesce in the dismissal, and I requested the Governor to afford me the opinion of the Attorney General under which he purported to act. Up until the present time the Governor has not extended me the courtesy of replying to that letter nor has he extended me the courtesy of evidencing the Attorney General's opinion under which he indicated that he was acting at the time of his attempted and unwarranted dismissal.

I am asking the membership of the House to vote "no" on this bill for the reason that I can bring to the General State Authority innumerable hours of experience, innumerable hours of study and a great amount of diligent research in an attempt to better equip the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to maintain the charges that it has throughout the entire State.

I might further indicate to the membership of this House that irrespective of the passage of this bill, which I feel is unconstitutional even in its present form, in that it does not by any means meet the exigency under the circumstances, I feel we are indulging in an unwarranted and unconstitutional action, and I feel just as my colleague from Lancaster, Mr. McCullough, feels that our position on the General State Authority is that of a fiduciary or trustee and that the only method that now would be constitutional and that will effectually result in the removal of appointed members to the General State Authority, is by action of those seeking to remove the appointed members that would indicate dereliction, malfeasance and misfeasance in office. I say to the membership of this House or to the Court of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, any activities that this House might indulge in in an attempt to remove the appointed members from the General State Authority is but a nullity.

I respectfully suggest to the membership of this House that they vote "no" on this bill.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken.

Messrs. Hess, Readinger and Check asked for a verification of the roll.

REASON FOR NOT VOTING

Mr. TURNER filed the following reason for not voting:

I do not vote on the final passage of House Bill No. 474, Printer's No. 114, because it creates a vacancy on the Board of the Authority which would give to me the power to appoint a member of the Board in the place of the member appointed by my predecessor.

While I do not consider this such an interest as to disqualify me voting under the law, nevertheless by reason of the office which I hold I consider that I should refrain from voting.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 400, entitled:

An Act to amend the title and the act approved the nineteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and eighty-seven (P. L. 132) entitled "An act to give preference of appointment or employment to honorably discharged soldiers sailors and marines who fought for the Union cause in the late war of the rebellion" by extending the same preference to veterans and nurses of any war in which the United States has engaged.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin County, Mr. Reese.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from Dauphin what this bill would do to civil service, or rather, to the merit system of civil service.

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, it would not do anything to the merit system of civil service.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean that these veterans then would not be able to get positions that are now held out merely for people who pass the merit system examinations?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, as I said before, this bill has no bearing upon the merit system whatsoever. The only purpose of the bill is that within the discretion of those who employ people they give preference to those who have served in the World War and any other war in which America has participated. It is in line with the procedure and the custom of this Commonwealth since the time of the Civil War.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman mean by that that these veterans should seek employment in departments that are not now under civil service?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, they have the opportunity to do so, yes.

Mr. TRONZO. Mr. Speaker, where do these veterans who are registered as Democrats come in? Would you give them positions, too?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I do not have the opportunity to grant any jobs.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The wheel shall be emptied and its contents destroyed after the last drawing of jurors in the calendar year. Within ten days after the approval of this act the jury commissioners and the sheriff of each county of the third class shall deliver to the president judge of the court of common pleas the jury wheel and the keys thereto.

Section 5 Drawing of and Notices to Jurors The issuing of writs commanding the impaneling and summoning of jurors to serve as jurors in the trial of any issue triable by jury in the several courts of the counties affected by this act and to serve as grand jurors shall be as now provided by law except the appropriate writs shall be directed not as heretofore to the sheriff and commissioners but to the jury board commanding it to impanel and summon such jurors as required under the law or by order or praecipe of any of the several courts of the respective third class counties affected by this act. After the jury boards as herein provided for are organized all drawings or jurors and proceedings incident to said drawings shall be as follows. At least thirty days before each term of court there shall be drawn from the jury wheel name-slips equaling the number of jurors which the jury board has been directed to impanel and summon for each week of said term of court and at least thirty days before the commencement of the grand jury there shall be drawn from said wheel twenty-four name-slips of jurors to be summoned for said grand jury. The names, occupations, addresses and numbers of the persons so drawn for jury service shall be typewritten upon a list and the list shall be posted in the office of the prothonotary and clerk of the court at least twenty-five days before the first day of the week of court or the session of grand jury for which said jurors are chosen. These lists shall be signed by at least two of the judges of the court of common pleas and by at least two jury commissioners and also by the clerk of the jury board. The jurors so chosen shall at least twenty days before the first day of the week of court or session of the grand jury for which they have been drawn for service be notified to appear for service at the proper time by card duly mailed to the proper address and signed by the clerk of the jury board with a postage-prepaid return card attached to said notice setting forth that notice to appear at the hour and date therein stated is accepted. This return card shall be addressed to the clerk of the jury board. The citizens to whom cards have been mailed and from whom return cards have not been received five days after the cards were mailed to them shall be served personally by the sheriff of the county or his deputies with notice to appear for jury service at the proper time. These summonses for jury service whether by card duly mailed or by personal service shall be deemed summonses of the court and disobedience to them shall be considered the same as disobedience to any other summons of the court.

Section 6 Method of Drawing Jurors All drawings of jurors after the organization of the jury board shall take place in one of the court rooms selected by the chairman of the board at a time fixed by him of which time and place the other members of the jury board shall have at least three days' notice. The clerk shall announce or advertise the time and place of said drawings of jurors in two newspapers of general circulation all of which shall be located in the county seat of the county not more than ten days nor less than three days before the time of said drawing. The drawing shall be in the presence of at least one jury commissioner and at least one judge of the court of common pleas and shall be open to the public. The name-slips shall be drawn singly from the wheel by any person whom the judge or judges present at the drawing may there appoint for that purpose. The name, number, address and occupation as the same appear on the name-slips shall be read by any person there appointed for that purpose by the judge or judges present and shall be compared by the clerk of the jury board with the corresponding name, number, address and occupation on the official jury list. If the name, number, address and occupation correspond, the clerk shall immediately copy the same in a book called the "jury book." After the name-slips have been copied in the jury book and the jury book entry compared and found to be correct, the nameslips shall be immediately sealed in an envelope by the clerk and on said envelope and in said jury book the specific week or weeks of jury service for which said jurors whose names are on said slips are drawn shall be entered. These name-slips shall be held for safekeeping as the court shall direct until the end of the year when they shall be destroyed unless the court shall order otherwise.

Section 7 Excusing Jurors from Service Any judge in charge of the trial list during the week for which a juror has been summoned shall have power upon application to excuse from jury service for cause any person drawn for jury service for said week. This may be done at any time after the jurors are drawn. Unless otherwise ordered by said judge the name of said excused juror shall be written on a name-slip identical in form with the name-slips in the jury wheel folded and placed back in the jury wheel.

Section 8 Summoning of Talesmen When because of exhaustion of the regular panel of jurors or other causes talesmen are immediately required for service as jurors in a case called for trial, the trial judge shall appoint one or two or three persons or public officials as the court may determine having no personal or pecuniary or official interest in the case on trial to summon such numbers of talesmen as the court shall direct for jury service in the case on trial. If counsel for either side object to the person or persons appointed to summon talesmen, such person or persons shall not be appointed until at least one other judge of the court concurs in such appointment. No official connected with the district attorney's office shall be appointed to summon talesmen to serve in a criminal case. Talesmen must possess the qualifications of jurors. Their names may be taken from the jury list but persons not on the list may also be called as talesmen. The court may direct the persons so appointed to summon talesmen to work at a unit and to jointly summon the talesmen ordered for service or said persons so appointed may be sent out separately to summon a given number of talesmen. The notice to the talesmen shall be in writing directing the talesmen to appear at the court house at a certain hour and day for jury service and this notice shall be signed by either the clerk of the jury board or any member of the jury board or any one of the officials or citizens appointed by the court to summon talesmen. A failure to obey any such summons shall be treated the same as disobedience to any other lawful summons of the court. Any talesman accepted as a juror may be excused from further jury service for a year.

Section 9 Challenging Jurors or the Array Any objection or challenge to jurors based on their disqualification for jury service under this act or to the array based on any irregularity in the proceedings or procedure in and by which said jurors were selected, drawn or summoned for jury service must be made before said jurors or array of jurors are sworn and cannot be made thereafter. After jurors are sworn without objection all objections to their qualifications as prescribed by this act or to the manner of their selection, drawing or summoning shall be deemed to have been waived. No indictment can be attacked or verdict challenged by reason of any juror's disqualification under this act or any irregularity in the manner of selecting, drawing or summoning jurors unless due objection is made before said alleged disqualified or illegally selected jurors are sworn.

Section 10 Proceedings if Array is Quashed When the array of jurors returned at any court shall be quashed by reason of any fault or irregularity in the selection of said array of jurors, the court shall forthwith order another public drawing of jurors in the manner provided in this act to take the place of the jurors on the quashed array and said jurors shall be legal jurors for the week for which the jurors in said quashed array were drawn. The court shall prescribe what notice shall be given of the names occupations and addresses of the persons thus drawn so as to conform as nearly as may be practicable under the circumstances to the notice of and to jurors drawn as prescribed by sections five and six of this act. If there has been any fundamental irregularity in filling the jury wheel the court of common pleas may upon satisfactory proof of said irregularity order the wheel emptied and then refilled with names of persons qualified for jury service. Said names shall be selected by the jury board and as nearly as possible according to the procedure prescribed in this act except that the same shall be done within a time to be prescribed by the court.

The provisions of this act relating to the drawing of jurors shall not apply to the drawing of jurors in any county in which the jury wheel was filled for the year under the provisions of any other act of Assembly applicable to such county at the time such wheel was filled and the names of jurors shall be drawn therefrom under the provisions of the law applicable to such county at the time such jury wheel was so filled. Provided however That thereafter this act shall apply to such counties and the jury wheel shall be filled and the names of jurors drawn therefrom under the provisions of this act only.

Section 12 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 13 This act shall become effective immediately upon its final enactment.

Mr. MORAN. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the sponsor of this bill to explain the purpose of it.

Mr. ATKINS. Mr. Speaker, this bill is an amendment to the act of 1917, section (c):

"When the personal estate of a decedent does not exceed the value of five hundred dollars the executor or administrator may after the expiration of six months after the date of granting the letters testamentary or of administration present his petition to the proper orphans' court."

In other words it will lessen the expense of settling small estates. I talked with Mr. Homer S. Brown concerning a bill just passed stating that in any personal estates of two hundred dollars or less the executor or the administrator is not required to take out letters of administration, but could settle the estate by petition thereby doing away with the formal accounts. This bill provides that as to personal estates of five hundred dollars or less letters of administration are taken out but it also dispenses with the filing of any formal accounts, thereby reducing the cost of settling these small estates.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

Achterman,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk return the same to the Senate with the information that the House has passed the same with amendments in which the concurrence of the Senate is requested.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 221, as follows:

An Act declaring prosecutions against defendants finally ended and terminated where the Grand Jury has returned bills of indictment ignoramus unless a re-submission is authorized by the court for certain reasons and providing the procedure and for appeals in such cases The General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania hereby enacts as follows

Section 1 When the Grand Jury of any county of this Commonwealth has considered evidence in support of a bill of indictment for any one or more offenses alleged to have been committed against the laws of this Commonwealth by a defendant and has made to the court a return of ignoramus the case against the defendant charged with such offense or offenses shall be deemed finally ended and terminated unless the District Attorney of the county shall within thirty (30) days from the date such bill was ignored petition the court in which the prosecution is pending for authority to re-submit the bill of indictment to the same or a subsequent Grand Jury

Section 2 No such petition to re-submit a bill of indictment theretofore ignored shall be allowed by the court unless the District Attorney shall allege in his petition and shall prove by competent testimony that the bill of indictment was returned ignoramus by the Grand Jury by reason of oversight or fraud or mistake or that he has obtained additional evidence since the indictment was so returned which in his opinion would justify its resubmission to a grand jury

Section 3 Due notice of the filing of any such petition for authority to re-submit any such bill of indictment shall be given to the defendant charged with such offense or offenses in such manner as the court may determine

To any such petition the person charged with the offense or offenses may file an answer at any time before the day of hearing thereon fixed by the court

Section 4 After consideration of the petition and answer and hearing the testimony of the District Attorney and the defendant the court shall make such order allowing or dismissing the petition of the District Attorney as to it appears just and proper

Section 5 From any decision of the court allowing the petition of the District Attorney the defendant may appeal to the Supreme or Superior Court as in other cases

Section 6 This act shall apply to all pending prosecutions where a bill of indictment has been returned ignoramus but in such cases the petition to re-submit the bill of indictment may be presented at any time within thirty days from the effective date of this act and not thereafter

Section 7 This act shall become effective immediately upon final enactment

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Atkins.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. ATKINS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HOMER S. BROWN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Armstrong if he would agree to place this bill on the postponed calendar.

Mr. ATKINS. Mr. Speaker, I had intended to ask for a vote on the bill; it has been discussed in committee for the past three weeks, but not wishing to try to put anything over until it is thoroughly understood by the members, I have no objections to putting it on the postponed calendar.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL POSTPONED

Mr. ATKINS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

The motion was agreed to.

RESOLUTION NO. 38.

Mr. BURNS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up resolution No. 38, Printer's No. 93.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organization, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, it gives me pleasure as one of the sponsors of this resolution to speak for just a few seconds on it.

Let me say in the beginning that this resolution is non-political and non-sectarian. It was born of a desire to perpetuate in the State of Pennsylvania the spirit of Americanism which is so sorely needed in our land today.

Seven years ago a group of men headed by that great fighter for all things American, Sergeant James Smith, then Commander of Lafayette Post No. 51 of the American Legion, decided that the proper way to show Americanism was to stage a demonstration on May first, that date being chosen because of its significance in Europe as a day set aside for celebrations of those principles which are contrary to our American way of thinking.

On May 1, 1932, Fayette County's first Americanization Day was held. Twenty-five thousand persons marched in the parade, made up of School children, Veterans Organizations, Labor Organizations, in fact, every walk of life in the County was represented. In the five celebrations that have followed, the demonstration has grown until last year 75,000 persons took part and four State Commanders of the American Legion have participated in the celebration.

In passing this resolution you not only make Fayette County's answer to Communism and Nazism the great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania's answer to the "ism", but you also pay tribute to those heroes who have unselfishly devoted their lives to keeping our Democratic form of government free of alien influences, the same heroes who, when our nation and democracy was on the threshold of oblivion, offered their lives on the battlefield, and whose only desire is not self perpetuation, but only to make America a better place in which to enjoy life, liberty and the pursuits of happiness.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman who sponsored this resolution, Mr. Tarr.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. TARR. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the sponsor of this resolution if it is in his intention that this day be made into one of the long chain of holidays on which the banks will be closed and the people cannot go into the stores and that sort of thing.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from McKean, I might say that if it is necessary to close the banks in the Commonwealth in order to show our spirit of Americanism, I will be very glad to have that happen.

Mr. KANE. Back of May first, which has come to be a day of radical demonstrations over in Europe, there is an old American tradition about May Day that has nothing to do with "isms" or anything of that kind either Americanism or Fascism or any of the rest of that stuff. I think possibly it would have been better if it had been American Day rather than Americanism Day.

I want to call to the attention of the House the fact that we do have holidays, one of which, if you please, happens to be my birthday, for which I am glad, because all I have to do is look on the calendar to see when it comes; it also helps my wife and some other people too to remember my birthday. We also have Flag Day, which is a holiday that one of our patriotic organizations has sponsored. We have Independence Day in the middle of the summer, and we have sundry other occasions that we celebrate locally. We have a celebration at Gettysburg, as you know. Not very long ago quite a lot of our members here in the House voted in favor of giving preference to veterans with regard to public employment.

Speaking facetiously that applied to the Democratic office holders as well as the Republicans, and it is to be assumed naturally that the Democrats will give preference to the veterans of their own party, just as they now give preference to members of their own party.

Speaking seriously, Mr. Speaker, I think this House ought to be a little bit careful about naming additional days holidays and labeling each and every day like some Spanish Fiesta.

We will have the whole country so tied down until it breaks its bonds, just as is happening in Spain today.

I think, Mr. Speaker, that the gentleman's sentiments are fine and I am glad to see this demonstration of the American spirit, but we have three days now on the calendar designated as holidays for this very purpose and it would seem to me both unnecessary and unreasonable. Besides, if I may say so, Mr. Speaker, since May day has been brought forward as a day of labor demonstrations, not necessarily radical labor demonstrations, to put on the streets perhaps on the same day some rival parades of organizations that are sometimes patriotic and sometimes not so patriotic, it might lead to just unnecessary turmoil of the population.

In conclusion, Mr. Speaker, I don't think this House should set another day aside as we have three days on the calendar now for this specific purpose.

Mr. HUNTLEY. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I would favor this day if it were any other day but May first. May first is a day that is hallowed by many other organizations for social, and other purposes. It looks to me as if this tradition ought to be observed and become a part of our traditional history. I favor most any motion, resolution or act that is sponsored by the American Legion. I think they deserve consideration from the American people, I respect their name, but I think the date ought to be changed. I favor the day, but I don't favor it on May first.

Mr. TARR. Mr. Speaker, in answer to what my colleague has just said concerning the day, I might say that coming from a section of the country where labor demonstrations are held, such demonstrations are not held in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to any great extent on May first, but the date is just a week from now, April first.

I think that May first is the day which our showing of Americanism should be made, since that is the day that is set aside for those affairs which we know to be un-American.

May I say further that Mr. Smith, the Commander of the American Legion of Pennsylvania last year commended the day and Major Isherwood commended the day at the last Americanism celebration two years ago. Mr. Kress, the past State Commander of the American Legion, commended the day.

This resolution, for the information of the members of the House, does not set up a holiday but merely urges the observance of the day as Americanism day. The resolution was introduced in the Senate on the thirteenth of March and passed unanimously.

Mr. GATES. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I think it would be much more fitting if this resolution made some other day of the year American Day, but not a legal holiday.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, in view of the very adequate explanation of the sponsor, that this does not constitute a holiday, if it meets with the approval of the people down in his county and with the majority of the patriotic organizations, I, without changing my personal view that we have an adequate number of days set aside for this purpose, if it doesn't commit the Commonwealth to anything, if it doesn't adjourn the Legislature, I withdraw my objection.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

RESOLUTION NO. 13.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 13, Printer's No. 131, on page 24 of today's calendar.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 6, 1939.

Whereas, The former Secretary of Health, Dr. Edith MacBride Dexter, repeatedly stated that the grounds at the Cresson Sanatorium were so undermined that it was not deemed advisable to construct any more heavy buildings on that location; and

Whereas, Competent engineering authority has questioned the technical accuracy of the statements made by the former Secretary of Health; and

Whereas, Cresson State Sanatorium property presents a valuable location which should not be in danger; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Mines is requested to make an examination and furnish the House of Representatives, within thirty days, with the following information:

1. To what extent has the coal underlying the Cresson State Sanatorium grounds been removed.

2. Has the removal of coal endangered any of the buildings which comprise the sanatorium plant?

3. Is it true that it would be unsafe to construct any additional heavy buildings on any of the sites now available at the Cresson State Sanatorium?

4. Should the Commonwealth, in order to insure the safety of the Cresson Sanatorium plant and place it in a position where it would be capable of future development, purchase, in whole or in part, any of the coal seams underlying the property?

RESOLUTION NO. 42.

Mr. HALL. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 42, Printer's No. 127, on page 24 of today's calendar.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 20, 1939.

Whereas, on June 5, 1937, the General Assembly appropriated approximately $5,000,000 for flood control and clothed the Department of Forests and Waters with broad authority in the use of this money; and

Whereas, almost two years have lapsed and no substantial progress has been made in flood control; and

Whereas, almost $2,000,000 of this fund is reported to have been spent or committed; and

Whereas, there is a sincere public interest in the subject of flood control and an equally sincere interest in the proper use of money appropriated for such an important purpose; and

Whereas, it is reported that there is a conflict between the State and the Federal Government with respect to impounding reservoirs now being built and to be built; and

Whereas, a recent change in the Federal Flood Control Act is reported to have a serious effect on the basic interest of this Commonwealth; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives request of the Secretary of Forests and Waters a comprehensive report on the condition of the Flood Control funds, of the accomplishments with the fund, expenditures and commitments thereunder, of the use of the funds, of the effect of the operation of the amended Federal Flood Control Act on Pennsylvania's present and future interests, and of such other related matters as will afford useful information on Flood Control; and be it further

Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be certified by the Chief Clerk and transmitted to the Secretary of Forests and Waters.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. HOLLAND. Mr. Speaker and members of the House I suppose that I should lead the cheering section for Resolution Number 42 introduced by Mr. Hall, but I certainly appreciate the fact that they got as close to my name as they possibly could: if they had added "and", no one would have known the difference.

This resolution does try to give a back clap at the former Secretary of Forests and Waters, but I have no doubt that he can give a good account of his activities on Flood Control, and I feel assured that the present Secretary of Forests and Waters will be greatly enlightened on a subject he has shown by his utterance he knows very little of.

I am also very glad to know that the majority now admits that there is a sincere public interest on the subject of Flood Control. This Resolution practically asks for the policy of this Administration on Flood Control. That is all I have been asking for since the Governor and the Secretary of Forest and Waters tried to make a political football out of the question. I do hope, however, that the Secretary of Forest and Waters shall give to this House the true story of the war existing between the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the Federal Government, and the results of his conferences at Washington and I might add he should give something regarding the opposition given by the Utilities who are interested in selling electrical energy as well as the water companies who have been fearful that these reservoirs might be used as a new water supply for municipalities. However, I should be thankful to the Republican majority for at least heeding to the wisdom of my request that this House should know the true story of Flood Control. So I'll be satisfied to go into the back door and get this information since the Republican party denied me the entrance by the front door.

Mr. DENMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Holland.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Allegheny permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. HOLLAND. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DENMAN. Mr. Speaker, does the gentleman from Allegheny know that yesterday in downtown Pittsburgh a twenty-four foot main burst and flooded the downtown streets of Pittsburgh, and that the cause of it was laid to the flood of 1936?

Mr. HOLLAND. I do, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I suppose there will be some more water mains burst if it gets out that Holland and I agree on something. I think it would be a good idea if Mr. Holland would become a co-sponsor to the resolution, which would make it Hall and Holland.

I do not wish to indulge in repartee with my good friend from Allegheny. I am certainly interested in flood control.

I do wish to add this, however, that the resolution of my colleague from Potter County is not intended in any sense to close the doors on anyone but on the contrary to open the front door and the back door. The last administration closed the front door to this administration and to the members of the House.

I would urge upon the Chairman of the Forestry Committee and the sponsor of this measure to ask the Department not to send over here on the last day an engineering report on the conditions of flood control, but to get right down to brass tacks and tell us what they expect to do.

In that connection I would like to tell a little story. I have a couple of little daughters, as you probably know, and the other day I said to the junior member that I would give her the choice of a five dollar bill and a nickel. She looked at the two of them a little while, and she pointed her finger and said, "I want the nickel." I said, "What made you select that?" She said, "because a nickel is the only money that a little girl can spend."

I would like to see a report that will be a real report that the Legislature can understand and take action on.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Mr. WOODSIDE offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted by a rising vote:

In the House of Representatives, March 23, 1939.

It has been said that in all this cold and hollow world there is no fount of deep, strong deathless love, save that within a mother's heart.

A Member of this House has just been definitely and finally separated from all that such love can mean.

Suddenly and unexpectedly, Mrs. Rosie Habbyslaw, the devoted mother of the Honorable William E. Habbyslaw, a Member of this House, passed into that bourne from which no traveler returns, her last dreamless sleep.

We realize fully the great depth of sorrow that is his, the sense of loss that cannot be stilled, and the loneliness that means emptiness.

A widow for more than ten years, her life has been spent with, and her love has been given to, the five children who survive her.

She has been an active member of the Stoverdale United Brethren Church and Sunday School for the past twenty-five years; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that we, its Members, extend our deep and sincere sympathy to our fellow Member during this, his hour of bereavement and sorrow, and direct the Chief Clerk of the House to transmit to him a copy of this resolution.

The SPEAKER. I notice that a number of the members are about to leave and the Chair would like to call the attention of the members to the fact that on Monday night Senator Davis and Senator Guffey will be here to deliver their messages on the state of the Nation as required by the resolutions of the House. Under the circumstances it is quite possible that the session will not start promptly at eight o'clock. It may also be possible that because of the crowd special arrangements will have to be made for the people who desire to attend. Therefore the Chair trusts that the members will be patient with whatever arrangements will be made. A communication has been sent to the Senate and the Senate will undoubtedly attend the session on Monday night. Under the circumstances, on account of the time that will be taken up on Monday night, due to the presence of Senator Davis and Senator Guffey, it is not expected that we will make very much progress with the calendar, and as we will have a heavy calendar next week, the House will sit up to Thursday of next week.

SENATE

MONDAY, March 27, 1939.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O God, full of loving kindness and tenderest mercy, forgive our sins and iniquities this day; and in their stead implant that peace which alone proceedeth from Thee. There is also-called peace which the world offers which is truly not Thy peace nor does it bear its semblance but has its origin and satisfaction in the carnality of the flesh and which perishes with the using. Let not one of us be deluded by this unprofitable substitute.

Holy Writ tells us, "What is a man profited if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" "Or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?"

Thus may we be vitally and personally concerned with the spiritual security of the real man who dwells within us. May we evermore be determined to write the annals of our own history in Thy holy fear guarding our every thought, word and deed as we daily write. May we be more desirous of recording wholesome thought, good deeds and obedient hearts for Thee in the great ledger of life than in the Legislative Journal of this body.

Endue us now with Thy spirit of brotherhood that we may labor here to Thy glory. For the Master's sake, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. HEYBURN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

BILL RECOMMENDED

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 262, (House Bill No. 199), the bill just read, be recommended to the Committee on Education, for the purpose of a public hearing tomorrow morning, March 28th, at 10:30.

Mr. SCARLETT. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a particular question of personal privilege, which will take about two minutes.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I have told on the floor of this Senate a few facts relating to the recent outrageous order of the Milk Control Board in Pennsylvania, approved by the Governor of Pennsylvania, which is simply driving the farmers of my district to despair and which is also very seriously affecting the merchants. In Butler county alone that outrageous order takes $240,000 a month from the income of the farmers.

Now, to the point. Mr. President, the farmers back there are in despair. Last Wednesday evening I received the following telegram from the Milk Producers Association of Butler county: 'Committee will be in Harrisburg tomorrow morning like to meet you at the Penn-Harris Hotel.'

I met with this committee at the Penn-Harris Hotel the next morning, and they told me they arranged for an audience with the Milk Control Board, and then with the Governor.

I accompanied them to the Milk Control Board, where we had a conference for ten or fifteen minutes in which, after a great deal of prodding, the Chairman of the Milk Control Board told all of us that we farmers of the western county could not expect any revocation or even modification of that outrageous order until July.

Well, as soon as the farmers were through at the Milk Control Board they proceeded to the Governor's office. However, I left the conference at the Milk Control Board before it was over, and as soon as I received the bad news that we could expect no revocation or modification of that order until July—I came up ahead of the farmers to do a little work at my desk, and then went to the Governor's office.

I went over to the Governor's office. I was informed by the lady receptionist that the farmers had already gone in to see the Governor. I gave her my name, she wrote it down; she told me she would take it in to the Governor's secretary.

After three or four minutes of waiting the secretary came out and solemnly informed me that I could not see the Governor. Bear in mind I told the lady receptionist the purpose of my mission, that I was here with people from my own district, representing the people of my own district, and had been pleading their cause at a conference at the Milk Control Board, but the secretary came out and calmly informed me I could not go in, that the conference was already in session. I sent him back into the Governor's office with the reminder that I was here with my farmers, with people from my district, pleading their cause, not only before the Milk Control Board but also before the Governor; and in went the secretary again and after about three or four minutes emerged another time with the information that I—a Senator elected by the people from the Armstrong-Butler district—could not get into that conference.

I sent him back again the third time and a third time he returned to me with the same news.

Now, Mr. President, knowing it would not be polite for me to batter down the door of the Governor's office, even when on a mission for the people of my district, for hundreds who were in despair, I remained in the Governor's reception room until the farmers came out. They looked at me with surprised looks, and then I explained to them why I had not been permitted to come into the hearing before the Governor, but the Governor's secretary—his flunky, he should be called—kept shuffling back and forth between me and the Governor's office and each time emerging with the information that I could not get in there with the people of my district.

Pretty low treatment, Mr. President, I dare say that for the last generation no Senator of Pennsylvania, elected by the people of Pennsylvania, ever got such a raw deal from a Governor of this state.

I don't take it to heart personally—not at all—but it is a reflection and pretty much of a slap in the face of the people of my district, the farmers of my district, but they told me, when I went back home that they were not surprised, that they knew this Governor who gave them a smack in the face, had been loafing on his job for ten months and drawing down, for that loafing, as much of the taxpayers money as would pay for several pretty average farms. They said they were not surprised, and I want to make it plain I am not hurt.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, last week the Governor of this Commonwealth suggested to me that it would be his pleasure to have the Democratic Senators meet him at luncheon at the Penn-Harris Hotel for the purpose of meeting the Senators and proving to them that, while we might quarrel legislatively and politically, still, socially, we could meet and break bread, and that invitation was accepted.

You have just heard the statement of the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, and as a result of that information being brought to the members of the Senate when we had our caucus this evening, I was directed to address a letter to the Governor which I should like to read.

March 27, 1939.

Honorable Arthur H. James, Executive Department,
Harrisburg, Pa.

Your Excellency:

The Democratic Senators, in caucus this evening, have directed me to advise you that they must withdraw their acceptance of your invitation to meet with you at luncheon tomorrow.

I am further directed to inform you that this action has been taken solely because of your refusal to admit to your office the gentleman from Armstrong, Senator C. Hale Sipe, when he appeared with a group of his constituents to discuss matters vitally affecting his district and the Commonwealth.

This action, so inconsistent with what we originally believed to be a gesture of friendship toward the Democratic members of the Senate, is an affront to one of our colleagues which the Senators feel they cannot ignore.

Respectfully yours,

HARRY SHAPIRO.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. Walter Evans Deibler, offered the following prayer:

Thou, O God, hast called us again to assume the duties of a new week. Once more we humbly bow before Thee and confess our dependence upon Thee. Sorrow and tragedy stalk in our pathways day by day. We know not at what hour these shall overtake us. Thou art the God of individuals as well as of the multitudes. Thou art our refuge and strength in all our troubles. We humbly pray for Thy healing grace, to rest upon the son of Representative and Mrs. Woodside. Give unto them and to all parents and children Thy divine help in the name of Him who said "suffer the little children to come unto Me."

May the significance of the events of this evening's session be duly recognized by all of us. We thank Thee for the important part Pennsylvania has always taken in the work of our National government. For the forty-five men of our Commonwealth who have been members of the Senate of the United States during the last century and a half, we thank Thee. For the presence here tonight of our honored Senators, we praise Thee and invoke Thy blessing upon them in their present mission as well as in their duties in Washington. May our interests be unselfish and our motives pure. May the needs of our country inspire every lawmaker with a sense of Thy divine presence so that only the best legislation may be enacted.

"America! America! God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brother-hood,
From sea to shining sea." Amen.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 74, entitled:

An Act to amend section two hundred and seventy-eight of the act approved the second day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine (Pamphlet Laws 1278) entitled "An act relating to counties of the second third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes and revising amending and consolidating the laws relating thereto" as amended providing for the appointment the term and compensation of county detectives in counties of the fifth class

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendments at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendments will be read by the Clerk for information.

The Clerk read the amendments as follows:

Amend title, page 1, line 1 of title, by inserting after the word "seventy-eight" the following: "and to repeal section two hundred and eighty"

Amend title, page 1, last line of title, by inserting after the word "fifth" the following: "and sixth"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 278), page 2, line 3, by inserting after the word "Fifth" the following: "and Sixth"

Amend Sec. 1 (Sec. 278), page 2, line 15, by inserting after the word "fifth" the following: "and sixth"

Amend bill, page 3, by inserting between lines 7 and 8 the following section: "Section 2. Section two hundred and eighty of said act, and its amendments are hereby repealed."

Amend Sec. 2, page 3, line 8, by striking out the figure: "2" and inserting in lieu thereof: "3"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments at this time? Is there objection?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, when this bill was up before I asked the sponsor of the bill if he would consent to have the bill go over and he said he would. I have here amendments which are agreeable to the sponsor of the bill

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, reserving my right to object, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from McKean permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. KANE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, whether the amendments as presently drawn would not allow the courts of Quarter Sessions to set the salaries of county detectives of counties of the sixth class.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I believe the opposite is the case. This bill would permit the Courts to set the salaries.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand from the gentleman that his amendments will now permit the Courts of Quarter Sessions to set the salaries of county detectives in counties of the sixth class?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, that is my belief and that is the request I made of the Legislative Reference Bureau in drawing the amendments.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, did I understand that the Chair was inquiring whether or not members of the House would unanimously agree to the insertion of the amendments?

The SPEAKER. The Chair inquired whether the House would give its unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendments.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I have no objection to the immediate consideration of the amendments. However, I wish to oppose the amendments when presented to the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, and members of the House, I am exceedingly loathe to take up the time of the House on this important occasion. If anyone feels that this is in any way a surprise matter I shall be glad to have the bill go over if anybody makes such a request. What my amendment does in brief is to extend to counties of the sixth class the privileges which are extended by this bill to counties of the fifth class. It happens in my own county, for example, which is one of the smaller counties of the sixth class, that we have an exceptionally capable county detective, to whom we are unable to pay the salary to which he is entitled. In addition to that, there seems to be some question of jurisdiction over county detectives as to whether or not they are under the district attorney, under whom they technically serve or whether they are under the judges.

This bill provides that the judges may set the salaries at such figure as they deem advisable, but the county detective is in fact under the control of the district attorney, out of whose office he works. It seems perfectly proper to me that if the provisions of this bill are correct for a county of the fifth class, they are also correct for a county of the sixth class, and I would ask the members of the House to sustain this amendment.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the gentleman from McKean has adequately stated the problem involved. I do not think it is correct for a county of the fifth class, nor do I think it is correct for a county of the sixth class to force the judiciary into a position whereby they have to indulge in an activity outside the purposes of their office. The more power that we place upon the judiciary, that are extra-judicial, brings the judiciary into the political arena. Appointments that are conferred upon the judiciary have had such a result, and by extending to the judiciary the power to set salaries this bill would continue to do the same thing. I feel that the security of the people of this Commonwealth rests in the judiciary, and the judiciary should in no way be affected by political exigencies. To place the judiciary in a position whereby it must set the salaries of county detectives is an opening wedge whereby the judiciary will set the salaries of other officers, and impose upon the judiciary activities that were not in contemplation when the judiciary was established by the Constitution. I think it is bad law to enact this bill and I will oppose it when it comes up for enactment for fifth class counties. I think it is bad law insofar as this amendment is concerned, which attempts to impose extra-judicial activities upon the judiciary.

I ask the membership of this House, irrespective of the fact that in McKean County there is a very diligent county detective who is not being adequately paid, to vote against this amendment. I would suggest to the gentleman from McKean that he devise some other method or means whereby the county commissioners would be empowered to increase his salary commensurate with his ability. I do not think we are solving the problem by imposing that particular activity upon the judiciary, and for that reason, I voice my opposition to this amendment.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I believe that the gentleman from York will agree that this problem is identical in all counties, and if he agrees that the bill has merit my amendment has equal merit.

His argument goes not to the amendment, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, but to the entire bill. All I ask in this amendment is that the privilege extended by this act to fifth class counties shall also be extended to my class of counties, that is, the sixth class. I therefore ask the members of the House to permit the insertion of the amendments because I believe that the gentleman from York and I are entirely in accord that if it is fair for one county, it is fair for the other, and we might as well vote on the issue as to both classes of counties at one and the same time.

As to the merit of the whole bill, I would say this: I do not know of anyone who is in a better position to know at any particular time the necessity for a good county detective than the judge of Quarter Sessions, before whom criminals are tried and I certainly know of no better person to direct the activities of the county detective than the district attorney who must go into court prepared with the evidence that the county detective brings to him.

May I also say, Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there can be no greater economy in government than having good men and quickly removing bad ones.

I ask the House to support the amendment for the reason that it gives to our county the privileges which the counties of the sixth class seek.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the amendments?

The SPEAKER declares the "noes" appeared to have it.

Whereupon, a division was called for, one hundred nineteen members having voted in the affirmative and twenty-seven in the negative, the question was determined in the affirmative and the amendments were agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agreed to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 24, entitled:

HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, MARCH 28, 1939.

No. 30.

SENATE

TUESDAY, March 28, 1939.

The Senate met at 2:00 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. BURLEIGH A. PETERS, offered the following prayer:

O Thou Great Divine Creator, we have begun another day's journey in our pilgrimage of this life. This is one day nearer our heavenly home. It is Thy day; may we be glad and rejoice in it.

We rejoice because of the stewardship Thou gavest us to perform this day and we are glad because Thou givest us the ability and strength to accomplish it. We are glad because we are alive and healthful and can praise Thy wondrous works to others even from one generation to another.

Give us grace to assume our responsibilities as Senators in this honorable body, but may we ever be mindful that we are creatures of Thine, always accountable to Thee while we are Senators.

Grant us the upward look from the heights of divinity that we may receive the inspiration to serve humanity. This is our life's mission to accomplish e'er we see the sunset of this life's little day. Strength us to this desired end, Thou Gracious Nazarene, in whose name we pray. Amen.

DISCUSSION CONCERNING SENATE BILL NO. 134

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, I have here a statement reciting the objections of Senators Stiefel, DiSilvestro and myself, to Senate Bill No. 134, which was passed last week, which we would like to have spread on the record.

Mr. President, at the outset, we want to make it clear that we have no intention of speaking for the alien who has been in this country long enough to know the advantages of American citizenship which he has thoroughly enjoyed without seeking to become a citizen, but we strenuously object to those features of that bill which immediately brands the newly-landed immigrant as a criminal, despite the fact that he cannot become a citizen however good his intentions until he has lived here a certain number of years, as regulated by statute. In so far as it says that that type of alien is, in effect, a potential criminal, it is, in our minds, a very dangerous bill and sets a bad precedent. We might go so far as to say it is an unequal law, and it follows that all unequal laws are un-American.

If we had been present on Wednesday, March 15th, we would have voted against the bill compelling registration of aliens—Senate Bill No. 134—in our minds, it is a very dangerous bill and sets a bad precedent.

The Americans are the first people whom God has favored with an opportunity of deliberating upon and choosing the forms of government under which they should live. Ordinarily people become welded into nations after centuries of inter-breeding—Similarity in race, religion, or geographic position account for their national existence. A new nation is forced into being only by violent military or economic necessity.

Today, however, we in America, exist as a nation, though as a people we are unrelated in racial origin, drawn from every corner of the earth, profess every known religious creed and live beyond mere economic necessity. We exist as a nation without any of the ordinary ties required to bind people together as a nation. A resolute purpose forms the solitary corner of our national structure. The common belief in the "equal rights of man" was our one reason for our becoming a separate nation. The preservation of these equal rights is the single purpose of our continuance as a nation. America's purpose is part of the very laws of nature, a persistent truth, struggling for recognition by man. Much before the signing of the Declaration of Independence immigrants came to our shores to be free from religious persecution—escape political tyranny and finally to obtain economic equality, and the persistent devotion to these objectives gained ultimate success and accounted for a new people known as American.

In 1776, America's purpose was written for the first time into human laws—it was the primary legislation of our new nation. Our Declaration of Independence definitely stated that "all men are created equal". Abraham Lincoln, in one of his greatest addresses expressed his understanding of the DECLARATION that "all men are created equal".

The question now is, "Have we advanced in our purpose?" Time will not permit us to discuss this question at the present time. But one thing, we must keep uppermost in our minds—equality of men—. Blood and treasures were sacrificed on its account. Are we now to deviate from our purpose? Are we now to abandon it?

It is an easy matter for us who are safe and secure to pass laws affecting the rights of people who are less safe and secure, but before passing unequal laws, let us consider the fact that we Americans are all immigrants. Not one of us is really native in any profound sense. Everybody in the United States, except the Indians, is now or was once, foreign born.

We find it ridiculous to hear a man whose great-grandfather came to this country look down on a man who comes in now, and "call him alien". For what is a hundred or two hundred years in the life of a nation? The nation is and will be for centuries to come made up of foreign born, that is, people from all countries. And looking at all these people, we discover in them all the diversities of the world, in race, in culture, in religion. Everyone knows what his own country was, even though he came over on the Mayflower.

Mr. President, when we cease to allow people to come in from all over the world, we shall ourselves begin to die, as other nations are dying. New people coming to a new country, bring new impetus in themselves. They are a fresh infusion, uncomfortable perhaps, and even painful, but they are life. We cannot do without them. It is too soon to close our doors. It may always be too soon to close them. Statistics show that those we call our foreign born are among our best.

Crime is less among them, than among the native born.

We demand to know what we shall do now, in our momentary situation with aliens, as we call them, in our jobs, on our relief rolls, and sending good American money out of the country.

We should like, as Americans, to think of America as forever the land to which the restless and the bold, the brilliant and the good out of every people, could come and make their home. We are not fearful of such people starving or starving others by their presence, for they create jobs.

We see these aliens first as human beings, and we observe that many, indeed most of them, are honest and industrious, or as honest and industrious as the upstarts who dare, in this early date in our history, to call themselves the Americans, although personally they lend themselves and encourage all forms of "isms". We need honesty and industry. No nation can have too many people with these qualities. We cannot see why they should not be relieved when they starve—why they should not obtain employment in order to live.

We cannot get excited over the differences. There are hatreds—to us, they are foolish and stupid. It is ridiculous to hate a man because he is different, and the fault is in our education which has not made us enough above the beast to see this. For though men hate each other when they come here, they should be taught as the basis for American citizenship, that here we may differ each from the other, and that diversity is our strength and nature, and that each man is to believe what he feels true, and our one common belief is this—diversity is our safety; our country is based upon diversity of race, and upon freedom of belief, and this is our chief claim to being unique and great.

America, from the very out-set, has had her beginning in all peoples, and her strength is drawn from all peoples and her future. America is still in its infancy—only one hundred and sixty years old approximately. We are still making America. There is no final America yet, for America must continue to grow and grow for the benefit of all mankind. The aliens have stood side by side with us contributing to the progress and welfare of our society —and fought shoulder to shoulder with us in times of adversity—aliens in this country fought against their own flesh and blood for the sake of America and despite his achievements, we are now ready to single him out, register him as an alien, as we today do with criminals—in fact this bill, if it becomes law, will make him a criminal, and anyone dealing with him a criminal in case of any violation thereof—is this Americanism? To us this bill is unconstitutional and certainly un-American. We would hardly expect our parents or grandparents to register as aliens when they first came to this country. We do not question the integrity of the sponsor of this bill, for we truly believe that he is an American in every sense of the word, but we doubt very much as to whether or not he appreciated its significance. Very often, under the guise of Americanism great harm has been done to individuals. Again, we repeat, this is an unequal law. America has always stood for equality of man, and equal laws for the protection of all.

This bill, in our minds is directed at the minorities, and serves no useful purpose, excepting to brand and label these minorities at every turn and in every quarter as aliens.

Finally, may we reiterate that this bill is a very dangerous one, and certainly conflicts with the government regulation and control of immigrants. The Department of Labor, under the present laws, has the right to adopt rules and regulations governing the conduct of immigrants, and this bill certainly conflicts with the national laws.

AMERICANISM DAY TO BE OBSERVED MAY FIRST

He also presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of Government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be suspended and the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection,

The Chair hears none.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution,

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

By unanimous consent,

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, in the case of the Carbon County nomination, am I correct in understanding that that is caused by the death of the Recorder of Deeds, and that the appointee just mentioned is the widow of the former Registrar of Deeds?

Mr. EALY. Br. President, I so understood.

Whereupon,

A motion was made by Mr. EDMONDS and Mr. MALLERY.

That the Senate do advise and consent to said nominations.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

RESOLUTION URGING USE OF LAMINATED GLASS IN CONSTRUCTION OF ALL MOTOR VEHICLES

Mr. DENT offered the following resolution which was twice read as follows:

Whereas, The use of ordinary glass in passenger vehicles has from past experience proven to be unsafe and responsible for many deaths and serious injuries in motor accidents, and

Whereas, Glass manufacturers have developed a type of glass made by laminating two or more pieces of glass into one transparent sheet and

Whereas, This type of glass has been commonly designated as safety glass and is used exclusively in the windshields of passenger vehicles because of its safety features and

Whereas, There has been put on the market a new type of glass variously called tempered or hardened glass and

Whereas, This type of glass is being used to some extent in passenger vehicles as a safety glass and

Whereas, After exhaustive tests has proven to be unsafe for such use and

Whereas, The use of this type of glass will cause the recurrence of the hazards to the traveling public so common before the introduction of the laminated safety glass, be it hereby resolved and

It is Resolved, That the Bureau of Standards and Safety in this Commonwealth be instructed to forbid the use of any glass other than laminated safety glass in the construction of motor vehicles used in the intra-state traffic of this Commonwealth and

Be It Further Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the Department of Highways, the Bureau of Standards and that the manufacturers of motor vehicles sold in this commonwealth be notified of its contents.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Rule 39, which requires resolutions be referred to an appropriate committee, be dispensed with and the Senate proceed to the consideration of the foregoing resolution.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection?

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I object.

The Chair hears objection.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I am in favor of this resolution and will vote to suspend the rule, because this resolution has for its ultimate purpose the protection of an industry that is confined mainly to the counties of Westmoreland, Washington, and Fayette, as this laminated glass is manufactured in plants in those three counties, and the manufacturers employ a considerable number of residents of this State. This resolution, as I understand it, will give some protection to those industries.

It is not an enactment but is merely a resolution to direct the Bureau of Standards to take that into consideration and see if they cannot protect those industries and not permit artificial glass or composition or hard glass to come into this State and take the place of the laminated glass.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I may be very much in favor of this resolution when I know what it is and when I understand what it means, but it does seem to me it is asking too much to ask us to vote on it here immediately without it having proper consideration. There are some of us here who could hardly hear the contents of the resolution, let alone being able now to vote as to the wisdom of the resolution.

Mr. OWLETT. Mr. President, I want to make clear that my objection to the immediate consideration of this resolution was not because I have any idea one way or another as to the merits of the resolution. I know nothing about it.

However, it seems to me, as Senator Ealy has pointed out, that this is a resolution we ought to have studied by a committee; it may be a very proper resolution. I assume it should go to the Highway Committee for consideration, and I assume that a few days delay will not be very serious.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, in a way I agree with the Senator from Tioga, and the Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy. The resolution does involve a subject that is important, and probably it is asking this Senate to vote hastily on the resolution without some consideration. If the proponent of the resolution will withdraw his motion I, as seconder of the motion, will gladly withdraw my second.

Mr. DENT. Mr. President, I do not want to be hostile or act arbitrarily with this question, and since I have at least brought it before the Senate and have had an expression of interest from the other side, I probably can withdraw my motion to set aside rule thirty-nine, with the hope, anyway, that it will be considered in time. I was fearful it would go to a committee and there become something like Heinz pickles. Those gentlemen of the committee who are going to consider it, to them I say this is a very important resolution. If the committee so desires, I can bring to this Senate, or to the committee, glass for a demonstration so that they themselves can see exactly what I am driving at.

The reason we do not leave it to the department, without some suggestion, and some idea about how we feel about this particular subject, is that I have already advanced information that they permitted the use of this particular glass, which is more dangerous than the ordinary window glass which was used prior to the days of the discovery of the so called laminated safety glass.

MOTION TO SUSPEND RULE 39 WITHDRAWN

Mr. DENT. One of the largest factories in the entire world is in my home town, manufacturing laminated glass. I am interested, therefore, and would like to have this committee, if they so desire, get in touch with me before we adjourn this week, in order that I may bring to them practical proof of my contention that no other glass manufactured today in America is safe for the use in automobiles and passenger vehicles.

I, therefore, withdraw my motion for immediate consideration.

The PRESIDENT. The motion to suspend rule 39 is withdrawn, and the resolution is referred to the committee on highways.

MEMORIALIZING CONGRESS RELATIVE TO ANTHRACITE COAL REGIONS.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to offer a resolution at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objections? The Chair hears none.

Mr. MUNDY offered the following resolution which was twice read:

In the Senate of Pennsylvania, March 28, 1939.

Whereas, the Members of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania are keenly aware of the sad plight of thousands of families residing in the anthracite coal region of Pennsylvania; and

Whereas, it is their belief that the State and Federal Government should rehabilitate and revitalize the anthracite coal industry which has helped make this Commonwealth great, and thereby relieve the distress of many anthracite miners and their families; and

Whereas, the Members of the General Assembly are appreciative of the fact that rehabilitation of the anthracite coal industry will not only provide sustenance for many destitute families, but will generally revive all of industrial and agricultural Pennsylvania, therefore be it

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania memorialize the Congress of the United States to enact legislation, if necessary, to recreate gainful employment in the anthracite coal fields; and be it further

Resolved, That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania study the anthracite coal problem for the purpose of enacting legislation which will relieve a distressful situation.

Which was referred to Committee on Mines and Mining.

COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY GENERAL TO HOLD PUBLIC HEARING.

Mr. MALLERY offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered, and agreed to:

In the Senate, March 28, 1939.

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania grant permission to the Committee on Judiciary General to use the Senate Chamber for a Public Hearing on Tuesday, March 28, 1939, at 8 P. M.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Washington, Mr. Reed, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, before we start consideration of the Calendar, I understand that the Senator from Armstrong four and one half hours ago started for the Democratic Caucus in the Keystone Building, but he never reached there, and now word comes that he has been kidnapped, and I would like the President to direct the Sergeant-at-Arms to make diligent search for him.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

Mr. WALKER. Mr. President, may I suggest that the best place to look for the Senator from Armstrong would be in the office of the Governor?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, that is the last place I would suggest.

Mr. GELDER. Mr. President, from information I have recently received, perhaps the Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, would not be able to get to the House of Representatives so as to be able to get over there.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill no 108, (House Bill No. 26), entitled:

An act to amend section three of the act approved the twenty-seventh day of April one thousand nine hundred and twenty-seven (P. L. 465) entitled "An act to provide for the safety of person employed housed or assembled in certain buildings and structures not in cities of the first class second class and second class A by requiring certain construction and ways of egress, equipment and maintenance providing for the licensing of projectionists requiring the submission of plans for examination and approval providing for the promulgation of rules and regulations for the enforcement of this act providing for the enforcement of this act by the Department of Labor and Industry and in certain cases by the chiefs of fire departments in cities of the third class providing penalties for violations of the provisions of this act and repealing acts" as amended eliminating the requirement that certain buildings shall be equipped with certain equipment in connection with gas meters to prevent or retard the escape of gas.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,
On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. RUTH. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate, I am rising in opposition to this bill, and a little history may be necessary. In the 1937 session we passed what was known as Act 349, requiring automatic manual apparatus to be attached to public houses where people congregated, where gas enters, for the safety of firemen in case of fire.

In that bill discretion was left to the Department of Labor and Industry to designate the types of buildings, and that was where a mistake was made. Classifications were drawn out so far it has begun to look as though we are taking in every building where only one or two people are gathered. That was not the intention of the bill.

Then the public utilities, in the form of gas companies, got an injunction and had a hearing before the Dauphin County court, where decision is pending today.

Now there is great apprehension on the part of those utilities that the decision will be in favor of the act, that the court will declare the act constitutional and in order to avoid that they are trying to rush through this session a law repealing that act. What should have been done was that that act should have been amended to specifically designate the buildings. What should be done today is that this bill be recommitted to a committee and kept there until the court has had an opportunity to hand down its decision. Otherwise, if we cannot recommit the bill and wait for the court decision, we ought to defeat the bill.

This bill was passed for the benefit of the volunteer firemen; they are risking their lives. Remember, this bill does not refer to first and second class cities, where you have paid firemen. They need protection, too, but we are particularly interested in the volunteer firemen who are giving their all, in most instances, for nothing.

We have many records, instances on record, where catastrophies were caused by gas explosion and fires, where, if we had had these shut-off valves the firemen could have turned the gas off before they entered the building and lives could have been saved.

The argument put up by the proponents of this bill, to repeal the act is economy, that people will stop using gas because they have to put these shut-off valves in the buildings. It is not an economy cry. These are the facts. New York State, where they have had this law since 1921, in buildings where these shut-off valves have been attached, they have had a one percent reduction in the insurance premium rate, and in one building alone, with the largest shut-off valve ever used, costing a little over two hundred dollars, they were reduced a little over six hundred dollars a year in fire insurance premiums. In other buildings, where smaller valves have been installed, the fire insurance reduction has amounted to as high as ninety dollars a year.

It has been said they appeared to make a racket by boosting prices. I have information from the Firemen's Association that these valves are priced according to the size, whether they are one-half inch, one inch, or up to two-and a half inches or four inches, and naturally, the larger the pipe entering into the building, the larger the valve that will be necessary, but the average valve costs from thirty-five to fifty dollars.

The measure is absolutely needed for protection of the public and the volunteer firemen who risk their lives, and if we repeal this act we are taking their protection away. The proper thing to do would be to send this bill back to committee and hold it there until the court has rendered a decision; if the court is satisfied, that act No. 349 is unconstitutional we do not need to act. If the court decides it is constitutional the bill can be brought out and worked out on its merit.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I think there is a further objection to the bill which shows that there should be a little more time taken on this bill, and that it ought to go back to committee, because this bill attempts to amend an act of 1927, and this was passed in 1937.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I think that the greatest objection to this bill comes from third class cities which do not have volunteer firemen, and the objection has arisen from the cost of these appliances. I have found, in the city of Erie, that installations which should not have cost over fifteen dollars have been insisted upon at a cost of $119. I have also found that there has been a very active pressure brought to bear to require the installation of these valves prior to the time set forth in the act.

I do not believe that it is proper for anybody to take advantage of an act designed for the protection of health and safety to this extent. If this is a good measure then

I think we ought to know wherein it is good, and if it is not, we ought to know wherein it is bad, and what the abuse of this act has been.

I was chairman of the committee which reported this bill out in the 1937 session, and it was specifically represented to that committee at that time that the cost of this installation would be reasonable, and it would not operate as a racket.

I have what I think amounts to evidence which satisfies my mind without a shadow of doubt, that in the City of Erie a racket has been developed based upon this bill.

Now, we have one of two alternatives; either recommit this bill or put it upon the postponed calendar, or, second, let these people, the volunteer firemen and other organizations of firemen in the State have presented to them, before a committee or at a general hearing, those facts, and if this measure is good and necessary it can be amended in such a way as to eliminate the racket. Therefore I think in fairness to these two positions the best we can do at the present time is either put the bill on the postponed calendar or to recommit it.

I think the Senate ought to understand we have just as much duty to prevent a racket as we have to develop or protect the safety of the people of our Commonwealth, and that is a serious responsibility. I for one, do not want to be a party to fraud perpetrated by somebody in the guise of safety; neither do I want to deny to someone who is entitled to it safety, particularly in the Fire Department.

BILLS POSTPONED

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I move that the question together with the further consideration of the bill be postponed for the present.

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I second the motion. The motion was agreed to.

Mr. DISILVESTRO. Mr. President, I suggest that the Senator from Philadelphia add to his motion that the bill be placed on the postponed calendar pending investigation of the bill, and that a conference be held with both parties concerning the bill. I suggest that that be placed in the motion.

The PRESIDENT. Does the seconder of the motion accept the amendment?

Mr. MALLERY. Mr. President, I do.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

Mr. HOMSHER. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of Senate Bill No. 138 on third reading be postponed for the present.

An Act authorizing counties cities boroughs townships of the first and second class and school districts to issue and sell bonds for certain purposes and for a certain period of time providing for a trust fund and a sinking fund for the payment thereof and defining the duties of the officers and governing bodies of the said municipalities or quasi municipalities in relation to said funds and fixing a penalty for the violation thereof.

be postponed for the present.

Mr. THOMAS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 170, entitled:

A Joint Resolution proposing an amendment to Article nine section eight of the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, not so long ago there were only fifteen Republican Senators in this chamber, and every Monday night we would assemble in parlor A at the Penn-Harris Hotel, and have a survivors' dinner—I must say the dinners were better then than those we are getting now.

The calendar sometimes would be subjected to our scrutiny, sometimes not; it did not make very much difference—we knew that the bills were slated by the immense Democratic majority and that they would be passed. We thought most of them would be declared unconstitutional by the courts later.

Our dinners, therefore, became a very agreeable series of social meetings and we were all bound together very closely by our misfortune. In the absence of any real business we used to play parlor games. We had a game called "Information, please." A sample question would be "In your opinion, who is the worst Democrat on the Democratic sides?" Then, we would take a secret ballot and the vote would be scattered. We then took another ballot, and the favorite question would be, "which is the worst Earle tax?" There the vote would be unanimously in favor of the worst tax being the personal property tax. That never deviated every Monday night.

The story then was that Governor Earle, when not up in the air, depended a great deal on Harry Kalodner, who kept both feet on the ground—now Judge Kalodner; that Governor Earle was faced with an emergency, like President Roosevelt with a crisis—you may have noted we have had a series of crises in the last six years in Washington, and we have had a series of emergencies in Harrisburg during the Earle administration. I do not like the phraseology—perhaps Governor James can change that, but the story then was that Governor Earle thought that the personal property tax yielded a lot of money, and so he asked Harry Kalodner about it, and Harry Kalodner said, "Well, Governor, it is a capital levy." Governor Earle, not being very conversant with tax phraseology, thought that Judge Kalodner meant "capital" in the sense of admirable or excellent or fine, and, therefore, Governor Earle took his pen and he said, "Now, we are getting so many millions at four mills; if multiplied by two you would get twice as many, and it would be twice as good a tax as you had before," and, therefore, he had enacted by the Assembly a bill jacking the tax up to eight mills, which, as I have said before, in terms of income tax amounts to 20%.

Now, when Governor James came along, he was declaring for an economic administration, but he did not even take up a pen, he took up a worn pencil—without an eraser, I am afraid, because he was not going to rub anything out. He said, "If we accept the $163,000,000 emergency taxes it will give me more time to interview Senators, even Democratic Senators, in my office, and I do not have to worry about taxes, we will have $163,000,000, of which $139,000,000 are dedicated to relief—that will not be enough, but we will have another meeting later.”

Now, last evening we had a very pleasant dinner, that was slightly interrupted by Senator Davis. I sat next to Senator Davis and learned all about Washington gossip; I know just exactly about the third term, and who is to be the Democratic nominee and who is to be the Republican nominee. Then, the Senator, naturally was called on, and he made an excellent speech; and I was so well satisfied with his speech I did not come to the Capitol at all last night to hear the formal speech. It was a very, very unpleasant evening, as you may remember, but I went to the Senate Theatre and saw a very excellent movie that I can recommend to anybody, called “A Love Affair.”

Now, that is only introductory. This joint resolution I shall explain in as few words as possible. Under the existing section of the Constitution the City of Philadelphia may not create or incur indebtedness in excess of 10% of the assessed value of taxable property at the time the debt is created. In the case of other counties the limitation is 7%.

An amendment to the debt section of the constitution is now pending having passed a first time at the Session of 1937, Resolution No. 6B, page 2881. If it is repassed a second time in 1939 it may be submitted to the voters that year. This amendment proposes to change the constitution base for the measuring of the debt of local government from “assessed value of taxable property” to the “average annual assessed value of taxable realty” for the nine years immediately preceding the time any debt is incurred or increased.

The following calculation shows that, as to Philadelphia, the amendment works on the principles that presently the personal property valuation equals one-third of the total value of the taxable property.

Presume the total assessed value of taxable property to be $90,000,000 made up of $60,000,000 in realty value and $30,000,000 in personalty. With a ten percent (10%) borrowing power, $9,000,000 could be borrowed on this $90,000,000 valuation. Let us now eliminate the $30,000,000 personalty and base the borrowing power against the $60,000,000 in realty value. What must the percentage be to raise $9,000,000? The answer is fifteen (15%) percent the figure found in the pending amendment.

The phrase “assessed value of taxable property” includes all assessments made for county, and, in Philadelphia for city purposes. In Philadelphia there are but two assessments which constitute the value of taxable property, i.e. the realty valuation and the personal property valuation. In other counties a third assessment is included, i.e. the valuation of trades, occupation and professions. The inclusion of all these elements is well settled by court decision and practice.

In Philadelphia and in some other counties the personal property valuation constitutes a material part of the total assessed value of taxable property.

Persons familiar with, or feeling the burden of, this tax on personal property are agreed that this form of capital levy is unsound, and they are looking for the day when both the county and State personal property taxes may be repealed and an income tax be substituted. I understand everybody wants an income tax except a few reactionaries.

But to repeal this county personal property tax means that the total “assessed value of the taxable property” will be materially reduced, and that as a consequence the borrowing power of counties and of the City of Philadelphia will be correspondingly curtailed.

The retention in the constitution of this phrase “assessed value of taxable property” will delay the enactment of an income tax or hinder its successful operation when the Constitution is finally amended to make the adoption of such a tax possible. It is inconceivable that we shall repeat the attempt of 1935 to levy an income tax on top of a four (4) mill county and four (4) mill State capital levy on personal property. Such a course can only result in a further flight of capital from Pennsylvania.

And talking about a flight of capital, I feel strongly on the subject because I had one of the DuPont family as a tenant of mine and also I had a member of the Proctor and Gamble family as another tenant, and when this eight mills tax came along they both crossed the Brandywine into Delaware, wrapped the personal property tax in cellophane and opened an account in the Wilmington Trust Company. They moved, and many other people moved also.

This resolution I am discussing opens two doors, it enables us to repeal the personal property tax, and it opens the door to a graduated income tax, and I might as well say that here, I suppose, that you cannot repeal the personal property tax until you have divorced it from realty as a base for borrowing, and that is what this resolution does.

An amendment to the debt section of the constitution is now pending, having passed the first time in 1937—that is this bill.

Now, the bill, I admit is difficult in some of its features to understand, perhaps, and the public has to be educated. I have made a very haphazard defense of the bill, but when I sit down I hope my friend, the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Edmonds, will get up and say a few words more, because if we want a graduated income tax we cannot have it unless you pass this bill and get rid of the tie-up as a borrowing base of personal property with real estate. That is the big thing in the resolution.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. president, for the information of the Senate, what the Senator means is that this bill increases the borrowing capacity of the City of Philadelphia from 10% to 15%, in order to make up for the loss it would incur by virtue of the fact they have taken out borrowing capacity the right to include in it the personal property tax.

I am very much interested in what the Senator has said, because we passed this act last session, and as it must go before the people I suppose the people of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania will vote on this question, and I am very much interested in some of his statements made in the preamble by the Senator from Philadelphia. For instance, he says he thinks one of the vicious taxes adopted by the Earle administration was the personal property tax, and he thinks the Governor of Pennsylvania—the then Governor of Pennsylvania—must have used a pencil without an eraser.

I should like to call his attention, as well as the attention of my colleagues on this side, to the fact that the present Governor is employing this same vicious practice by not only passing some vicious acts, but he is also using the same pencil without a rubber. It may have been that when Harry Kalodner left that office he left the pencil there—this is one of the things he did not take with him.

So far as the bill itself is concerned, I propose to vote for it, because I think in matters of this kind the people should have the right to pass on the question, it is still finally up to them.

I think the Senate of Pennsylvania would be a serious and quiet group, minding their own business, and watching bills carefully, and having no fun at all, if it were not for the presence of the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I thank the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I know that for many years—at least for those years I have been in the Senate—the Doctor has been continuously offering this same proposition in the form of a constitutional amendment, and he has never been able to even get it by his Republican colleagues—even in the meetings he had in the Penn-Harris Hotel last year—and the disagreement among his colleagues has extended to the passage of this bill.

He used to say, whenever the bill came up, "I am going to talk on this because I know once I talk on it I am going to be defeated on it."

The last time, the Democratic Senators did not take him seriously and did not defeat the bill, and I hope this time they do not take him seriously again, and pass the bill. I do not want him to take this too much to heart—I think it is closer than he has ever had it before, and I am quite sure if we do not pass this bill the amiable Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, will not come back again and we will not have the pleasure of listening on many occasions to his facetious and interesting remarks. I join with him and urge the members of this Senate to keep him in good humor and give him an opportunity on this personal property tax, so that it can go before the people of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, so that they may vote it down at the next election, as they usually do on constitutional amendments.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward how the passage of this resolution will affect the tax on real estate; whether it will leave it as it is, whether it will cause a rise in real estate taxes or whether it will cause a lowering of real estate taxes?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I realize real estate men must get along, but, to answer the interrogation of the Senator from Washington, there really are two answers. There has been a shrinkage of a billion dollars in the assessed value in real estate values in Philadelphia, the assessed values are way down. The other answer is that we simply, we cannot remove the personal property partner in this hook-up for borrowing without bridging the gap somehow, and that is the only way I know of for bridging it.

I regret to say that this figure is fifteen per cent. I am frank enough to say that I tried to change it to 12½% and Mr. Edmonds said it should be 14%; but you cannot change anything, you know, when you are passing it the second time; you cannot change anything. They have changed it once or twice in the printer's office and this is the second bill I have put in; the first bill was mutilated so much—I must have an enemy over there—but somehow they left out the whole last paragraph.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, getting back to the question, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, whether in his opinion this will increase the tax on real estate.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, in my opinion, it will not, sir.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I wish to correct a misunderstanding on this bill. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, has said that the Democratic Session of 1937 passed this resolution, notwithstanding any discourse by Senator Woodward. This resolution passed the 1937 session because, either fortunately or unfortunately, I found myself chairman of the Committee on Constitutional Changes and after some discussion of this resolution it was determined that it was a very meritorious proposition and that it should pass the 1937 Assembly, and the Journal of this Senate will show that when the resolution came up and it was assailed by a few members of the Senate that I rose in defense of it, and explained just what this resolution meant.

Now, as in the last session, there appears in this session to be a misunderstanding of the contents of this resolution. This resolution, if adopted by the public, will not in any way affect taxation. This resolution deals merely with the rule that fixes the amount of borrowing power of a municipality. It does not in any way at all affect taxation but merely establishes a rule by which a municipality fixes the amount of its borrowing power and nothing else.

We determined in the 1937 Committee on Constitutional Changes that it was a very good thing to fix this basis on something that was more substantial than the fluctuating value of personal estates.

One year the assessed value of personal property was way up to the heavens and the next year it was way down and the borrowing power of the municipality fluctuated enormously. In order to establish a more stable basis, if this resolution is adopted by this Senate and the people adopt it, it will fix the basis for the computation of the borrowing power that will be more substantial than under the old rule.

This resolution requires the municipality to take its assessed valuation on real estate for period of nine years and take the average, and upon that average then is the borrowing power predicated.

I think it is a very wise proposition and I trust that this Senate will adopt this resolution and that the people, in their wisdom, see fit to adopt it at the next general election.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, unfortunately, the history of the Senate of Pennsylvania is not written yet, but when a future historian begins to work on the history he will state that the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, was a grand old man who tried to rejuvenate the Constitution of Pennsylvania.

I am very pessimistic about amending the Constitution of Pennsylvania, because all amendments are voted on at a general election, when the people are engrossed in the election of candidates, and in the heat of their political activities they forget the vital question of amending some of the provisions of our Constitution.

For example, the city-consolidation act, which passed so many hurdles, was defeated because it came up during a general election and did not command the attention of the people.

Unless and until the Constitution of Pennsylvania will be so amended as to provide for a special election on the constitutional amendment by the people of Pennsylvania, there will be no hope that public attention will become centered upon a vital amendment to the Constitution. For that reason, in my opinion, any proposal to amend the Constitution of Pennsylvania is useless, and for that reason I am going to vote against this resolution.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Fayette, Mr. Cavalcante, if this resolution will increase the borrowing power of municipalities?

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, it will not.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. President, I want to pay my tribute to the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, for having steered a consistent course on this subject of taxation for the past fifteen or eighteen years. He has always been in favor of a personal income tax provided he could get rid of the personal property tax, and I think the reason why the income tax provision has been defeated by the people of Pennsylvania several times was because they doubted whether they would get rid of the personal property tax.

Now, in 1923, there was a legislative commission appointed for the purpose of revising the taxing laws of this State, and in their final report, in 1927, they recommended precisely this amendment. They had in mind the situation the Senator from Fayette has described.

Let us say there is a man who lives in a city with taxable personal property amounting to a million dollars. On that a loan of ten percent, or a hundred thousand dollars can be contracted and then, after the loan has been contracted, the man can move out of the county and take his personal property with him and he leaves a debt of a hundred thousand dollars which is then a debt on the realty or so much assessed property as there may be in the county. That seems like a very foolish method of basing a debt.

Debts ought to be based on values that are fixed and permanent. It was for that reason that the tax commission in 1927 made its recommendation that the basis be shifted from realty and personalty into realty alone; and because certain communities had already followed the personalty end of it, it was necessary that the realty be increased so as to cover the existing debt.

Let us take, for instance, the City of Philadelphia which is not the community I represent, but a community very much in our hearts and minds. There is, at the present time, $2,500,000,000 of real estate and about $1,000,000,000 personalty. That means a debt base of $350,000,000. As a matter of fact, the debt is slightly more than that. If you subtract what is in the sinking fund, I imagine the debt is about $375,000,000.

Now, if you take away the personalty part of it you will have to increase the ratio on realty, and that is what the Senator proposes in this amendment.

One of the reasons that I am in favor of it is not merely because it is a reasonable plan—to my mind it is the first step for working out permanently some of the tax problems in this Commonwealth.

If this amendment passes it leaves the way open for an income tax amendment which will provide that if there is a tax on incomes from securities there shall be, then, no tax on the capital value of the securities, which would have the effect of making the income tax replace the personal property tax.

What, then, is going to become of the counties? To meet the question raised by Senator Reed, what is going to become of the counties who will lose their county tax on personal property? A portion of the income tax will have to be returned to the counties, in order to make up for their loss of income.

The recommendation of the tax commission was that one-third of the tax be returned to the counties, which would give the counties more than they would get from the personal property tax, and to that extent it would relieve realty.

All of this is part of a plan, and you cannot take any of the steps of that plan until you take the first step, and the first step is involved in this amendment.

It therefore seems to me it would be proper legislation to vote for the amendment, and I shall vote for it with pleasure.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I am going to vote for the bill this time, although I voted against the bill the last time; and I vote for it, knowing full well that there is a likelihood that the tax on real estate will be increased by the adoption of this amendment.

This amendment is necessary for a city like Philadelphia, because Philadelphia real estate assessed values have been reduced in the last ten years from $3,400,000,000 to $2,500,000,000, and a result of that, we are at present over-borrowed on the basis of the Constitutional provision, even if we take from the present debt the amount in the sinking fund.

If this bill should be passed and adopted it would mean that the borrowing capacity of the city of Philadelphia would be increased, because there is an outstanding obligation of $540,000,000 in Philadelphia, and a reserve or sinking fund of $120,000,000, which leaves $420,000,000 as a net borrowing capacity today.

Under this bill a net borrowing capacity would be $475,000,000. It would be 15 per cent of $350,000,000. It is not true, as the Senator from Philadelphia says, that the people of Philadelphia do not pass these Constitutional amendments because they do not pay any attention to them, but the truth is that the city-county consolidation provision that was voted on last year was defeated because people who had no interest in the matter at all, the Senators from upstate, came to Philadelphia, and helped to defeat the bill, which concerned Philadelphia only.

The income tax, in my opinion, was defeated last year because the Republican party fought it, and was against it. The income tax bill would have been passed if the Republican party had not fought it. Now, in Philadelphia and other counties, particularly our school districts—and that is why I am for this bill now—our school districts are limited in borrowing capacity, and by various subterfuges they are attempting to increase it.

Today I understood Senator Mallery the Senator from Blair, introduced a bill which would enable school districts to issue bonds upon moneys that they had spent out of current income for the past ten years, for capital investment.

In other words, when these school districts in many counties had a surplus of income, instead of reducing taxes they proceeded to use that money to construct a building. And now that they are short of money they want to take advantage of the amount they spent and issue bonds.

In fact, in Johnstown that was done some years ago. That was done without the aid of the bill introduced by the Senator from Blair. Some attorney in Johnstown went to the bankers and told them in his opinion that could be done, and that is the way it was done. In Philadelphia the school district requires aid, and the city requires aid, because Philadelphia has not made a permanent improvement of any value for at least fifteen years. Philadelphia has a substructure, which carries the water pipe and carries the sewage system, that is in danger of breaking down any day. There have been no real substantial repairs to that substructure under the street for fifteen years and any day you may read that something has happened to the whole system; and that can only be corrected by a permanent improvement which will require millions of dollars. Philadelphia needs a water system badly; it will require $80,000,000 at the lowest estimate to build, and if we pass this amendment, and if our borrowing capacity can be increased, and if proceeds to pay off that borrowing capacity in a proper way, by an annual tax to cover sinking fund—sufficient to return not over a period of fifty years, but by serial bonds to require a certain proportion every year that will require an increase in real estate taxes, but any man who has a sense of business will be tickled to death to pay that increase in taxes when you know it is going to permanently improve the city and bring business back to a high level and attract business in Philadelphia and in every other city.

We do not attract business to Philadelphia because we have nothing to attract it. We have no improvements, we have holes in the ground as subways which can only be used occasionally when a sewer breaks and carries the water off, instead of it going into the cellar, and that is a saving of a few thousand dollars, but that is no comparison with the millions of dollars spent on those subways without any entrances or exits to them.

I think it is important that we have this discussion on this bill now, because the time will come in a general election, when this will come up for action and your constituents will be asking you as to what should be their attitude, and what your attitude is; and I think we should all understand about this bill so that there cannot be any misunderstanding or misstatements later, because it is these misunderstandings and misstatements that defeat proper business management of a community; and there should be an understanding about this bill—that this bill is going eventually to allow a greater borrowing capacity, and it is going to allow a more stable borrowing capacity, because it will prevent municipalities from trying to spend the money simply because real estate assessments have increased.

In Philadelphia we take an assessment—I think it is over a period of three to five years—we take a situation where we have a high market, a high real estate assessment, and then we have a high borrowing capacity, and then when the market goes down we have a low one and a low borrowing capacity; but this bill spreads it over a period of eight or nine years—nine years—nine years are taken because it is believed by those who have suggested it that that reflects the high and the low fluctuation in real estate over that period, therefore it is going to make a stable borrowing capacity or a stable basis for borrowing capacity for that reason.

Secondly, while increasing the borrowing capacity, it will aid permanent improvements not only Philadelphia but in every county in the state that now needs improvements to make it worthwhile to live in—water systems, sewer systems, all these demands important to health can be met under this bill, and I urge every one to vote for this bill and have it in mind it will be their duty to see to it that this bill passes finally before the people in the next election.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. REED. Mr. President, is it the understanding of the Senator from Philadelphia that the passage of this resolution will empower a municipality to increase its indebtedness?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President passage of this resolution will, in some counties, enable them to increase their indebtedness. In Philadelphia, particularly, we need the passage of this resolution, and the passage or adoption of this resolution by the people will enable Philadelphia to increase its borrowing capacity, because, as I have pointed out, the present borrowing capacity is $428,000,000, and this will give Philadelphia a borrowing capacity of $475,000,000, at least, on its present assessed real estate valuation, which is $2,500,000,000 and its personal property assessment, which amounts in the neighborhood of $990,000,000.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I should like to further interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia permit himself to be further interrogated?

Mr. SHAPIRO. I will, Mr. President.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, will the increase cause an increase in real estate taxation?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, not at all.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I think that we ought not to be hasty in this matter; it is a serious matter. I cannot agree with the entire proposition as is stated by the Senator from Philadelphia, Senator Shapiro. The statistics of this Commonwealth show that the taxable assessment valuation has been in this proportion: about forty per cent on real estate and sixty per cent is personal property; but in the assessment of taxes real estate has always borne from seventy-five to eight-five per cent of the tax burden, while personal property has borne the burden of from fifteen to twenty-five per cent.

When the borrowing power has been based upon personal property and real estate, and the personal property has gone out of the municipality, the burden of paying the indebtedness has fallen upon real estate all the time. It is a natural sequence that, if the personal property goes out of the municipality, that then the payment of that indebtedness must come from taxation on real estate.

If this particular resolution is adopted the personal estate is not made tax free or tax exempt, but it is merely excluded as in the computation of the basis of the borrowing power, and if today in Philadelphia the taxable assessed valuation on real estate and personal property is in the ratio of forty-five per cent real estate and fifty-five per cent on personal property, the adoption of this resolution will not in any way affect the taxation on real estate, nor will it in any way increase the borrowing power of the City of Philadelphia.

I do not know the ratio in the City of Philadelphia between the assessed valuation of personal property and real estate, but I assume that in Philadelphia the ratio is the same as it is in other parts of the State; that the personal property assessed valuation is much higher than the real estate assessed valuation. If you consider those two and take the City of Philadelphia and eliminate the personal property assessed valuation and take the assessed valuation on real estate for the past nine years, and then get the average, and multiply that by fifteen per cent, you will find that the borrowing capacity of the City of Philadelphia will not be increased at all. If anything, it will be reduced. Then, if the borrowing power is based on real estate, if the personal property goes out of the community, still the taxes on the real estate will remain constant, because borrowing power is more constant, and we ought not to believe here that this amendment will remove personal property from the taxable list.

It will be removed from the computation of the borrowing power but personal property will still remain subject to taxation, to pay the loans on that which has been borrowed by the municipality. I believe this is a good resolution and it ought to be adopted by men who are sound and who believe in sound government.

CHANGE OF VOTES

Mr. JASPAN. Mr. President, having voted under a misapprehension, I desire to change my vote from No to Aye.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the Senator from Philadelphia will be so recorded.

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, because I believe this question will be decided at a special election and that then the people will be in a position to decide this question, I desire to change my vote from No to Aye.

The PRESIDENT. The vote of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Stiefel, will be so recorded.

QUESTION OF PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of parliamentary inquiry.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia will state his point of parliamentary inquiry?

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I would like to inquire whether a member may change his vote on a bill the day following the vote.

The PRESIDENT. He may not.

And the question recurring.

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

A majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 199, entitled:

An Act authorizing the courts of common pleas to make orders relative to the payment of costs in road cases

And said bill having been read at length the third time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do not know how this affects the other counties, but in Allegheny County when a condemnation case or a damage case comes over to the Common Pleas Court costs are left dangling, and it is necessary for an attorney to prepare a petition to the court to fix the costs. All this bill does is to grant the court authority to fix costs without petition from the attorney.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of the bill.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Pittsburgh, Mr. McGinnis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I did not hear the explanation offered by the Senator from Pittsburgh just now, but as I understand it under the present law, in condemnation cases, if the land owner takes an appeal from the Board of Viewers and the verdict of the jury is less than the award the man who appeals does not get costs. Does the Senator from Allegheny understand that to be the law?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I think that is correct.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I would like to inquire what is the real purpose of this act.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, the Prothonotary is worried about the costs that are dangling there, and an attorney must go in with a petition to the court in order to get the costs. I think that is entirely unnecessary but the courts require it in our county.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, what will be the effect of this bill, that is what I desire to ask the Senator from Pittsburgh.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, in any case that is before the Common Pleas Court, the court will determine what is to be done with the costs.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I desire to ask the Senator from Pittsburgh, in cases where the verdict of a jury is less than the award, whether the court will order the county to pay the costs?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I do not think it changes the distribution of costs at all in any respect. It merely relieves the attorney of the trouble of preparing a petition.

Mr. EALY. It seem to me, Mr. President, that it would be better to provide for reduction of costs, if that already is not the law.

Mr. CAVALCANTE. Mr. President, I would like to qualify some of the statements made in regard to this bill. The difficulty this bill is trying to correct is this: after a verdict has been rendered a jury does not fix the amount of costs in any case, of course, but in the ordinary case the costs are fixed, you know what the witness fee is, you know what the mileage is, you know what the items of costs are, but in condemnation proceedings you sometimes bring in witnesses of a certain character and other matters of costs enter into the case, and if the Prothonotary cannot fix the costs he does not know how much costs must be charged for a particular item. In order to clarify that situation, this bill has been introduced, so that the court, without the necessity of a Prothonotary's petition asking the court to fix the costs in a particular item or items—the court may do that without a petition of the Prothonotary. The costs are fixed and every party involved knows what the costs are.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill, the Senator from Pittsburgh, Mr. McGinnis.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Pittsburgh, Mr. McGinnis, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, I would like to inquire of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. McGinnis, whether this bill will apply to cases where the verdict of the jury is greater than the award of the viewers.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, I think the court can decide what is to be done with a case of that kind according to law.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I would like to inquire how such cases are handled at the present time in the County of Pittsburgh.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, the attorney goes into court with a petition, a petition to the court, asking the court to assess or fix costs, and the court does it.

Mr. REED. Mr. President, in my county in cases of that kind the costs follow the verdict; they never have had any trouble about costs.

Mr. McGINNIS. Mr. President, perhaps that is true in Washington County, but it is not true in Allegheny County.

And the question recurring,
Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?
It was agreed to.
On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?
The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Erie, Mr. Gilson, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, after a very serious conference with the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Walker, I am compelled to suggest that the Senate consider favorably the invitation of the Senator from Philadelphia, Dr. Woodward, to participate in a dinner to celebrate the eighteen years of tireless effort and the successful consummation of his heart's desire, in the passage of the resolution amending the Constitution.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, do I understand I am being invited to dinner or that I am inviting the gentlemen to dinner?

Mr. GILSON. Mr. President, in response to the interrogation of the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, in order that there will not be any misunderstanding about it, the thought is that the Senate accept the invitation of the Senator from Philadelphia.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I would be very happy indeed, at a future date—Flag Day or the first of May.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I am constrained to ask that this bill go over until Monday night. This bill is known as the anti-macing bill. Last night I asked that it go over for a continuance in order that I might be in a position to prepare the necessary amendments, but the situation is so complicated it will require more time to prepare the necessary amendments.

This anti-macing bill reminds me of the Barmacedean Feast mentioned in the Arabian Nights. You will recall that Barmacedes celebrated an imaginary feast at which the guests were treated to empty dishes. During the weekend I will attempt to get some amendments to fill the dishes, and present something tangible.

BILL OVER IN ORDER

Mr. STIEFEL. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that Senate Bill No. 111, (House Bill No. 92) on second reading, entitled:

God of our fathers we approach Thee this day with renewed hope in Thy eternal vigilance and continue our prayer for Thy guidance in all human relationships in general and in the affairs of this House in particular. Open our eyes that we may see Thy way. Un-stop our ears that we may hear Thy commands. Loosen our tongues that we may speak Thy will.

"Lord, while for all mankind we pray,
Of ev'ry clime and coast,
Oh, hear us for our native land,
The land we love the most.

"Oh, guard our shores from ev'ry foe,
With peace our borders bless,
Our cities with prosperity,
Our fields with plenteousness.

"Unite us in the sacred love
Of knowledge, truth, and Thee;
And let our hills and valleys shout
The songs of liberty."

Amen.

Resolved, That an electrical roll call system be installed by the Department of Property and Supplies in the chamber of the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania before the next session of the General Assembly, such system to be substantially of the same kind and character as that which has heretofore been installed in the Capitols of Virginia, Wisconsin, Louisiana, Nebraska, Iowa, Texas, California and West Virginia, all of which has adopted and installed an electrical roll call system; and be it further

Whereas, The State budget as submitted to this Legislature by His Excellency, the Governor, for the coming biennium would, if adopted, cut the State appropriation for unemployment relief to the extent of $77,000,000; and

Whereas, This proposed cut comes at a time when there is an increase in the number of applications for relief due to increased unemployment; therefore be it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania that open hearings be held by the Appropriation Committee of this House on the matter of the necessity for an increase in the appropriation for unemployment relief over that recommended by the Governor in his budget in order that the citizens of the Commonwealth shall have an opportunity to present their views.

By Messrs. CHECK and WEISS. RESOLUTION No. 56.

NAYS—0.

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 260, entitled:

An Act to protect the public health by prohibiting the re-use of containers for flowers or floral designs at funerals by those dealing in the sale of flowers and floral emblems and providing penalties.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, will the sponsor of this bill be good enough to explain to the House the benefits that will accrue to the people of the Commonwealth by its passage.

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker and ladies and gentlemen of the House, the purpose of this bill is to prevent florists from renting vessels, vases that are to be sent into the homes at the time of a funeral, later on brought back into their shops and sent into other homes, when they don't know from what disease or ailment the person died. It is strictly a health measure. Eighty percent of the florists in business now will not in anyway be restricted by this bill. They already comply with it, because when you purchase a basket or vessel or vase from them it is included in the purchase price of the flowers.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this bill.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Mercer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LYONS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman, do the chairs go back?

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker, florists have nothing to do with chairs.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, may I interrogate the gentleman who sponsored this bill?

The CHAIR. Will the gentleman from Mercer permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. LYONS. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman if it would not be a necessary sequence following the enactment of this bill that the cost of funerals would be increased, to some degree at least?

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker, I would say, no.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, the gentleman having answered my question I would like permission to speak against the bill.

Mr. Speaker, it is with considerable regret that I must continually oppose bills that are sponsored by friends of mine. I am certain that the gentleman probably has the best intentions in the world in presenting this bill, but I don't exactly see where public health is involved in this matter. As one of those who has had the unfortunate privilege of attending a good many funerals, I have seen the tremendous expense that has grown up, unnecessarily in my opinion, in connection therewith, and the entire estate of many families has been confiscated in the burying of their dead by those who took advantage of their distress in trying to sell them a lot of unnecessary things. I see no purpose in this Assembly enacting one more law that would increase the expense of one single nickel. If I may say so, Mr. Speaker, preventing the reuse of these devices which hold flowers, would certainly come in that category. If the containers can't be re-used, they must be destroyed, and if they are destroyed, Mr. Speaker, that costs money with the result that the cost of funerals would be increased. Therefore I must be against this bill for that reason.

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Kane, I would like to say that this does not increase in any way the cost of the funeral in any shape or form. The baskets, vessels or vases that are sent into the home at the time of a funeral are not always purchased by friends of the family. When I say that this is a health measure, I mean exactly what I say. It is a health measure, because I myself happen to be one of these florists who, under certain circumstances, is going to suffer under this bill. When I say suffer, I mean that, for the simple reason that after a funeral is over, in a lot of cases, you will find chiseling florists will go to the undertaker and have him gather up baskets, and vases at the cemetery and sell them to him for possibly a very small amount of money, bringing them back into his store and sending them into the homes of people who do not know where they came from or anything about them.

Now, the experience that I had just one year ago was the case of a party who died from meningitis. At that funeral there were seventy-two vessels, baskets and vases of different descriptions that went into that home. When those vessels and baskets were taken to the cemetery, the undertaker took them there, brought them back and sold them to a particular florist. I would like to ask any member of this House if he would like to have one of them sent into his home by the florist who purchased them from the undertaker. If that isn't a health measure I don't know what is, and that is all this bill intends to do, correct that evil. As I said before, eighty percent of the florists, in this particular industry will not stoop to this practice, and if you men back in your own communities will inquire into it you will find that what I am telling you is right. Thank you.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Mercer if it is not a fact that the bill does not in any way state that it is confined to funerals of people who died of contagious diseases or anything of that sort.

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker, the bill states all funerals—any baskets, vessels or vases sent into a home at the time of a funeral. In answer to the gentleman from McKean I would like to say that the florist is in no position to know what everybody in the county died from, what the disease was, therefore that is unnecessary.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman from Mercer whether or not the undertaker, on the other hand, is not in a position to know exactly what the person died from, and does he not take that into consideration in his arrangements?

Mr. LYONS. Does the gentleman mean that the florist gets into communication with the undertaker and inquires of him what the person died from, when the florist in many cases does not know who the undertaker is.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, that would seem to be only a reasonable precaution. However, I might say, Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will agree to amend the bill in such a way that it would only require this precaution in the case of funerals of persons with communicable diseases, I would be willing to go along with the bill.

Mr. LYONS. Mr. Speaker, in answer to the gentleman, I don't think it is necessary to have an amendment to this bill for the simple reason that if we amend it, it will only put another burden on the florist to try to find out at all times what everybody in a community died from, or from what disease they died. As I said before, there are less than twenty percent of the men connected with this industry that are not living up to this particular precaution in the way of health protection. I say there are only about fifteen percent of them that are chiselers, as we call them, and I ask the members of this House to vote for this bill in its original form.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker, I don't wish to take up too much of the time of the House on this bill. However, Mr. Speaker, it is the custom in my county which is away up in the woods, as you have frequently reminded me, Mr. Speaker, to sometimes take the flowers that were used at a funeral and send them container and all, to a local hospital. Now, Mr. Speaker, I don't believe it is going to hurt the people in the local hospitals because they are already suffering from many diseases.

Further I would suggest that there not only is a possibility of the florists getting in touch with the undertakers but they work hand in hand like a band of brothers. I think, Mr. Speaker, they know just exactly what a person died from, when they died and what flowers are prepared by members of the family.

I might say, that in my county, and this custom may be peculiar to the members of the House, the florists or the undertakers supplying the vases the wire frames and that sort of thing on which they make these displays have them marked with the name of the respective house, and if they were unable to get them back and re-use them, it would mean that the family in order to have flowers at the funeral would have to pay not only the cost of the flowers but the cost of the vases, the racks and the designs. Therefore, Mr. Speaker, I would ask the members of the House to vote against the bill, unless the gentleman cares to amend it.

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, undertakers in the county from which I hail have nothing to do with the resale of baskets or anything else. Once they are delivered to the cemetery they become the property of the cemetery, and the cemetery keeper disposes of them as he sees fit.

However, I want to agree with the sponsor of this bill that all chiselers, whether they are undertakers, florists or whatnot, should be legislated out of business and we should not condone the family's paying for something and then some chiseler going out to the cemetery, collecting and reselling them. If that is doing what Mr. Kane from McKean said, it is not going to increase the prices of flowers because the family doesn't get the benefit. The chiseling florist and the chiseling undertaker gets it. I think we ought to pass this bill in order that it will prohibit the sale of something that someone else paid for. I want to say that the undertakers in my district have nothing to do with the resale of any kind of floral designs, because when they deliver them to the cemetery they are not allowed to do anything with them. The undertakers in the state of Pennsylvania are in accord with this measure because they are against all forms of chiseling.

Shall the bill pass finally?

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I just wish to call to the attention of the House that this particular method of financing upon which we are about to vote was the device that was first enacted by the last Democratic administration. This method makes available immediately the revenue that will become available by the passage of certain acts.

At the time this bill was presented on the floor of the House, in 1935 and 1937, it met with the unqualified, vehement objection on the part of the minority, now the majority. I am glad to see that in the few months that have elapsed since November 8, the Republican majority have really read the contents of this act and are now espousing it as a part of their own program. I feel that this, along with a lot of other measures, is a sincere compliment to the ingenuity, to the integrity and to the ability of the past administration.

NAYS—0

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 312, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act approved the ninth day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (Special Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six Pamphlet Laws thirteen) entitled "An act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor as herein defined sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board providing for the collection and payment of such tax and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board" as previously reenacted and amended by extending the provisions thereof for a further limited period of time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

ADDRESS BY MR. ANDREWS

Mr. ANDREWS asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I rise first for the purpose of discussing the general features of the tax program which we are about to review, and also as a preliminary to making a motion to re-commit. I shall at this time say all that I have to say about the tax program.

I appreciate the position of both the minority and the majority parties at this present time. With the majority I will say that while I can "eat crow" I'll be darned if I like it. I also desire to remind the gentlemen of the majority party that in 1935 I stood upon this side of the House and said to my Democratic colleagues that the tax program then being enacted was in a number of respects fatally defective.

The first feature of this tax program is the fact that it is unbalanced. We are undertaking to pass a tax program without having at any time made an opportunity to ascertain the incidence of the taxes we are imposing.

Four years ago, gentlemen, it was impossible to ascertain the incidence of the new taxes. but I say to you that after four years of experience it is possible to ascertain upon what constituency a sales tax taxing cigarettes will fall, a sales tax taxing gasoline will fall, a sales tax taxing liquor will fall, and a sales tax on amusements will fall. No such effort has been made, and therefore I say, and I would remind the gentlemen of the press that if they will sharpen their pencils and do a little figuring, they will actually ascertain that the sales tax, the specialized sales tax, in this program will fall heavier upon the people of this state having an income of less than twelve hundred dollars than either a general sales tax or a flat income tax.

This program is out of balance because it imposes sixty-five million dollars in specialized sales taxes. Who pays the tax on gasoline; who pays the tax on cigarettes; who unfortunately pays the tax on liquor? The men of medium and moderate incomes.

I object to this tax program because there has been made no effort to ascertain the incidence of the twenty-three normal taxes, which are riding on the statute books. Now those twenty-three normal taxes have multiplicity; a situation that the majority party for four years has pledged itself to correct, on the theory that you as tax experts are saying that with these twenty-three normal taxes the burden has not been accurately distributed as between the various types of corporations which pay the taxes.

The most serious of these situations is the fact that these taxes, these special taxes and the normal taxes, finance a budget which is unbalanced in two respects. It is unbalanced insofar as relief is concerned, and I believe the administration has been wise in not balancing at this time estimated income as against uncertain needs for relief, but gentlemen, the school situation can be met. It is possible to ascertain the imperative needs of the public school system, and we suggest in the budget that two million five hundred thousand dollars will do that, and we know, at least those of us who have surveyed that problem, that two million five hundred thousand dollars will not meet the emergency needs of the school system of this State. When we have enacted this budget, when we have passed these emergency taxes, we have closed the door of hope upon the schools, and that is something to think about.

One finds other considerations. In this state unlike other states, the founders of the Constitution decreed that local government should be financed by imposing taxes upon real estate and that state government should be financed by imposing taxes upon corporations. Almost with the birth of the Constitution, the Legislature by mandatory enactment began imposing the local expenses of government upon real estate, and that burden upon real estate is a result of the mandatory enactments of this Legislature and has become insupportable because we are today ruining small business, but it isn't anything compared to the wreck and ruin that we find among the home owners of this state. They have been pledged and you have been pledged these last ten years that sometime you are going to do something to lighten the burden upon real estate. I say to you if you enact this emergency tax program as it stands at the present time you not only close the door of hope upon the schools but you close the door of hope upon all those who expected relief for real estate.

Now members of the House, it isn't any more the business of the minority party to help enact this particular tax program than it was the business of the minority party in 1935 and 1937 to enact its tax program. Gentlemen, you are the tax experts; you are the ones who campaigned successfully on the basis that this very program was filled with iniquity; you are the ones who made the pledges to the people that you would redraft and reframe the tax structure of this state. I say that nothing has been done to bring the normal corporation taxes into line; nothing has been done to improve the administration of any of these tax measures that have been passed. You are taking them raw; you are taking them as raw as the Legislature in 1935 took them, and certainly we should have gained some experience in that time.

Members of the House, I say that those who are interested in the welfare of the schools, and that those who have in mind doing something to relieve the burden on real estate, and those who have it in mind to observe the content of their campaign pledges owe it to themselves to have a club behind the door. I say if we enact all of this program at this time, those who want to do something for the schools, those who want to do something for real estate, are sunk, and you don't have anything with which to bargain.

Therefore, I am proposing, as a matter of sound practice, and because the measure in and of itself is objectionable, that House Bill No. 318, on page 12 of the calendar—

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, yield? The gentleman asked permission to address the House. Does the gentleman now desire to make a motion?

Mr. ANDREWS. Yes, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER. The remarks of the gentleman will be spread upon the Journal. The Chair now recognizes the gentleman from Cambria.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I move that House Bill No. 318, Printer's No. 145, on page 12 of the calendar, be recommitted to the Committee on Ways and Means for further study.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that the gentleman from Cambria is out of order. We were on House Bill No. 312; the bill had been read by the Clerk, at which point the gentleman from Cambria asked for unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker, I did my best to obtain recognition before the Chair called the bill. I also took pains to verbally inform the Chair of my desire, prior to the consideration of the tax program, to speak upon the tax program as a whole, and that I desired that my remarks be preliminary to a motion to re-commit.

The SPEAKER. If the gentleman from Cambria feels that he was not given an opportunity before this bill was read to make his preliminary remarks and to make his motion, unless there be objection the Chair will withdraw its decision with reference to House Bill No. 312 and take up House Bill No. 318 in order to permit the gentleman from Cambria to make his motion to re-commit House Bill Number 318. The Chair hears none and House Bill No. 312 is withdrawn. We will now proceed to the consideration of House Bill No. 318.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 318, entitled:

"An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act approved the twenty-second day of June one thousand nine hundred thirty-five (Pamphlet Laws four hundred fourteen) entitled "An act to provide revenue for State purposes imposing taxes upon certain classes of personal property providing for the assessment collection and lien of the same and the distribution of the proceeds thereof imposing duties on executors administrators registers of wills recorders of deeds prothonotaries and court clerks and on persons copartnerships associations banks national banks trust companies and other corporations receiving deposits of money and on certain corporations and limited partnerships conferring powers and imposing duties on certain State officers and departments imposing penalties and making an appropriation" as previously reenacted and amended by eliminating ground rents from list of taxable personal property providing for the apportionment in certain cases of the taxes imposed by the act defining clarifying and limiting certain exemptions and continuing the State personal property tax for a further limited period of time.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ANDREWS. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I move that this bill be re-committed to the Committee on Ways and Means for further study. I ask for a roll call.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the Chair is now ruling that the motion made by the gentleman from Cambria is in order?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I wish to speak on the motion.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will proceed.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask the members of the House to vote down the motion to recommit the bill to the Committee on Ways and Means. It has had long and careful consideration there and it is now before the House for its consideration.

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Andrews and Mr. Achterman.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, do I understand that the bill now before the House is Bill Number 318, Printer's Number 145?

The SPEAKER. That is correct.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the sponsor of this measure.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Montgomery permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WINNER. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Delaware, Mr. Bretherick.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, prior to indulging in the interrogation I desire to secure the Chair's acquiescence in a discussion of the entire tax program rather than confining my interrogation and remarks to the bill that is now before the House for consideration.

The SPEAKER. The Chair is generally in favor of that procedure except that the Chair agreed with the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, to discuss the whole program at the beginning.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, is this not the beginning?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, started on Bill 312. The Chair, however, unless there is objections, will acquiesce in the request. The Chair hears none and the gentleman will proceed.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

I desire to inquire of the gentleman whether there are any amendments which the majority party has to insert in any bill that is now before the House for consideration and the other bills that represent the tax program.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, speaking for House Bill 318, there are some amendments, and the principle amendment is made necessary by a recent decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in the Dorrance estate. It was theretofore the practice in Pennsylvania to tax trust estates proportionally in the counties, that is, as far as the county taxes were concerned, in which the trustees resided. Insofar as the state taxes are concerned, an effort was made to tax the trust estate in the state of one trustee, and proportionately in the state of the other three trustees. There were four trustees—

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I think the gentleman has already answered the question. I don't wish to prolong the discussion. The gentleman has indicated that there are amendments that are to be offered subsequently to the bill presently before the House; is that correct?

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, that is correct.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. May I inquire whether or not there are any amendments to be offered to the corporate loan tax.

Mr. BRETHERICK. Mr. Speaker, I am sorry that I cannot answer your question. I will have to refer him to Mr. Woodside.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Woodside.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODSIDE. I shall, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire of the gentleman whether or not there are any amendments which will be offered in the Senate to the corporate loan tax.

Mr. WOODSIDE. There are none, Mr. Speaker, that I know of at this time.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire whether or not there are any amendments that are to be offered to the foreign franchise tax and the corporation net income tax.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, none that I know of at this time.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to inquire whether or not there are any amendments that are to be offered to the penalties that are now presently existing in the taxes.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, none that I know of at this time.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, the reply of the gentleman from Dauphin, I would say, is a magnificent compliment to the Earle Administration and a miserable repudiation of the Republican pre-election promises. We should be highly complimented that the tax program is virtually lifted from the previous Democratic Administration, after being the subject of a political barrage and made the tax program of those who won on the supposed theory that these taxes were driving industry out of Pennsylvania. I cannot conceive of the majority membership of this House in the short space of four months entirely repudiating what they stated on the campaign platform throughout this Commonwealth.

The gentleman from Cambria stated that if he were speaking for the majority he would say, "I can eat crow but I don't like it." I would say that the gentlemen of the majority are eating a double portion of crow and apparently liking it.

The gentleman from Dauphin says that there are no amendments that are necessary; none that he knows of. In my superficial activity relative to the presentation of this tax program, I have had called to my attention amendments, not one, not two, but innumerable amendments that are necessary in order to make this tax program a more workable, a more efficient, and a more expedient program, but still we are informed by the majority leader that there are no amendments required to this program in order to refine its application.

At the hearing before the Ways and Means Committee I know that representatives from the Bar Association of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania were shunted off and told to present their amendments in the Senate; I know that tax experts present at that hearing were told to delay their recommendations until this tax program was offered in the Senate so that it could be refined or amended. I know that in the light of four years of administration experience on the collection and the administration of these taxes there are amendments that are required in order to make this program workable, to make it more efficient and to make it a better legislative enactment. I know that on the corporation loan tax the treasurers of corporations under the present law are today told to withhold four mills and after the passage of this act will have to withhold eight mills and that every treasurer of every corporations of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania will be confronted with a paradox, not knowing what to do nor how to do it because the act does not specifically say what should be done. I know that, because we had the experience in the passage of the act of 1937, and the proponents of this measure should avail themselves of the experience we have had in the administration of these acts in order to give to the people of Pennsylvania a better tax act. I know and every man that has any superficial knowledge of the problem knows that the fraction that was utilized in the assessment of the foreign franchise tax and the corporation net income tax requires amendment. That was adequately brought out at the hearing before the Ways and Means Committee, and it has been adequately demonstrated in four years of departmental experience in the corporation bureau of this Commonwealth. Still they are asking us to reenact every possible flaw and defect that has been uncovered in four years of actual administration of these acts. I know that in the passage in 1937 of the self-assessment feature the penalties contained therein worked an undue hardship; I know that the interest is not the same interest penalty and should not be applicable under a tax with the self-assessment feature as has been in vogue under the tax without the self-assessment feature. I know that facts were presented to our committee; it is available with little, if any investigation and still the majority are seeking us not to correct these apparent inequities, these mal-administration problems. They are saying, "Enact this program," as they have said to the representatives of the Bar Association and the tax experts and the people who have come to the committee seeking amendments that will cure the defects. They say, "Pass this tax program and those amendments may be placed in it in the Senate."

I say to the members of this House that never should the House of Representatives abdicate its legislative prerogatives to the Senate. I know from experience, and the members of this House also know from experience, that when these bills are rushed back from the Senate requiring concurrence in Senate amendments that there is not sufficient time to sit down and adequately read and determine the full import of the amendments that are inserted by the Senate.

I know, and the membership of this House who have been through various sessions knows, that we cannot deliberate when we are acquiescing in amendments inserted by the Senate. There is only one place where the membership of this House has the opportunity to deliberate on measures brought before us and that is when they are presented in Committee. There is but one place where remedial amendments should be put in and that is when the bill is presented before the House. There is but one place where corrections to House Bills should be made and that is in the House. To follow any other process of enactment is to allow this House to become a mere rubber stamp.

Further, how can the State Emergency Council, how can the Chamber of Commerce who for months, yea even years prior to November 8 condemned this program, come before our Legislative Committee devoid of one scintilla of suggestion, devoid of any recommendations and accept the enactment of this program? As I stated before, we of the minority consider this a magnificent compliment, but we are not satisfied with having done a job that is satisfactory to the Republicans. We can do a better job on this program. These administrative amendments, these problems that we have had called to our attention should be enacted now in this program, and I for one do not feel that at any time should we allow our Legislative prerogatives to be assumed by the Senate, and I for one do not feel that a program in which there are defects apparent to us all should be passed by this House when we have the remedy immediately at hand.

Further, as the gentleman from Cambria has indicated, this program to my mind, viewed in the light of the problems that are presented in the budget, does not meet the requirements. Today I was interviewed by a delegation of teachers from Schuylkill County who have not received their salary checks for months and months. No program is here presented, either directly or indirectly to correct that condition. The problem is still before us and the enactment of this legislation does not solve that problem.

I say to the membership of this House that until we have a full, complete and correct enactment of the tax program it is futile for the members of the House to go along and vote for it and then be confronted with the necessity of hastily concurring in amendments inserted by the Senate. Under those circumstances, Mr. Speaker, I for one at the present time cannot subscribe to this particular enactment.

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I was very much interested in trying to discover just what attack the minority would make upon their own program, as they wish to call it. It was very interesting to me to have the minority call this side a rubber stamp. It was very interesting to me to have the minority floor leader make reference to rushing bills through this House of Representatives.

I want to remind them of the days when the Ways and Means Committee met in a corner of the House of Representatives and passed out bills that no member of this House of Representatives had ever seen before. I want to remind them of the way they rushed bills through without any consideration being given them by the members of this House of Representatives. Then I want to recall how on February 28, a month ago, this entire program was introduced. I want them to recall how this bill was considered in Committee and I want the members of the House to remember that the gentleman who has just spoken on this floor is a member of the Ways and Means Committee. I want the members of this House to also know that when this bill was on second reading and when this bill was in the Committee, in spite of the fact that they had all this experience about which they talk, in spite of the fact that they had all this knowledge about all these amendments which should be inserted, there wasn't a single man of the minority who inserted, or attempted to insert, a single amendment to this program. I want to say to the members of the House that the members of the minority, if they could have given us so much advice as to how to re-draft these bills, why do they now come when the bill is on third reading, a month after it has been introduced, and say, "We have some amendments which we think should be introduced to make this program a good program". I say to the members of the House there is only one purpose, and that is to interfere with the carrying out of this program at this time, purely for the purpose of hampering, hindering, and interfering with the orderly process of government. I say to them that if they were sincere in the amendments they have to improve this bill, they would have been free to help, we would have considered their amendments when the bills were on second reading; we would have considered them in committee. There was plenty of time for us to have them read, and they could have helped us in the preparation of these bills. The real purpose of coming here at this time is not to improve these bills by amendments, but simply to use that method, the only method left to them to attack this program with the hope that they can defeat it. They know very well that this money is needed to carry on the program. The extravagance which existed in the Earle administration left us with a large deficit. All of the various expenses which they have saddled on the government we are now trying to cut down in a very substantial way so that the people of Pennsylvania may be saved from additional taxes. I hate to think what would have happened if the minority party had regained control of this Legislature and the Governor's office, and had continued spending millions upon millions of dollars. New taxes would have been necessary for the people of Pennsylvania. I say that the Republican Administration never has promised to reduce the taxes, it has always said that it would make a thorough investigation of these taxes and that it would put in economies with the idea that it could eventually reduce taxes, and that is exactly what the Republican party is now doing; it is making efforts to economize at every possible turn, cutting out unnecessary expenses of government in order that the people may be saved increased taxation.

For that reason, Mr. Speaker, I think that this bill and all the rest of the bills in this program should be passed by this House.

Mr. JOHN N. HOFFMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, with the permission and indulgence of the House, I wish to make a few declarations upon the general taxation program that we are considering today.

I have listened to the statements of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, and I confess that I am hardly able to bring myself to reconcile his sincerity as to the statements he has made in connection with this taxation program when he refers us to the inconsistencies contained in these bills passed by the former Democratic majority in the House, knowledge of which he has had previously and which knowledge he apparently denied to the members of the Ways and Means Committee of which I have the honor to be a member. He preferred to wait until this time to inject a spirit of doubt and ridicule upon bills that were passed by the former administration, which were recognized as lawful bills, accomplishing their purposes as far as they were concerned, but now denying the same equitable rights when we seek to apply the conditions of these bills to the emergency of the hour.

There isn't a man in this House more reluctant to meet the situation that is now before this honorable Assembly, not by our choice but by the door of indulgence than I am. I take second place to no man in this House as to my sincerity before the people of my county during the campaign to assure them of my opposition to the policy of the Democratic administration of inflicting upon the people and industry obnoxious and burdensome taxes.

Now, we are simply dealing with a problem that has come to us without our invitation and there is nothing that we can do presently but to meet the situation in the spirit of fairness, and we believe we reflect the atmosphere the attitude of our constituents. Nobody likes taxes and yet they are a necessary evil in the conduct of our State government, and proper conduct when reasonably applied to business. The present administration has taken over an inheritance, as I said on a number of occasions, that is reviled and out of this revilement we are presumed to be able to arrive at a reasonable solution that will meet the emergency. I think I am within my rights in stating that so far the evidence that has been displayed by His Excellency, the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania, as he reflects his judgment upon the matter of taxation, is wholesome and sound. I believe the reaction of sentiment has even gone so far as to find its way into the federal government at Washington, because I notice that since the Republican administration has taken over the reins of government in the state of Pennsylvania and has pronounced emphatically that while they have a situation where taxes must be met, they are specific and definite in their statement that there shall not be any increase in taxation and that has reflected itself in the federal government at Washington. I understand also that they are beginning to believe that now is the time when the people must be considered in the problem of taxation and to that end they are already thinking about reducing taxes in Washington.

I am speaking to you, members of the House, through the courtesy of the Speaker from a three-fold angle. In the first place, I am speaking as a business man; I know what taxes have done to business. I have the honor to represent a large industry in Northampton county, controlling approximately eighty-five per cent of the output of slate in Northampton county, in the state of Pennsylvania, and in the United States of America. I know what taxes have done to our industry. I am speaking on behalf of that industry, as a representative of that industry, and

I believe that I am qualified to bring to you statements that are in keeping with facts, and facts are realities with which we must deal in order to get away from the theories that have too long dominated conditions in the state of Pennsylvania under the former administration.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, may I be informed what is before the House at the present time?

The SPEAKER. We are now discussing particularly House Bill No. 318, but at the request of your Democratic colleague the whole tax program is being discussed with very wide latitude.

Mr. JIROLANIO. Mr. Speaker, then I would say that the gentleman from Northampton is not speaking on any tax bill, he is making a general statement.

The SPEAKER. The Chair feels that in view of the speech that has been made by the minority leader, the gentleman from Northampton can take most any ground and still be in order.

Mr. JOHN N. HOFFMAN. Thank you Mr. Speaker and my appreciation to the House. I have no desire to inflict my personal views upon this honorable body nor would I attempt to make a general statement or declaration if I were not aware that that request had been made and granted to a member on the other side. It is for that reason that I desire to make the statement that I am now making, recognized as a general declaration upon the tax bills that we are considering this afternoon.

As I stated I am speaking in a three-fold capacity, first as a business man; secondly as a representative of business interests, and the third is that I directly represent interests other than the slate interests in Northampton County. I would like to take the time right now to read you expressions from industries in Northampton County, outside of the slate industries. The first is a telegram that I received today from Easton, Pennsylvania, which reads as follows:

"Confirming my telephone conversation with you today. Am of opinion industry's stand on tax situation should be to obtain every relief consistently possible but situation being as it is should go along with present program outlined for next biennium taking steps to correct every deficiency in meantime so that the relief necessary to promote upswing in business will not be unduly delayed. ADA very anxious to cooperate along these lines.

A. R. LILICRAPP, Chairman
Legislative Committee
Easton Board of Trade."

I had the pleasure of speaking to the Secretary of the Board of Trade of Easton last Saturday in the interest of these tax measures that I anticipated would be considered by the House this week, and I would like to read a telegram which I also received today from the Secretary of the Easton Board of Trade, which reads as follows:

"Talked with several representatives of local industries here in Easton over the week-end and while each of them would like to see every relief possible from the burdensome taxation of Pennsylvania, without exception, they questioned whether the present legislature could do anything but reenact the present tax structure. Therefore, I believe that local manufacturers as a group reasonably expect the present tax structure to be reenacted and that they will go along with this program expecting relief from this heavy tax burden at the next budget biennium two years hence; furthermore, believe the local manufacturers appreciate you asking their opinion and believe that your thoughts as expressed Saturday morning are much the same as those expressed by local manufacturers.

LYON O. BORDEN, Secretary
Easton Board of Trade."

Now, of course, any statement made along the line of taxation measures carries with it the spirit that nobody likes to see tax increases or these burdensome taxes carried on, but as I indicated awhile ago, we are confronted with a situation beyond our control, not given to us by our choice. Between the two evils I believe it is more sensible to choose the lesser evil and re-enact these present tax measures with the assurance that there is not going to be any additional tax imposed upon industry. Industry in the past has been frightened to death. They have had promises that are just like the one that turned into a whirlwind, and that is what the Republican party is reaping today. The Democratic party has been sowing the wind during the past four years of administration the same as the Federal administration has been doing at Washington and today the country and the state of Pennsylvania is reaping a whirlwind that is inescapable.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask that we meet this situation in a spirit of calmness and courage remembering that we will be doing the best service for our constituents under the two evils if we select the lesser evil and re-enact these measures as ours.

Mr. HERBERT B. COHEN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I don't wish to apologize for prolonging this discussion because I feel that both the gentleman from Dauphin and the gentleman from Northampton made personal attacks upon my sincerity.

In calling to the attention of the House these corrective amendments that should undoubtedly be placed in the bill prior to passage, and in order to confront both gentlemen with the real facts, I wish to call to the attention of the gentleman from Dauphin and the gentleman from Northampton, who have indicated that I had knowledge and withheld from the committee, the fallacy of their remarks.

You will remember that in the open hearing on the tax bill, Mr. Fox of the Chamber of Commerce recommended these notes are the notes that I took during that hearing—that insofar as the foreign franchise tax and the corporation income tax are concerned, that the fractions that are utilized in determining the taxes be amended. That fact was given to the Committee, the inequities of the present fractions were shown; the necessity for amendment was conclusively indicated and that information was available to the entire Committee.

I further wish to call to the attention of the members of the House that that information came from both Mr. Fox representing the Chamber of Commerce and from Mr. Turner a representative of the State Emergency Council. I further wish to call to the attention of the membership of this House that a representative of the Pennsylvania Bar Association was present. I further wish to call to the attention of the membership of this House that Philip Sterling a former member of this House, was present and made suggestions. I further wish to call to the attention of the membership of this House that John Y. Scott, former Deputy Attorney General assigned to the Department of Revenue and fully cognizant of the problem presented in these bills, was present, as was also Mr. Raymond Evleth, former head of the Corporation Bureau who had experience in the collection of these taxes and who knew the problem. I further wish to call to the attention of the membership of this House that every one of those individuals was told to go home with a statement substantially as follows: "We will not consider your amendments; those amendments are to be placed in the Senate".

It is the policy of the Republican steam roller to get these bills out of the House and over in the Senate where they can be amended. Now, if that is withholding knowledge, Mr. Speaker, if that is not playing fair with the Republican Committee, if that is secreting knowledge which I have in order to catch you unawares, then I am guilty, but I cannot conceive, where the Republican Committee had made available to them, where the committee chairman had made available to him, all these corrective amendments which I have suggested on the floor of this House, that the statement should have been made that no amendments were to be put in, that that problem was to be handled in the Senate, where a full open hearing was to be given on these bills. How can you expect this House to abdicate its legislative prerogative so that these amendments may be stuck in in the Senate and presented to us with the hope of concurrence, not knowing their effect?

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I say that these problems have been before the Republican Ways and Means Committee since the introduction of these bills, and they have steadfastly refused to make corrective administrative amendments for the sole and single purpose of rushing these bills into the House without giving opportunity to correct any of the administrative defects that are present. I say that you won't have a high grade, first class workable tax program unless you avail yourselves of the experience that we have had in the collection and the administration of these taxes for four years. I say to the gentleman from Easton, who says he is here representing business, that the business man would avail himself of our four years of experience, he would not have taxes rushed through, he would not approve of a program that is not perfect. That is not the way that the gentleman from Easton or his business constituents should aspire to do. I say to the membership of this House that I am not speaking in three categories. I am not speaking in any manner except as a representative of my constituents, and I say that each and every member here, as the representative of his constituents, should see that the best available program, that the best available enactment, that all the administrative experience, that all the refinements should be placed in the tax program, so that it can be made more workable. Nobody likes taxes, so that when you are passing this measure you should pass it in a manner that will indicate you have given it the required deliberation. That is the way the members of this Legislature should conduct themselves, and it certainly is the way that business would want you to conduct yourselves.

Mr. KANE. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I feel that the gentleman from York is right in resenting any personal implications that placed upon him. On the other hand, Mr. Speaker, as one of those who the gentleman from York knows supported the tax bills when the Democrats had them up, I feel free to say to him that there was opportunity given to amend these tax bills either by the minority or the majority. I believe the committee considered a good many amendments.

While I think he is correct in principle and the Constitution places on the lower House the sole right to originate taxes and that this House should consider, deliberate and hold hearings if necessary, rather than the Senate, nevertheless, Mr. Speaker, the time for offering amendments has passed. I did not offer any, neither did anyone else, and I believe, Mr. Speaker, that the House should support this bill because it is just as necessary today as was two years ago.

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I felt that last evening was the end of unique meetings, but the arguments in relation to the tax bill strike me rather unique. I cannot find myself able to reconcile my position in favor of either of the leaders of the two parties here today. I can understand the position of the gentleman from York, Mr. Cohen, in that he feels the bill should be made as perfect as possible, but apparently the majority of this House are not interested in doing that. I therefore would agree with the opinion of the gentleman from Cambria, Mr. Andrews, who stated quite frankly that the burden is the burden of the majority. You are now the tax experts. If you pass bills that are not perfect, then the fault is yours. We have given you the opportunity of perfecting these bills from the experience that we have had. It is with that thought in mind, Mr. Speaker, that I intend to vote for the bills; intend to vote for them upon the condition that the burden of passing these bills is the burden of the majority members of this House. If they are willing to pass them, imperfect as they are, then since it is their duty to provide the tax program, their duty to pass it, and since they did not apparently have the initiative to carry out the promises of their campaign, the promises of relieving burdensome taxes, if they do not desire to do that then certainly I shall not voice further objections to it.

Don't you know that last evening you were exhorted by the Democratic Senator to re-enact those beneficial laws of the Earle administration? Quite obviously you were intent on doing that very thing, and of course the Republican Senator from Pennsylvania has thrown out a smoke-screen which the gentleman from Northampton has accepted by deciding finally that the excessive and burdensome taxes are not in Pennsylvania but are in Washington. Apparently now, since the campaign is over, you do not have burdensome taxes in Pennsylvania. Business is delighted to go along with your tax program, you will now transfer your attack upon Washington and seek your relief there instead of here in Pennsylvania, even though one of your own number has suggested a method of relief to business.

I reiterate, Mr. Speaker, that I feel since this is a Republican burden they should cast sufficient votes to make this program possible, accepting all of the implications and the burdens of the imperfections that have been pointed out to them.

Mr. BURRIS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, in my campaign for election last fall some of the Republican party used this four mill personal property tax against me because it was one of the emergency tax bills passed by the Earle Administration, now before us as House Bill 318. Certainly, the majority of the Republicans in this House will oppose the passage of this piece of legislation. As a matter of fact, I concur with my Republican colleagues in the thought that this is a destructive piece of legislation of the worst kind and if I had been a member of this House four years ago, when this bill was enacted, I would have voted against it at that time, as I propose to vote against it today.

May I cite for you, Mr. Speaker, one specific field which is taxed under this bill that is destructive without question.

For the past 20 years, I have been a life insurance agent in rural Juniata County, and in that time have paid and have seen paid hundreds of claims under life insurance policies of less than ten thousand dollars where the proceeds of such policies have been held under options of settlement for the benefit of old men, old women, widows, children and orphans—mere bread and butter for such beneficiaries.

Under this law that was enacted four years ago, and which it is now proposed to re-enact, the Revenue Department has taxed such life insurance funds that were left with the companies under one of their several options at a rate which would amount, in many cases, to an income tax of approximately twelve percent.

I ask you, ladies and gentlemen, individually as members of this House, whether you will vote for approximately a twelve percent income tax on the life insurance that you have provided for your good wife and your children, remembering that your good wife and children will pay this tax as your widow and orphaned children.

Furthermore, you represent hundreds of thousands of just such fathers as you, who in a great many cases have skimped to pay the premiums on their life insurance policies so that their families could be independent, not dependent wards of the State.

May I repeat, if you feel that an approximate twelve percent income tax is a fair tax on such funds for old men, old women, widows, children and orphans, vote for this bill. If you feel that it is unfair to so tax this class of folks, bearing in mind that this twelve percent tax added to the four mill personal property tax paid to the counties, results in not a twelve percent income tax, but a twenty-four percent income tax, then vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. AUKER. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I ask the indulgence of the House for just about two minutes. I am in favor of this bill but I do feel that it carries some very vicious things in it. One of them is that it does not exempt from the bill investments that are dead wood, in other words, investments that do not produce any income to the person holding such investments or securities, and making them dig deep down into their pockets and pay out four and eight mills tax when they are not receiving any income from it.

However, I know that no amendments can be put in which would be constitutional to take care of that kind of investments and securities, but I do feel that this House should give serious consideration to reporting out bills that will change the Constitution of Pennsylvania to the end that some of these amendments can be put into these tax bills to protect the citizens of the Commonwealth from highway robbery because that is how I regard it when they have to pay money out of their own pockets, four and eight mills, on investments and securities on which they receive no income.

I am supporting the bill because I believe it is necessary, but I do want to call to the attention of the members the fact that amendments or bills should be reported out of the House, looking to changes in the Constitution of this state, so that these inequalities can be corrected. I thank you.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

REASONS FOR VOTE

Mr. ALSPACH filed the following reason for his vote:
I am voting for House Bill 318 for the sole reason that the administration needs the money for relief purposes. I think the personal property tax is vicious, discriminative and totally unfair. It does not truly tax on the basis of "ability to pay." If the revenue to be derived therefrom were to be used for any purpose other than relief, I would vote "no."

Mr. AUKER filed the following reasons for his vote:
1. Because revenue derived from this bill is absolutely necessary to help provide finances for next biennium.
2. I do not approve of the bill wherein it applies to investments which are not producing an income, but any amendment to exempt such non-producing securities being so manifestly unconstitutional, being an elected Republican Assemblyman, I have no recourse but to vote for the bill.

Mr. DALRYMPLE filed the following reasons for his vote:

I am filing my reasons for voting for the eight tax bills which came from the Ways and Means Committee. I am voting "Yes" on all the bills. My reasons are as follows:

The Governor, being left with a $50,000,000 deficit and a large unemployment situation, relief, old age pension, and blind pension, all these agencies must be taken care of. Therefore, I deem it wise and human in my power to support these measures.

Mr. DENMAN filed the following reason for his vote:

I am personally very much against the passage of this bill. I came to Harrisburg this week with the full intention of voting against this bill. I find now however that the relief rolls are so increasing that unless the revenue is to come into the state that relief will be sent back to the local counties and communities. If this is done the increase in taxes on the home owner, the farmer, and the small business man will be such that the tax which he will pay on the four mills personal property bill will be small in comparison to the increase in other taxes which he would have to pay if this bill should be defeated.

In voting for the passage of this bill, I do so with the thought in mind that I am protecting my constituency from an increase in other taxes, and the probability of new taxes being placed on him if this bill should not pass. The personal property tax will appropriate $24,000,000. If it is not passed, there will be additional taxes for relief, and for the payment of school teachers salaries. All of these would mean heavier burdens on the man now paying taxes. The passage of the four mills tax will lighten the burden of taxes on the home owner, the farmer and business man.

I am against this bill, I vote for it only because I know that if this bill should fail to pass my people back home would be forced to pay higher taxes on real estate, on food, on gasoline and the other things which they buy.

If I should vote against this bill, I would be voting against the best interests of the people, who want lower taxes. I vote for this bill, to keep other taxes from going up and new taxes from being levied.

Mr. GATES filed the following reason for his vote:

A Commonwealth held together by the bonds of reason only, requires much compromise of opinion, that things even salutary should not be crammed down the throats of dissenting brethren.

Mr. LICHTENWALTER filed the following reasons for his vote:

I feel that this tax is a great burden on the many citizens of this state who pay a tax on property on which they receive no income in the given taxable year, but because of the deficit inherited by the present administration and the providing for the payment of this deficit in the 1939-41 budget which will necessitate use of every available revenue now at the command of the Commonwealth, and having a desire to have the budget in balance I have voted for the continuance of this particular tax as an emergency measure for a two-year period so that there will be no breakdown in relief to the people of this Commonwealth.

Mr. WILSON filed the following reasons for his vote:

For the past several weeks the Republican members of the House have investigated fully and carefully the financial condition of the state. It has been definitely ascertained that all of these so called "Emergency Taxes" must be continued for a limited period of time. Such a necessity is to be regretted. Every effort of the present administration is being exerted to bring down governmental expenses but the commitments of the preceding administration are so much greater than generally understood. It is found that not even a sound and economic policy can suddenly terminate these particular temporary taxes. I have consistently urged that certain of these taxes be reduced at this session. No personal property tax is perhaps the most unfair and objectionable. This tax must be discontinued at the earliest possible date. To do so now would endanger the very urgent plans for meeting the emergency which confronts us. One thing is sure; had the spending program of the Democratic party been continued longer it would have been necessary to greatly increase taxation. Our agreement to continue temporarily these emergency taxes has been arranged because the present situation does not admit of any other course. Our efforts to solve these problems prove we are sincere and a way will be found to check costs so the states normal income will cover them, because our policy is sound.

BILLS ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 312, entitled:

An Act to reenact and amend the title and the act, approved the ninth day of June, one thousand nine hundred thirty-six (Special Session of one thousand nine hundred thirty-six Pamphlet Laws, thirteen), entitled "An act imposing an emergency State tax for a limited period of time on liquor, as herein defined, sold by the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board; providing for the collection and payment of such tax; and imposing duties upon the Department of Revenue and the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board," as previously reenacted and amended, by extending the provisions thereof for a further limited period of time.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Mr. JIROLANIO asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up out of order House Bill No. 263, Printer's

No. 146, on page 17 of today's calendar, bill on third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 263, entitled:

An Act to amend section two thousand one of the act approved the twenty-third day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirty-one (P. L. 932) entitled "An act relating to cities of the third class and amending revising and consolidating the law relating thereto" by fixing the minimum compensation for patrolmen in such cities.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. ANDREWS. Mr. Speaker is that in agreement with the sponsor?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker I have no objection to calling up this bill, specially if it is an accommodation to Mr. Jirolanio.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I would like to interrogate the gentleman from Dauphin, Mr. Reese.

The SPEAKER. Will the gentleman from Dauphin permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. I will, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. DIX. Will the gentleman from Dauphin please state in brief the purpose, content and intent of this bill?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, the purpose, content and intent is to develop a minimum wage for policemen in cities of the third class in the state of Pennsylvania.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, does this bill affect all cities of the third class besides Harrisburg?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, it certainly does.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, can the gentleman tell me the starting salaries of school teachers in the common grades of the Harrisburg schools, in comparison to the bill presented by you for policemen?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, I do not know.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, is it not true that one thousand dollars is the minimum starting salary for teachers in Harrisburg and all other third class cities?

Mr. DAVID P. REESE. Mr. Speaker, that is answered by the first answer.

Mr. DIX. Mr. Speaker, I wish to state that is a fact. Is it true that Bill No. 263 starts a rookie police officer on the taxpayers' payroll at a salary six hundred dollars greater than a school teacher who has had four to six years of special education, at a cost of several thousand dollars?

Mr. WOODSIDE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentlemen if they would not kindly yield and agree to have the bill go over at this time?

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to passing this bill over in order? The Chair hears none and the bill will go over in its order.

SENATE MESSAGE

CONCURRENCE IN HOUSE RESOLUTION No. 38

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 13, 1939.

For many years this country and the world at large has observed May first as May Day, and, at different places, the observance has been marked by various kinds of celebrations.

At times these celebrations have resulted in demonstrations against organized government.

In 1932 the American Legion in Fayette County inaugurated a new kind of observance of the day, by staging a parade of Americanism, which has grown each year into an event of first importance.

The participation in the celebration of this day by patriotic societies, veterans' organizations and other organizations, cannot help but make it throughout the Commonwealth a day to awaken new pride in our American institutions, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania urges the setting aside of May first as Americanism Day, and urges upon all patriotic, veteran, fraternal and civic organizations the planning of its celebration in such a manner as will bring to the people of the Commonwealth a full realization of the benefits and privileges and blessings that come to them through the continuance of our American form of government, and be it further

Resolved, That the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby urged to issue his proclamation further urging the people of the Commonwealth to join in a real American celebration of Americanism Day.

BILL SIGNED BY SPEAKER

Bill numbered and entitled as follows having been prepared for presentation to the Governor, and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

SENATE BILL No. 40.

An act making an appropriation to the Department of Forests and Waters for the use of the Pennsylvania State Park and Harbor Commission of Erie and for the joint use of the Department of War of the United States Government and the Department of Forests and Waters of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and the use of the Department of Forests and Waters in cooperation with the Federal Beach Erosion Board

Whereupon,

The SPEAKER, in the presence of the House, signed the same.

BILL ON THIRD READING

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. CHRISTLER.

The House resumed the consideration on third reading of House Bill No. 473, entitled:

An Act to further amend a part of section one of article three of the act, approved the seventh day of March, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. L. 20), entitled "An act for the government of cities of the second class," providing for the removal and dismissal of policemen in cities of the second class.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED

Mr. O'KEEFE. Mr. Speaker, with the consent of the sponsor of this bill, I move that it be recommitted to the Committee on Cities—Second Class for the purpose of a public hearing.

The motion was agreed to.

ADDRESS BY MR. KANE

Mr. KANE asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker, I wish to state first to the members of the House that I have deferred making this statement for about a week on account of the press of business. If there are any of the members who do not care to hear me I will not be offended if they find it necessary to leave.

Last night about 3 A. M., I mean 1 A. M., or perhaps shortly after midnight, I was challenged by the Uncle Dominick of the newspaper profession on the ground that I had helped to force upon the Commonwealth the Teachers' Tenure Act, because I had refused to support an amendment to eliminate married teachers from the protection of the bill. I explained to him that on the contrary I was against the whole bill, but if teachers were going to be put in jobs for life then by all means it was better that they had a normal life on those jobs. And if they wanted to marry, then for God's sake let them do it. It's the normal thing to do. I want my kids in the hands of normal men and women.

I might say further that I think the modern tales circulated about child birth in the classrooms, etc., are nothing but a scurrilous libel on the teaching profession, as all the women teachers I have ever known were persons of the utmost modesty. However, I come to bury Caesar, not to praise him. Before I begin the lates rites let me say that in calling this gentleman "the Uncle Dominick of the newspaper profession" I pay him a compliment. Just as I feel that the Uncle Dominick in the Philadelphia Inquirer is the embodiment of the Jack Cummings idea, of what Jack Cummings would like to think he would be like when he reaches that age, so this worthy legislator, who still believes in running his own affairs, and saying what he pleases to whomever it pleases him, comes pretty near to being my idea of what I would like to think I would be able to be as a legislator when I reach his age. But to get back to the main point, he claimed that a certain Tax Commission had solved the coal problem while the school problem on which I was all wound up had nothing to do with coal.

Gentlemen, nothing could be further from the truth. Coal is vitally affected by the break down of the school system. It is a tragedy which affects all of us, but when you consider the enormous taxes which the bankrupt and dying coal mining business bears for school taxes you will see school taxes are killing the very industries on which they feed while training no one for them.

It is not surprising that the anthracite region which was the resting place of the crooked schoolboards became the hatching place of the Tenure bill.

It was said that teachers needed tenure because of crooked schoolboards. Because the taxpayers thus were robbed they must in redress assume life jobs for hordes of idlers and the labor laws prevent us from making teachers stay here. The other states and private schools can hire out the ambitious. The teacher who shows some real stuff can quit and go in business. We must retain in charge of our children the dregs of the profession. Ambitious teachers whose heart is in the work; teachers whose services we want and need; teachers practical enough to understand that law steer clear of Pennsylvania. If those schoolboards were so crooked—why then let's clear up the schoolboards.

Who ever first joked our village school mams into the idea they should have a longer term in office than the President of the United States? Do they imagine that they do not serve the public because they only have charge of our children—the most precious thing we have. The fact they ever subscribed to such a crazy notion as a lifetime tenure goes to prove their own unfitness to assume instruction. They do not know the people for that isn't in the books. Not only that, but school taxes are killing the homes of the country. The strength of America lies in the preservation of the homes of the free people. They are the bricks of which the Nation's house is builded. If they dissolve all else goes with them. When the home of the citizen is not secure the Nation is in danger. Every law must, therefore, aid in a general way to preserve the American home and every profession must aid in its up-building.

Last week I was very much moved by the spendid speech of the gentleman from Schuylkill, Mr. Wagner, with regard to the terrible plight of the unpaid teachers of his district and I am concerned over the plight of anyone who goes unpaid for labor honestly delivered whether by brain or hand.

I was pleased that our Chaplain prayed for these people, but I suggest that while God perhaps holds the only keys to Schuylkill County and the Philadelphia County financial problems, still it is our duty to try to offer a remedy here in this House.

We have a lot of Swedish people up in our county, and you have probably heard of the story of the Swede who took his wife, Christine, to the airport for the purpose of taking an airplane ride.

The pilot approached them and said, "Don't you want to go up?"

"Nay," he said, "Mr. I only got two dollars and I won't go up without Christine."

"Well," he said, "I will tell you what I will do. I will take you up and Christine also. If you don't holler or say anything I will give you a ride for nothing." It was an open cockpit type of airplane.

So the Swede and his wife, Christine, got in behind the pilot, who proceeded to do all kinds of stunts that an airplane is capable of doing. When they were coasting into the airport the pilot looked back over his shoulder and he hollered to the Swede, "Mr. Olson, I guess you got the ride for nothing, you never opened your mouth in the air."

The Swede said, "Nay, but it was pretty hard to keep quiet when Christine fell out of the plane."

And we should begin the good work by removing the April third deadline on new ideas and plan to stay here until our work is done, and like General Grant, here highly resolve to fight it out on this line if it takes all summer.

But I don't wish to have it in any way understood that I feel these teachers are a special or a better class than any other unpaid workers or any other unemployed citizens when they are out of jobs and money. They are a learned profession of importance, but only one of the learned professions, and they are an outstanding failure in training our young people for their useful work in life. Nor can this be blamed upon the law. We provide the school houses and the books and even the buses now. We provide all the equipment for a profession which is virtually self-directing. They largely determine by their influence the courses that are prescribed and certainly daily determine the practical or impractical nature of their teaching.

We have developed a system of intellectual inbreeding by which persons graduate from schools one spring and go in the doors of other schools to teach the young next fall. They know nothing of life because they have never lived except in cloistered academic halls, supervised by professorial grandmothers, and financed generally by hard-working and not too curious old dads or mothers. Half the graduating classes go forth to hard work, but many seek easy work and many just to avoid work entirely.

Many noble souls go into teaching as a calling, but many bright but lazy loafers go into teaching, because the outside world of competitive labor looks hard and has no summer vacations—it offers a dirty foundry instead of an immaculate manual training shop at the local high school.

My sisters were teachers. My mother was a teacher. I am not against teachers. Those who want to know what a teacher can be should read Bliss Perry's book "And Gladly Teach." But I am against the academic drones who seek to further burden our poor little home owners with foolish schooling and laws to make your children and mine leave those homes to hear their impractical ideas. Neither do we hire them to meddle with our children's home taught religion.

There was a time when a few people went to high school and to college, to learn culture and to train for professions. In that day, a system was established which has hung on. Now even those who will soon become housewives or machinists must follow in that groove. Everyone wants his child to become an architect and no one a stone mason or a brick layer. Yet the latter are better paid on the average and do at least as useful a work. Someone has to lay the brick or soon you have no buildings; we are not faced with the present housing shortage for lack of architects or blue prints.

Our daughters learn a smattering of geometry and of Spanish, but go to their weddings untrained in household buying. They do not know enough Spanish to get a job. They could not interpret a Mexican buyer in their own father's office, but they have been wasting their time when they could have learned to be better mothers. They learn about geometry and are ignorant about milk and soap and shoes for little children. Yet the actual career of nine-tenth of all women is home-making and motherhood for which they receive less than one-tenth of their public schooling.

There exists a very strong educational hierarchy, a professorial union. And if that union went on strike for a year, perhaps we would all be ahead and people at home would start to think and to learn again. My wife says, "The last American sat down at home to read in the days of Henry Clay." It would be well for the teachers who are not in distress to avoid the distress that is coming and point their dainty noses in the right direction by trying to direct their teaching toward training people for the jobs that do exist and will exist in the future. They must recognize that we cannot build our civilization with a horde of architects and engineers. We must also train those worthwhile youngsters who shape the steel and lay the bricks of that gigantic structure.

The most caustic thing I have ever heard about teaching was quoted from George Bernard Shaw to me by a local high school teacher. He said: "Those who, can do, those who can't teach."

Let the teachers join my project. Let them demand a chance to be practical. Let us set up schools where people learn by doing, in which those fine young people who don't do well with books can learn to earn a living and get away from scholars on relief and the cultured in the ditches. And let our teachers develop the courage to tell parents: "Your son cannot go on with books. He may become a fine mechanic, but he can never be a great engineer. Save his hopes and his ambition by teaching him a trade now."

They dare not say "no," but stall you off for years with endless "maybes." "If more years are spent—more money used someday you'll finish training." We graduate our children now as old Jack Cummings' Uncle Dominick, before they start to practice.

Then, let us open many free night schools wherein those who want to try on their own time may progress upward and onward while their neighbors loaf or dance.

Let us consider the plight of the teachers, but let us consider the plight of our own children and our taxpayers. Let us revamp the whole educational lay-out from a "jobholding game" into a "life training profession" for our children.

Last week at a Ways and Means Committee hearing, I asked a small manufacturer who complained of his taxes whether he had ever received from his local public schools a single person adequately trained to work at his plant and he said, "no."

Yet, education is more than sixty percent of the costs of the average local taxes which burden the little factory, and evenmore, the homes of Pennsylvania.

I would save our homes from greater taxes. I would save our children from further wasted lives and I would even save our teachers from wasting their careers.

A foolish notion we require no practical life experience of our teachers who have twice as much time with our children as we parents have. Nor do we require any educational standards of the school directors who select the teachers and build the schools at our expense in taxes.

The parents must get more interested than just going to a P. T. A. meeting to drink tea. These parents play golf and play bridge while maids attend their children. They perfect a golf stroke, who can't afford to play. They lose their homes for taxes while they rob their children of their most precious heritage—the experience of Dad and Mother in the way of life. And little hands must be bruised, little heads bumped and little feet must stumble up the whole long rocky road again, because a pleasure-seeking loafer had no time, or a hard working fortune-chaser amassed a fortune to ruin his own heirs who inherited his cash but not his common sense.

The brains that could solve our country's problems are wasted every evening over the bridge tables of America and the energy to rebuild a nation is squandered on the golf links and in the stadiums. If the so-called "good people" will neither protect their inheritance nor perpetuate their kind, let them neither together curse fate nor be lawmakers. And if the school teachers cannot soon justify their existence let them not ask this assembly for any further taxes.

This depression is a tragedy, but in another sense an opportunity. We have the buildings, the cash, the teachers and goodness knows the ignorance. I have the following suggestions to make:

1. Repeal the life tenure bill and substitute 2 year, 3 year, and 4 year contracts.

2. Establish practical day trade schools and occupational night schools for adults whose occupations have become outmoded or distasteful.

3. Establish educational qualifications on school boards and prohibit the employment in any board member's district of any person as closely related to a board member as a first cousin.

4. Create a state fund for use where needed to guarantee all children wherever they live a reasonably equal educational opportunity.

5. For this purpose I recommend we reenact an optional tax such as a luxury or amusement tax and lower the local school tax on homes and business.

ADDRESS BY MR. DENMAN

Mr. DENMAN asked and obtained unanimous consent to address the House.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, this nation is passing the eleventh year of the depression which has swept over us. The unemployment situation has become the nation's No. 1 problem. The Unemployment Relief problem has become the No. 1 problem of this General Assembly. So far there appears to be no solution to this problem.

So far as the normal unemployment crisis is concerned, all forces are working to relieve the situation as soon as possible, and to provide for those who are without funds of their own.

The unemployment situation alone is sufficient to keep this General Assembly busy for some time to come. Fortunately, to date, there have been no other crises arise. There have been no outside interferences to combat.

No nation can long endure when its citizens are not self-sustaining.

Our industries and coal mines are working at only a small percentage of their normal capacity. Our railroads are faced with desperate conditions. Most of them are insolvent, many are in actual bankruptcy and are working under a receivership. Eventually they all should be able to overcome their difficulties and again be on a sound footing.

Western Pennsylvania is a great industrial area. The Bituminous Coal Mines there employ tens of thousands of men. The railroads there are likewise heavy employers of labor. Whatever interferes with the efforts to keep these units working as best they can, contributes to the increase in the number of the unemployed. Our people cannot stand confiscatory taxation, yet, the money for relief must be forthcoming or people will starve.

If employment can be continued, the relief rolls will gradually decrease and taxation will likewise decrease.

Whatever interrupts the normal course of industry, of its railroads or of the coal mines in Western Pennsylvania, creates unemployment.

The Federal Government proposes to dig a canal from the Ohio River to the Great Lakes.

Through this canal it is proposed to carry from 22,480,000 to 35,021,000 tons of freight annually.

This freight is now hauled by the railroads.

Should this freight be hauled by the proposed waterway, the railroads, and the mills from which they purchase supplies, and the coal mines from which they purchase their coal, will be irreparably injured. To injure these units will throw out of work tens of thousands of men.

The railroads affected by this loss of freight employ 8600 men in the territory which they serve. The industries and coal mines contribute many times that amount.

There is a great diversity of opinion whether this canal is even advisable. To construct it, the Federal Government will provide $225,000,000 of our tax money at a time when the Federal Budget is terribly out of balance; and at a time when we are threatened with the necessity of spending untold sums for national defense.

The tax money which would be used for the construction of this canal would, to a great extent, come from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for we pay over 10% of the taxes collected by the Federal Government; hence, our own tax money would be used to throw our own men out of work.

Should our men, now working for the units which would be injured by this canal, be thrown out of work, this legislature would eventually be faced with the problem of providing for additional persons on relief.

If there were every reason why this canal should be constructed so that there could be cheap transportation by water between the Ohio River and the Great Lakes, certainly this is not the time to use Federal Funds to subsidize private transportation, when to do so would result in increased unemployment in Western Pennsylvania.

The proposal to construct this canal is now before Congress.

A public hearing is to be held in the halls of Congress in the near future to discuss the advisability of construction of this canal.

Because the benefits to be gained, if any, by the construction of this canal, are being questioned;

Because it is proposed to use public funds to subsidize private transportation in direct competition with other forms of transportation;

Because by constructing and maintaining this proposed canal, the Federal Government would be creating a transportation system which would seriously injure the railroad and the industries and coal mines dependent upon them, and add to our relief rolls;

Because this General Assembly is charged with the protection of all of the citizens of Pennsylvania I desire to offer a resolution.

RESOLUTIONS

Mr. DENMAN offered a resolution and asked unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the immediate consideration of the resolution? Is there objection?

Mr. ACHTERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I object.

The SPEAKER. The Chair hears objection and consent is not granted.

The resolution will be filed with the Clerk under the rules.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED

Messrs. CALVIN, MARR and GOLL offered a resolution and asked and obtained unanimous consent for its immediate consideration.

The resolution was twice read, considered and adopted as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 28, 1939.

Willard Stanton Reader of Patterson Heights, a former member of the House, pioneer Beaver County newspaperman, and one of that district's best known and most highly respected residents, passed away at his home at 11 o'clock Monday of this week, after a short illness of complications. Mr. Reader was manager of the New Brighton office of the News-Tribune.

Born in New Brighton, September 28, 1871, the deceased was educated in the New Brighton public schools and Geneva College. He entered the office of the Beaver Valley News, owned by his father, Francis S. Reader, as an apprentice in 1886, assuming the duties of reporter in 1888, and became a partner in the firm of F. S. Reader & Son on his twenty-first birthday. He served as editor from that time until consolidation of the paper with the Beaver Falls Tribune.

Mr. Reader was ever active in community affairs, and was associated with the Association of New Brighton Citizens. In the years 1907 and 1908 he was Burgess of New Brighton. A staunch Republican, the deceased served three terms in the House of Representatives of the Pennsylvania Legislature, being chosen as representative from the second Beaver County district in the elections of 1924, 1926 and 1928. For many years he was secretary of the Lincoln Republican Club.

Mr. Reader was vitally interested in church work and was a life-long member of the First Presbyterian Church of New Brighton, an elder of the congregation, a member of the session and for a quarter of a century secretary of the Sunday school. For several years he had been a member of the board of Providence Hospital, therefore it

Resolved, By the House of Representatives of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth, That this House extends its sincere sympathy to the widow and the three sons who survive its former member; and be it further

Resolved That the Chief Clerk of this House shall transmit a copy of this resolution to Mrs. Lily R. Reader, the widow of the deceased.

Each member of the committee shall have power to administer oaths and affirmations to witnesses appearing before it. Any person who shall wilfully neglect or refuse to appear and testify for said committee, or to produce any books, papers, records and documents shall be subject to the penalties provided by the laws of this Commonwealth in such cases.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution?

It was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the Senate accordingly.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE

Mr. MELCHIORRE from the Committee on Law and Order reported as amended, House Bill No. 10, entitled:

An Act providing for the conducting of, and legalizing, lotteries by the State; creating a State Lottery Commission; and making appropriations.

RESOLUTION No. 31.

Mr. HINDMAN. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 31, Printer's No. 111.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

In the House of Representatives, March 8, 1939.

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has for years carried on a broad program for the eradication of tuberculosis; and

Whereas, the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has from time to time established institutions for the care and treatment of persons suffering from tuberculosis; and

Whereas, the disease continues to spread, principally because of the ease of contagion and also because of the difficulty and length of treatment necessary to properly curb and combat it, and accordingly the question has arisen as to whether the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania is providing a sufficient number of such institutions for the proper hospitalization of tuberculosis patients; therefore be it

Resolved, That the Department of Health of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania report to the House of Representatives the following information:

(1) The number of tuberculosis patients who, during the last twelve months, have made application for admission to state tuberculosis institutions and who continue to await admission thereto.

(2) The number of beds in state institutions now occupied by tuberculosis patients.

(3) The number of vacant beds now available in such institutions.

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. REYNOLDS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House.

On March 7th the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Hindman, asked and received unanimous consent to address the house. He spoke relative to a Tuberculosis Hospital in Butler County. During the course of his address, he made the statement that "Negroes are especially prone to tuberculosis" and this is the statement that I wish to refute, because if this statement is allowed to stand as true, it will have an unfavorable reaction on the Negro race as a whole. I do not believe the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Hindman, for whom I have the highest regard, intended such to be true. However any race so branded is bound to suffer if the true facts are not brought to light. The gentleman cited certain statistical figures to prove his statement. The figures he quoted may be true and the percentage of tuberculosis among negroes may be higher than it is among whites. But what is the cause of this obviously high morbidity and mortality rate among negroes and why must they be singled out of the general population to be affected more heavily with this dreaded disease? Can it be biological, or fixed difference in the racial resistance or is it not because of economic conditions in which the negro finds himself, in this great state?

Eminent physicians in the field of medicine bear out the fact that the high percentage of tuberculosis among negroes is forced upon them because of the conditions under which they have to live. A number of scientifically conducted surveys in recent years have more than substantiated the conclusion that the doctrine of racial immunity and susceptibility has but small basis in fact as far as tuberculosis is concerned and also the argument has been used largely by statisticians and students of the subject to cover up and explain obvious discrepancies in the medical protection and supervision afforded different racial groups. Bushnell, made a study of the records of the department of health of Charleston, South Carolina, which extended back to 1822 before the Emancipation. He found that the death rate from tuberculosis of the slaves during the period 1822 to 1865 was lower than that for the whites, but that following the Emancipation this group was made to live under very unfavorable conditions and thus the rate was higher.

Ulmar, Ornstein and Dittler, in their study of tuberculosis found only twenty-one cases among a group of 1000 colored nurses caring for open cases of tuberculosis at Sea View Hospital in a five year period. Dr. Ornstein in reviewing this work in a recent publication made the following statement—"yet in spite of the advanced disease which prevailed among the patients cared for by this group of Negro nurses, the type of infection which they contracted was identical in appearance with the disease in the majority of whites, most of the young ladies came from hospitals in the southern states, chiefly North Carolina, Virginia, Florida. Some of them had their training in the local municipal Hospitals. The group as a whole, was a fine cross section of the Negro in the east. Here is definite proof against racial susceptibility to tuberculosis infection. This group worked among open tubercular cases"—Dr. Ornstein is medical Director of Sea View Hospital.

Mr. Speaker I feel these surveys prove that under the same conditions the negro is no more susceptible to tuberculosis than any other group. Disease travels hand in hand with ignorance, poor personal hygiene, unsanitary living conditions, poverty and poor conditions for work and play regardless of race, and those who lie prostrate at the foot of the economic ladder are the ones most apt to contract tuberculosis. Those who are forced to live in the neglected gutters of our towns and cities, in the alleys, along the railroad tracks and beside the dumps and marshes it is they, regardless of race or color, who will suffer most this dreaded disease.

Mr. Speaker, I am hopeful that the people of the State of Pennsylvania will face this problem fairly and impartially. The negro would not represent such a large per cent of the tuberculosis if they were given equal opportunities economically. In many instances the door of opportunity is closed to them, they are forced on the relief rolls, they are forced to live in many instances in rat-ridden houses, they are refused employment because they are negroes.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I believe that the state of Pennsylvania would do well to investigate this thing and see to it that the Negro population of Pennsylvania is given an equal opportunity to make a living, in order that they might give themselves the same medical care and protection, and in order that they might rid themselves of this stigma that Dr. Hindman has referred to. I do not believe that he intended to hurt the Negroes, because I have the highest regard for Dr. Hindman. However, he was stating the facts as they were given to him and I hope that a survey will be made. I hope that this Legislature will make an investigation and see to it that no race of people is subjected to living in a state where they are not given equal rights and privileges and the opportunity to work in utilities that gain thousands and thousands of dollars of Negro money in the state of Pennsylvania. I hope that we will face this fact, not as Negroes but as American citizens. I am for the resolution.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, March 29, 1939

The Senate met at 12:30 o'clock, p. m.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Samuel S. Lewis) in the Chair.

PRAYER

In the absence of the Chaplain the Rev. FRANK W. RUTH, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, Our Heavenly Father, we come to Thee this morning. We thank Thee for life and for all the opportunities that Thou hast given us to exercise the privileges of life on this beautiful day. We pray that we may understand that after all the turmoil and disturbing elements in the world there comes a new life into the world. So may it be in our life, that there may be a new attitude, the attitude of brotherhood and love, that we, in our place and in our positions may do everything we can to promote this brotherhood throughout our State and Nation and throughout the world; that the time may speedily come for which we have prayed so long, that every knee shall bow and every tongue shall confess that Thou art Lord indeed, and of all creation. We ask it in our Master's Holy name, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. OWLETT and Mr. HOMSHER, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. SHAPIRO, the Senator from Philadelphia, asked and obtained leave of absence for himself, for Monday, April 3, 1939.

Mr. STIEFEL, the Senator from Philadelphia, asked and obtained leave of absence for himself, for Monday, April 3, 1939.

Mr. JASPAN, the Senator from Philadelphia, asked and obtained leave of absence for himself, for Monday, April 3, 1939.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Shapiro, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SHAPIRO. Mr. President, yesterday, or the day before, Monday evening, I read in the record at the direction of the Democratic caucus a letter which had been addressed to the Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. I want to say here and now that that letter was not my letter; the letter was the expression of the opinion of the Democratic caucus in the Senate. In reply to that letter I have received a communication from the Governor which, I feel, in fairness to him, ought to be submitted into the record as a part of the matter referred to in my letter to him; and I therefore read the letter as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, March 28, 1939.

My dear Senator:

This will acknowledge receipt of your letter of March 27th, notifying me that the Democratic Senators had decided in caucus not to accept my invitation for luncheon today. I regret exceedingly that a misunderstanding should have resulted in you and your colleagues making this decision. However, I can understand very well your desire not to condone what you consider an "insult" to one of your number.

Let me say that at no time since my inauguration have I attempted to make myself inaccessible to any person, Senator, or otherwise, who has any claim upon my time. My office has been open long hours almost daily, and I have devoted my first attention to listening to those who wish to discuss State affairs.

Concerning the episode referred to in your letter, let me point out the following:

1. The Senator referred to, who had made no previous engagement, arrived at my office after the conference he desired to attend was virtually complete—within a few minutes of the time when it broke up.

2. The Senator did not appear with a group of his constituents.

3. Neither he nor the spokesman for the group had indicated that the Senator had been expected.

4. Another Senator who came with the group was admitted without question.

5. It is obviously necessary for the protection of the interests of those who have appointments with me, as well as for the conservation of my own time, that those who do not arrive for appointments on time make some special advance provision for their admission during these conferences, or at least give the Receptionist or the Secretary, ample time to bring the matter to my attention.

Under these circumstances, I cannot see basis for your statement that an insult was offered one of your colleagues. I regret that the Senator feels himself affronted.

Let me further say that neither the unfortunate episode which is the basis of the action by your colleagues, nor this action itself, will change my policy of granting free access to my office to Senators of either party who come by appointment.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) ARTHUR H. JAMES

Honorable Harry Shapiro,
Senate of Pennsylvania,
Harrisburg, Pennsylvania.

I want to correct what would seem to be the attitude from this letter, that the letter that I sent was not a personal letter but was a letter reflecting the action of the caucus and upon the instructions of the caucus.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I should like to say a few words in reply to the letter of the Governor, just read by Senator Shapiro. At the outset let me say that I have nothing personally against the Governor in this world and that I hope to meet him in the world to come under the healing trees that shade the waters of the eternal river.

I first met the Governor in 1929. In the year of grace 1929, the Pennsylvania Historical Commission erected a number of markers along the trail, along the line of march of the army of General Sullivan, from Easton over to Wilkes-Barre and on up the Susquehanna into central New York—an expedition ordered by George Washington against the Five Nations of New York.

One of the markers erected by the Historical Commission during that year was a marker at Wilkes-Barre, marking the site of Fort Wyoming, which was erected there in 1779 by General John J. Sullivan.

I was invited, as a collateral descendant of General Sullivan, to make the historical address on the occasion of the dedication of that monument, and Arthur H. James, then Lieutenant-Governor of Pennsylvania, also spoke. I found him a very pleasant gentleman.

Now, I am perfectly willing to accept the word of the Governor that he knew nothing of my presence in his reception room until this conference between the Governor and certain farmers from my district and adjacent counties was over; but, accepting his word that he knew nothing about my presence until the conference was over, I am forced to the conclusion that his secretary, Mr. Green, did not convey to the Governor the three messages that I sent in with him, seeking to be permitted to take part in that conference.

I could not look through the walls into the Governor's office after Mr. Green left the reception room and went into the Governor's office; for all I know Mr. Green may have been talking to Andy Gump in there or he may have been talking to Colonel Estes, for all I know.

I simply know this, that I had no trouble whatever in getting before the Milk Control Board in the conference the farmers had there; I know that when I arrived at the reception room of the Governor the lady receptionist told me that the farmers had just gone in; I know that I told her who I was and I know that she wrote my name down and took it into the Governor's office and remained there for at least four or five minutes and then came out and told me that the Governor's secretary would be out to see me.

I waited what seemed to be an age-long time, but which was not, probably, actually more than five minutes, for the arrival of the secretary. He did not come and then I sent the young lady in to him with this message to urge him to come out promptly, that I feared the Governor's conference would be over before I could get in.

Then the young lady went in the second time and brought the secretary out. I have nothing personal against the secretary, but I frankly say that I did not like the method of his approach to me. With a great deal of scornful emphasis he said to me "I know you; I have been over in the Senate and heard you." But I sent him in with the message that I wanted to get into this conference. After arguing a while he went in; then came out with the information that I could not get in. I have already told the Senate that I sent him in three times but was not able to get in myself.

I want at this point to correct a newspaper account of my appearance at the Governor's office, namely, the account that is in this morning's Pittsburgh Post-Gazette, where the writer, whoever he is, Mr. Dressler, or whoever he is, quotes that secretary as saying that I said to the secretary that I did not want to see any blankety-blank Governor. I never said such thing; I never, neither in the Governor's office or anywhere else, referred to him as a blankety-blank Governor.

I want to further correct the statement in the Post-Gazette this morning that I referred to the secretary as a blankety-blank secretary. I never did—either in the Governor's office or anywhere else.

You know, Mr. President, newspapers differ just like individuals differ; some are very fair and broad-minded and others are not. There is a certain type of newspaper that wraps itself in the beautiful blue and white and crimson folds of yonder heaven-born starry banner of the free and shouts about the freedom of the press until the very heavens ring, while, as a matter of fact, the only kind of freedom that such newspapers are interested in is the freedom for themselves to tell one side of a story to the exclusion of the other; freedom to color news, freedom to distort, freedom to misrepresent, freedom to engage in sneaking and cowardly innuendo.

I am sending back the true story of my experience in the Governor's office, sending it to the newspapers of my district; and it will be published there. The people of my district know me well enough to know that I am a truthful man, they know me well enough to know that I would not refer to any governor as a blankety-blank governor or to his secretary as a blankety-blank secretary; but I am saying through my newspapers that it would be much better to fire an incompetent secretary than to try to excuse him, much better indeed to do that; and I want to assure you, Mr. President and the members of the Senate, that I am not grieving personally because I did not get into the conference after fifteen minutes of trying to do so. I am not broken hearted because I know hundreds of Republicans in Pennsylvania, orthodox Republicans, who worked hard for Arthur H. James, who told me that they cannot get to see him, who told me that some person has built such a wall around the Governor, for those election they worked so hard, that even they, orthodox Republicans, cannot get to see him; and some of them seem to think that probably Colonel Estes is the wall builder. So that those Republicans and I sort of sympathize together.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. SIPE. Now, Mr. President, while I am on my feet may I continue for about two minutes on a question of personal privilege?

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Armstrong, Mr. Sipe, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SIPE. Mr. President, I rise again to protest against the false economy in the Governor's decision to lock up the Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium for two years. I want to read into the record a partial account of a large protest meeting that was held in the City of Butler yesterday, a meeting composed of high-class lawyers, high-class bankers, high-class businessmen of that county—mostly Republicans—who worked hard to get that institution of mercy located in Butler county.

Here is a part of the newspaper account—I am reading from the Butler Eagle, of March 28, 1939:

OPENING OF NEW SANATORIUM NEAR BUTLER IS ADVOCATED BY GROUP OF 50 AT MEETING

Governor Arthur H. James was urged to open Butler's Western Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Sanatorium, now nearing completion, in a resolution unanimously adopted yesterday by a group of fifty civic, medical and welfare leaders.

Addressing a luncheon meeting in the Nixon hotel, Dr. C. Howard Marcy, medical director of the Pittsburgh Tuberculosis League and secretary of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Society said he believed the governor had been "misinformed" when he recommended the local institution be kept closed for two years.

Declaring the closing order to be a "short sighted policy and not good public health practice," Dr. Marcy told his audience a large waiting list of tuberculosis patients, needing hospitalization, ought to be provided for.

"The state should not economize at the expense of the sick and needy," he said. These individuals are a source of danger to society because they are infecting other persons.

Dr. William F. Pohl, head of the local tuberculosis clinic, estimated at least 21 Butler County patients are on the waiting list and that others are in such condition they should make application.

Dr. Marcy explained Allegheny County has a waiting list of 160, and that other Western Pennsylvania counties report an inability to get patients into any hospital.

The nearest state institution at Cresson is 120 miles distant, a serious handicap to victims of the disease and their relatives in the Western part of the state he said.

Because of delays 80 per cent of patients reaching institutions have almost reached the hopeless stage, he said, explaining that early treatment is most necessary.

Usually it takes from four to six months to get an applicant into a state institution, he said. Often this delay produces fatal results that could easily have been prevented.

Referring to the official waiting list of the state health department standing at 611, Dr. Marcy said the figures didn't mean much, because (1) no one over 50 years of age can be admitted, (2) no aliens are eligible, and (3) many patients needing hospitalization make no application because of the futility of the situation.

"I can see no sensible reason why the Butler sanatorium should not be opened," the speaker said. "The more adequate provision we make now, the less we shall have to pay later."

"It is a question of public opinion. If the public can be brought to understand the vital need of the Butler institution, it will be opened."

He was introduced by Judge John H. Wilson. The meeting was opened by Arthur O. Black, president of the Chamber of Commerce. A brief resume of the present situation was given by J. Campbell Brandon, chairman.

Resolution which was adopted follows:

"Whereas, Pennsylvania is in need today of approximately 3,800 additional hospital beds for tuberculosis sufferers in order to reach the standard of two beds per death, and,

"Whereas, The new sanatorium in Butler county was planned for 550 beds, and new accommodations at Mount Alto and Hamburg are to provide 738 additional sanatorium beds, or a total of 1,288 beds, which represents only one-third of the 3,800 additional beds Pennsylvania needs, and,

"Whereas, There are approximately 44,000 cases of tuberculosis in Pennsylvania at the present time, and at a conservative estimate, at least 12,000 of these are in need of hospital treatment, and

"Whereas, There is a dire need for provision for additional hospital beds for tuberculosis victims, and

"Whereas, The Western Pennsylvania Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Butler, costing taxpayers of this Commonwealth in excess of $2,500,000 is now nearing completion, and

"Whereas, The governor recently recommended to the legislature in his budget message that the sanatorium be not opened for two years,

"Therefore, be it hereby resolved, That this organization respectfully petition Governor Arthur H. James and his secretary of health to reconsider the needs of the state's tuberculosis victims and that a sufficient amount be included in the budget for the opening and operating of the Western Pennsylvania sanatorium, the only institution of its kind in this section of the Commonwealth.

"And be it further resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent the governor, the secretary of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and to members of the state legislature from the Butler district and to state and county tuberculosis associations of Pennsylvania."

Now, Mr. President, I do not conceal the fact that I feel deeply about this decision of the Governor to lock up the Butler Tuberculosis Sanatorium for two years.

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, I know what a dread disease tuberculosis is and how it baffles medical skill unless treated properly in time.

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, more than thirty-five years ago this dread disease snuffed out the life of my lovely and brilliant sister on the threshold of her young womanhood. With aching heart I saw her gasp for breath. With aching heart I saw the crimson life blood gush from her lovely lips. As we laid her down to sleep the last long sleep amid the familiar scenes of her childhood, as we saw the earth close over her beautiful face—I thought, Mr. President, of her brilliant, broken plans; I thought of her baffled high ambition; I thought how tragic it was that one so gifted should have a life so brief; but I did not think that I should ever see the day when a Governor of Pennsylvania, for the saving of a few, cold dollars, would lock up a tuberculosis sanatorium for two years, and thus fail to prevent a recurrence of this grief and suffering in hundreds of other families.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Somerset, Mr. Ealy, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. EALY. Mr. President, I can well appreciate the fact that the Senator from Butler-Armstrong would feel some disappointment that this new State building would not be open immediately. I can appreciate the fact that the people there would like to have it finished. It is possible also and natural that the Senator from Armstrong would have told the people of his district how much he had worked to secure the location of this institution there, and he would feel naturally disappointed not to be able to take a prominent part early in the dedicatory ceremonies connected with the opening of that institution.

I do not know, Mr. President, what led the General Authority to select the town of Butler or the county of Butler for this institution. If they had chosen a site on the basis of the most beautiful location in Pennsylvania and the most healthful, they would have given much more consideration to one of the numerous available sites in my own county of Somerset; but, however that may be, there is another story, another picture to this case.

None of us would want to have the people who are afflicted with this dread disease not to receive proper treatment; but this matter has been thoroughly investigated by the Department of Health and by the doctors connected with it, and the Secretary of Health has made a statement, which I think has been published in the newspapers of the State, in regard to this situation.

He says: "The sanatorium at Butler, which is being built for the hospitalization of tuberculosis patients, is now 55% completed. After consulting with the General State Authority I find that they are of the opinion that it will not be finished until late next fall. When it is finished the equipment and maintenance for 550 patients to the end of the next biennium will cost $1,321,200. The institution will be finished, but we cannot make any arrangements at the present time for its equipment and maintenance because the money is not available without some form of new taxation. Therefore, it was decided without some form of new taxation. Therefore, it was decided with all concerned to just finish the sanatorium at Butler at this time, and if conditions warrant it, at a later date, ways and means might be found to equip and maintain it if we found that it was necessary to do so.

At the present time extensions have been made to Mont Alto and Hamburg Sanatoria which will be finished, equipped and ready for occupancy on October 1, 1939, which will give us a bed capacity at these two institutions, without using any of the old buildings at Mont Alto, of 2,068 an increase of 508 beds over the present capacity. Utilizing the present old buildings at Mont Alto, except the Children's Hospital, and including Cresson and Hamburg Sanatoria, gives us a total bed capacity of 3,511. Our present capacity at these three institutions is 2,384.

On March 1, 1939, we had a waiting list of 611. On October 1, 1939, when the above extensions are completed, equipped and ready for occupancy at Mont Alto and Hamburg, we will be able to absorb the waiting list with the exception of 105 patients without using any of the old buildings at Mont Alto. The situation therefore is as follows:

Using the new buildings and the old buildings, with the exception of the Children's Hospital, and Mont Alto Sanatorium, Hamburg Sanatorium with its new extensions, and Cresson Sanatorium, give us a bed capacity of

3,511 patients. The present capacity of existing building at the three institutions, plus the waiting list of 611 gives a total of 2,995 patients. Thus we will absorb the waiting list as of March 1, 1939, and still have 516 beds for any additional waiting list that may be assumed in the future months."

The Secretary of Health, who has made this statement, makes it plain that the provisions which are being made and which will be completed, equipped and all, before the building itself will be completed at Butler, will be sufficient to take care of all present requirements and if it should be necessary, if the waiting list increases and it should be necessary to get more hospitalization, means will then have to be found and will be found, no doubt, as the State has always been ready to take care of patients.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Luzerne, Mr. Mundy will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, as one who has practiced medicine for more than 31 years in the State of Pennsylvania, I have had occasion to be at the bedside of a great many people who suffered from the dread disease of tuberculosis.

In the early days of our progress we were wont to accept conditions as they presented themselves at that time. We did not have the facilities of sanatoria nor did we have the advantages of the advanced research work which has been conducted in the study of tuberculosis.

I vision men who spent their lives and their life's energy, with very little remuneration, to try to find some solution to this grave problem which confronted the citizenry not only of this state but of the world at large.

I cannot conceive in my wildest imagination how anybody a Senator particularly—would rise on this floor and indulge in levity or that anybody could laugh when the consideration of such a serious problem is presented on the floor of this Senate.

This problem involves the health and morale and the future happiness of a great many citizens of the State of Pennsylvania. It is a very, very grave and a very, very serious problem which confronts us, and when we talk of human life and when we talk of human futility, it should be in the attitude of seriousness when such a problem is considered.

I come from Luzerne County, and I do not intend to be present at any dedicatory exercises out in Senator Sipe's county; do not hope to receive any benefit excepting the fact that as a member of a great profession I rise on the floor to defend this problem which now presents itself.

I conceive that, even coming from the remote section of Luzerne, I have a perfect right to get on this floor and speak on these problems as they are presented to us. While in the past I have used very little of the Senate in speaking on the floor, I am going to ask the indulgence of the members of the Senate while I present this problem.

Mr. MUNDY. Mr. President, I am fully appreciative of the fact that the cost of all Government has increased at such a rapid rate that it is almost impossible to provide funds to meet these gigantic expenditures.

And now, Mr. President, I will interrupt myself to read an editorial of the Pittsburgh Press, of March 27th, which has a caption in headlines, "Legislature Should Intervene," and in this editorial in the Press it states that Governor James bases his decision upon a report of two cabinet officers that other sanatoria expansion also under construction will provide ample room for patients now on hospitalization waiting lists.

Let me say to the Senator from Somerset, that after all we are presented with a problem and we have to meet that problem in actuality and reality; and when the Governor comes down to the department and asks for economies, it is very easy, Senator Ealy, to call in a group of statisticians to justify the curtailment of expenditures.

Under the Democratic Administration, and I have also noticed during the new Republican Administration, it is very easy to have anybody working in your department to present figures and facts as to say, "Yes, Mr. Governor, that is perfectly all right." But what you need in there, or you should need in there, is somebody with enough red blood to say that is striking at the vital interest of the people of Pennsylvania and it does not concern any economy:

LEGISLATURE SHOULD INTERVENE

The decision of Gov. Arthur H. James to save money by letting the new four million-dollar 550-bed Butler tuberculosis sanitarium to be completed next Fall, stand idle for two years is developing considerable opposition, particularly among groups in close contact with the fight against this dread disease.

Governor James based his decision upon reports of two cabinet officers that other sanatoria expansion also under construction will provide ample room for patients now on hospitalization waiting lists. Dr. S. Howard Marcy, secretary of the Pennsylvania Tuberculosis League, asserts that present facilities and those under construction will not meet the need for treatment.

Even if the Butler institution is utilized to the limit of its capacity, Dr. Marcy says, all the tuberculosis sufferers needing hospitalization could not be cared for.

Dr. Marcy estimates that 9,800 persons in Pennsylvania need hospitalization for tuberculosis. Public and private hospitals now accommodate 4,562. As the League secretary points out, "this leaves more than 3,000 patients, without hope of hospital care. Only 738 of them can be absorbed by facilities now under construction. And even Butler Hospital would provide only 550 beds.

Dr. Marcy adds:

"What happens to the rest of them? Most of them receive treatment at home, we hope, or at dispensaries . . . But what of their families? What of society? How many persons will be exposed to one patient's germs in a theater or a church?"

These are important questions, and directly bear on the question of whether there is any real economy in trying to save a few thousand dollars for hospital equipment now when lack of facilities threatens to spread the disease, increasing the demands for care in the future. Tending to support their argument is the fact that, after a steady decline for ten years, the State's tuberculosis mortality rate began climbing in 1937, and continued upward in 1938.

Dr. Marcy, it seems to us, has made out at least a strong prima facie case against the Governor's position. And, faced with the alarming fact of an increasing tuberculosis death rate, Pennsylvania cannot afford to neglect any effort which will help stamp out this plague.

If the Governor's cabinet officers and leaders in the campaign against tuberculosis cannot agree as to the needs, we feel that the Legislature should step in and investigate for itself, then appropriate whatever funds are necessary. Pennsylvania was a leader among states in stamping out tuberculosis among its cattle, so that its milk supply would be free of this bacilli. Thousands of dollars were appropriated for this work.

Surely the State can take no less generous attitude toward human sufferers of the disease. And if there are tuberculars in the State needing the facilities of the new Butler Hospital, it should be promptly opened to them. That is the only path to true economy.

In the early days of this Session I was impressed by certain statements that the policy outlined by the new Governor in his campaign pledges were to be adhered to. Business was to be relieved of burdensome taxes by a vigorous policy of retrenchment. Taxes imposed in the 1935-37 Session were to be repealed. These promises have been repudiated. Absolutely no new taxes were to be levied. With the introduction of new bills in the last week entailing additional expenditures, I fear that the last promise will also soon be but a "myth."

We read a great deal in the newspapers about the discharge of unnecessary employees as thousands of small job holders were thrown back on the relief rolls. Now we listen to the complaints of the many Departments that they are under-manned and therefore cannot function promptly and efficiently.

We were heartily in sympathy with the curtailment of expenditures where such curtailment did not seriously affect the function of Government, or where it did not vitally affect the welfare of our citizens.

I believe that the most precious assets a Commonwealth has is to be found in the state of happiness and health of its people. To curtail the relief or work relief program seriously affect both. To deprive hospitals of badly needed funds seriously affects the health of the Community. The majority of this Senate has voted thousand of dollars of expenditures to further investigations borne in political hatred and fostered by pride of the vindication of personal prejudice in order to justify the appropriation of funds for this purpose, the Governor has seen fit to cut the appropriation of the institutions which safeguard the welfare and health of the people of this State.

Outstanding among these was the refusal to furnish funds for the new tuberculous hospital at Butler, Pennsylvania, although this State has a serious problem facing it from this angle. Thousands of poor tuberculous patients are anxiously awaiting the only hope of recovery afforded by proper institutional care. Everywhere throughout Pennsylvania hollowed eyed, undernourished men, woman and children were living on that single hope, only now to learn that the door of the house of restoration to health has been empirically closed by the Governor to those he recently promised so much.

As they expectorate they are startled to see that crimson streak against a background of white portending early death, they turn their eyes toward a great brownstone mansion along the river front in this city to try to learn if within the warmth of those magnificently appointed surroundings there was a heart which beat in sympathy and unison with theirs.

Mr. President, To those who advised the Governor of this Commonwealth that the closing of the Butler Sanitarium was economy, I say that they are totally ignorant of the facts, lack courage to properly present the case, or are indifferent to the affect on the Commonwealth.

The cure of a tuberculous patient is most readily effected in the early stages of the disease. It means for them cessation of all activity, including work. These patients physically sick, economically void, shunned by fellow men, need encouragement and help in order to rehabilitate them.

In Pennsylvania this feature was too long neglected and just when a ray of hope came into their life, the new head of the Health Department agreed with the Governor that the closure of the Butler Sanatorium was a proper economy.
